GERMAN RADIO INDUSTRY

The past year has not been altogether satisfactory in the German radio industry, three big manufacturing firms having closed down. The reason for these failures is partly to be found in the management and is partly due to the overstocking of the domestic market, where sales were poor in 1935-36, while the export business was fairly brisk, sales having increased by nearly two and a half million marks since 1934-35. However, the home market shows signs of improvement, and the Radio Exhibition will probably revive business. The question of cost is of paramount importance for future development, and if this can be solved there is a big market among the country people, only 10 per cent. of whom have got a wireless, as compared with 50 per cent. of the town tradespeople.

DUBLIN DISTRICT COURT

CO. MONAGHAN FRAUD CHARGES

SIX MEN SENT FOR TRIAL

FALSE INSURANCE POLICIES ALLEGED

(BEFORE MR. LITTLE.)

FRANCIS DALY, insurance agent, Castleblayney; Francis Burns, insurance agent, Ballybay; Laurence Donaghy, grocer's assistant; James Carragher, licensed vintner; Hugh Doherty, labourer, and Patrick McQuaid, shop assistant, all of Castleblayney, who had been remanded on charges in connection with the issue of alleged false insurance policies, were returned for trial, to the Circuit Court.

In the case of Daly and Burns bail was fixed at £2,000 each, with independent bail of £1,000 and £500 in each case, or three bails of £500 each; and in the case of the other accused men their existing bail amounts were allowed to stand.

Daly was charged with forging and uttering proposal forms, claim forms, and death certificates, to defraud the Prudential Assurance Company, and with having obtained money by false pretences by virtue of these documents. Burns was similarly charged, and the other accused men were charged with conspiracy in connection with the alleged frauds.

Mr. J. A. McCarthy, K.C. (instructed by Mr. O'Donovan, Chief State Solicitor's Office), prosecuted on behalf of the State; Mr. E. H. Burne, solicitor, represented the Prudential Assurance Company; Mr. M. McGilligan (instructed by Messrs. J. G. Reid and Co.) appeared for Daly; Mr. Walter Molony (instructed by Messrs. O'Hanlon and Robinson) for Burns; Mr. C. Laverty, solicitor, for Carragher, Doherty and McQuaid; and Mr. James O'Connor, solicitor, for Donaghy.

OFFICIALS' EVIDENCE

Patrick J. Sheehan, district superintendent of the Prudential Assurance Company, residing at Iona Drive, Glasnevin, Dublin, was called as a witness yesterday, and identified his signature on a form completed for insurance on the life of Essie MacDonald. A proposal form in connection with this policy was, he said, to the best of his knowledge, in the handwriting of Daly. He identified the handwriting of Francis Burns on proposal forms shown to him by Mr. McCarthy. He had, he said, control of the two agents, Francis Daly and Francis Burns, when County Monaghan was in his area.

John Joseph Conlon, assistant superintendent of the Prudential Assurance Company for Clones area, said that a signature on a document shown to him by Mr. McCarthy bore a resemblance to Daly's writing.

William Wright, divisional assistant superintendent, Prudential Assurance Company, said that he had received an insurance form from Daly, who introduced to him in County Monaghan a woman whose name was given as Essie MacDonald. Having seen the woman, he signed the form, which contained Daly's signature. The woman died shortly afterwards.

Martin Kelly, assistant superintendent, Prudential Assurance Company, Dundalk, said that a number of Daly's and Burns's books were left in shops for, he had been told, the convenience of the public. The practice of leaving books in shops prevailed in other places also, but to a lesser extent.

Patrick Browne, Glasheen road, Cork, divisional assistant superintendent in Cork, said that in 1934 he was divisional assistant superintendent in the area that included Castleblayney. A proposal form shown to him with reference to John McArdle, Castleblayney, was in his handwriting, with the exception of the proposal signature. The area concerned was Daly's agency area.

John Beechman, a postman, said that Main street, Castleblayney, was in his area. He had never got a letter addressed "Mary Jane Somerville, Castleblayney," and never had known of such a woman being there. He had delivered in Carragher's public-house letters addressed to Francis Daly.

Francis Bates, sub-agent, Bank of Ireland, Castleblayney, said that James Carragher had two joint deposit accounts in that bank.

DEPOSIT ACCOUNTS

J. G. L. Vance, agent, Royal Bank, Castleblayney, said that Carragher had a deposit account in that bank, and Daly and Donaghy also had deposit accounts there.

A. Cunningham, sub-agent, Munster and Leinster Bank, Castleblayney, said that Daly had an account in that bank.

J. Cooper, of the head office of the Prudential Assurance Company in Dublin, said that his company had received from Francis Daly certified copies of entries in the book of deaths, of the deaths of James Carroll, John Hatzer, Mary Burns, Mary Lynch, Peter Conlon, and Sarah Bradley.

J. G. Ryle, of the Registrar-General's Office, Dublin, said that there was no statutory return from the district concerned, showing the deaths of John Hatzer, Mary Burns, Peter Conlon, Sarah Bradley and thirteen other persons.

Captain Quekett, handwriting expert, gave evidence regarding the writing on a number of documents.

John Reid, Lindsay road, Dublin, assistant manager of Messrs. A. Thom and Co., printers, said that his firm supplied the Stationery Office, Dublin, including death certificates for the Registrar-General's Office. The paper for all Stationery Office supplies was made to special order, and precautions were taken to ensure that it would not get into unauthorised hands. He had examined the certificate forms submitted to him by Mr. McCarthy, and he believed that the forms were genuine certificate forms printed by his firm.

John Butterly, an official of the Stationery Office, identified six of the certificate forms submitted to him, as forms supplied by the Stationery Office.

This concluded the evidence, and the men were returned for trial, as stated.

Sergeant D. Curtin, of the Civic Guard, stated that on the night mentioned he visited the premises with two Guards in plain clothes, and saw a man paying for two pints of porter or stout. There were men in the billiard room with glasses of porter or stout before them.

Edward O'Neill, secretary of the club, said that there was a billiard competition in the club on the night referred to, and he served one drink that night after closing hours.

DISAPPEARANCE OF £17

(BEFORE MR. HANNAN.)

It was stated during the hearing of evidence in the Juvenile Court in connection with a charge against two boys, aged eight years and nine years, of having broken into the confectionery shop, 145 Lower Baggot street, and stolen goods valued at £1 10s. 4d., that the boys had admitted the offence and said that they took only cigarettes and chocolates, and did not take any money, as they were afraid to go near the cash register for fear that their finger-prints would be taken, as they had no gloves.

Where, asked the Justice, did you learn about finger-prints being taken?

The boys replied that they had seen it on the pictures.

These lads, with three others, were charged with having broken into the fish and poultry shop of Messrs. Sawers, Chatham street, and stolen goods and caused damage to the extent of £8.

It was stated that the boys removed lobsters and sardines to the front office and ate them, and that they admitted the offence.

The boys were all remanded for further inquiries.

Whiteabbey Scheme : Health Ministry Needed? : New Shops Act : Future of T.T. Race : Re-Schooling Belfast : A Newcastle Complaint

FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.

BELFAST, Friday.

THE Tuberculosis Committee of the Belfast Corporation is very dissatisfied with the decision of the Northern Ministry of Home Affairs in turning down their scheme for extending the existing Whiteabbey Sanatorium at a cost of £183,000. The ratepayers, however, will agree with the Ministry, expert medical opinion, and the Belfast Chamber of Trade that the site is unsuitable for a large sanatorium.

In fact, it has always been a mystery why the site was ever chosen for an institution of this kind. It would be folly to enter upon a large capital expenditure at this site when there are many more suitable places available. The Ministry of Home Affairs have made it clear that they are not opposed to the Committee putting forward schemes for tuberculosis treatment, even if the expenditure is larger than that contemplated. The Committee is anxious, naturally, to provide the best facilities possible for the treatment of this disease, and their efforts in some directions in the past have met with undoubted success. The ratepayers will approve of the decision taken by the Committee to request the City Medical Officer (Dr. Thomson), the Chief Tuberculosis Officer (Dr. Trimble) and Dr. Walker, of the sanatorium, to put forward a new scheme which will include proposals for accommodation for adults suffering from tuberculosis and the provision of hospitals for young people suffering from pulmonary tuberculosis, and at least two open-air schools for delicate children. The more the Committee proceeds along the line of treating the disease in the early stages, and particularly assisting delicate children to overcome the threat of tuberculosis, the better the citizens will be pleased. In the school medical service there is available a quick method of tracing delicate children, and this should be utilised to the full extent.

A Health Ministry

The chief complaint of the Tuberculosis Committee is that they were permitted by the Ministry of Home Affairs to proceed with the preliminary investigations for four years, to prepare plans for the sanatorium extension, and that when they had incurred an expenditure of about £12,000 they were informed that the Ministry would not permit the extension.

A correspondent inquires what confidence can the public or the medical profession have in this kind of public health administration. He urges the establishment either of a Ministry of Health or a Board of Health to co-ordinate all the public health and hospital services in Northern Ireland. A Local Government Commission sat for three years, from 1924 to 1927, investigating this and other local government matters, but no very definite action has yet been taken in regard to the important recommendations of that committee. A few minor adjustments have been made, but the main problem of co-ordinating all the services has been shelved, although the chairman of the committee, Professor R. J. Johnston, M.P., has urged that the recommendations should be brought into operation as soon as possible. Practically all the British Dominions have a Board of Health or Ministry, and many Northern doctors are of the opinion that a similar Board would perform a useful service in Northern Ireland. The Ministry of Agriculture is performing excellent service in improving the quality of live-stock, but equally necessary is a systematic attack on preventible disease which is undermining the capacity and efficiency of the people. This, in the long run, is a waste, both financially and in human life, which might be prevented to a great extent by better co-operation between the medical profession and governing authorities. Dr. Kidd, of Enniskillen, has advocated also the establishment of a Statutory Advisory Council, an independent body, with the right of reporting directly to Parliament, so that it would be beyond the sphere of party and professional politicians.

The British Medical Association is to meet in Belfast next year, with Professor R. J. Johnston, M.P., as President. This seems an opportune time for Northern Ireland to make a big stride forward in public health administration.

New Shops Act

It has been evident for several years that a new Shops Act is required in Northern Ireland. A new Act was brought into operation recently in Great Britain, and it was suggested that this might be applied to Northern Ireland.

It was found, however, that there was considerable divergences of opinion among those interested in shops as to the suitability of the British Act for Northern Ireland. The Northern Minister of Home Affairs has appointed a committee to inquire into the whole subject and to report upon the variations that would be necessary in any new Act for Northern Ireland. Conditions in Northern Ireland in many respects are not comparable with those existing in Great Britain. Any system adopted in Northern Ireland must possess a certain amount of elasticity and provide for differentiation in regard both to localities and trades. What might suit seaside resorts might be inappropriate in the case of a country district and equally unsuitable for an industrial town. Regulations which might suit one type of trade would be difficult to apply to another, and even regulations for the same trade might require variation for different localities. Now that wages are paid in many industrial establishments on Thursday evening, it ought to be possible to have more extensive closing of shops on Saturday afternoon. These shops could remain open a little later on Friday evenings. The midweek closing is an inconvenience in many districts, and the great majority of shopkeepers and their assistants would prefer Saturday afternoon, instead of Wednesday afternoon, for the weekly half-holiday.

Future of T.T. Races

The deplorable disaster at the Tourist Trophy Race, when eight people were killed and many injured, raises the future of the race over the Ards course, if not the whole policy of road motor racing in Northern Ireland.

Many believe that the time has arrived, with the great increase in speed of sports models, when races of this character should be confined to prepared racing tracks, such as Brooklands. The motor car has been brought to such a high state of efficiency for ordinary road purposes that it is felt little more can be gained from a technical point of view by road racing, although long-distance reliability trials at normal road speeds might serve a useful technical purpose. Notwithstanding the unfortunate disaster at Newtownards, there is no general desire in the North to abandon the race; but there is a unanimous feeling that greater restrictions should be imposed for the safety of spectators. A wire stretched along the footpath is regarded as inadequate protection against cars careering at 100 miles an hour down streets lined on both sides with spectators. The fact that the Ards course goes through the towns of Newtownards and Comber has always been looked upon as a factor in its favour for testing the skill of the drivers, but it also provides great danger for spectators on the streets, who run grave risks when the cars skid at sharp corners. The Grand Prix motor cycle course near Belfast does not go through towns, and in this respect is a safer course than the Ards T.T.

The compensation of the injured and the relatives of those killed provides a big problem. All the cars were insured against third-party risks, but, as the compensation bill may reach £50,000, it is not known if the insurance has been ample.

Re-schooling Belfast

Since 1924 eighteen new schools, including two extensive enlargements, have been erected in Belfast, and the Belfast Education Committee have at present four more schools under construction. This building programme has been carried out at a cost of approximately £400,000, mainly provided by loan.

In 1919 the public health officers in Belfast reported that over 100 of the smaller schools in Belfast were "unsuitable for schools in point of structure and situation, and unsatisfactory in respect of light and air and surroundings." Since then 101 of these schools have ceased to exist, and the pupils have been transferred to the new buildings erected by the education authority. The imposition of an education levy of 1s. in the £ on the ratepayers by the Northern Government means the diverting of money from the local authorities to State purposes which might have been utilised in the building of new schools, which are still required in Belfast and country districts. Belfast needs not only elementary schools, but also half a dozen nursery schools and several municipal secondary schools. At the end of last year there were 65,036 public elementary school places in Belfast. Of this number 17,302 places were under Roman Catholic management in voluntary schools. Of the 47,734 places under Protestant management 39,629 are under the direct control of the education authority. The number of places under Protestant voluntary school managers is dwindling, so that a great responsibility for the future welfare of the rising generation—not only in a secular, but also a moral sense—rests upon the education authority. The increase in juvenile crime is a challenge to the effectiveness of the moral training and instruction in citizenship and honourable conduct imparted in the elementary schools under the control of the education authority. This is an aspect of education which is inclined to be neglected in the pursuit of material and secular matters; but it is one of far-reaching importance for the future welfare of the community and the building of character and ideals in citizenship. Teachers are not satisfied at the report on the inspection system, and are advocating methods of guidance rather than tests. Guidance in moral training and citizenship by inspectors, as well as in secular subjects, seems desirable in the interest of the State.

Newcastle's Complaint

There will be a good deal of support for the request put forward by the Newcastle Urban Council that an early morning train, arriving in Belfast about nine o'clock, should be operated on the County Down Railway system.

Newcastle is singularly unfortunate in the few early trains from Newcastle and late trains from Belfast. For a great portion of the year, except on one weekday, the last train from Belfast is 5.40 p.m. Newcastle might become a residential seaside town for many Belfast business men if the railway company would provide adequate travel facilities. It is only thirty-eight miles from Belfast, and, in view of the advance in the speed of rail travel, a good service of trains ought to be provided to do the journey, morning and evening, under three-quarters of an hour. Many Belfast business people who would prefer to spend several months in the summer at Newcastle and travel to business in Belfast are precluded by the poor railway service. This neglect of Newcastle is remarkable, when it is remembered that every effort is being made to popularise Portrush and Portstewart among Belfast business men by speeding up the rail service with the introduction of the North Atlantic express trains.

Portrush is almost twice the distance from Belfast as Newcastle, which is better situated for business people. It is to be hoped that early next year the railway company will seriously consider developing the Newcastle service more. The Urban Council is showing foresight and enterprise in improving the facilities for visitors, and these efforts should be encouraged by a better railway service.

Mr. James M. Burke, United Ireland Party member in the Dail, whose death took place on Thursday.

BOOKS AND PEARLS

IN TRANSIT BY AIR

News is just to hand that in the "Flying Clipper," the trans-Pacific air-liner of Pan-American Airways, books are being airborne for lonely inhabitants in the Wake and Midway Islands. Not long ago 25 books were flown to Wake Island. When they have been read there they will be flown on to Midway. And after this they will be taken back by air to Honolulu and a fresh batch sent out.

In this connection it may be mentioned that carefully-chosen assortments of books, in the form of a "flying library" for the benefit of passengers, are carried in the big flying-boats which make the above-water trips to and fro across the Mediterranean on the Empire routes of Imperial Airways.

Regular consignments of valuable pearls are consigned by air from Bahrein, the Persian Gulf port on the Imperial Airways England-India route, to groups of pearl merchants in Bombay. The pearls which come by air are bleached, sorted, and disposed of by the Bombay merchants either locally or in foreign countries.

The pearl merchants of Bombay have, from the earliest days of the English-India air route, taken advantage of this rapid means of transport to get their pearls from Bahrein. The speed of the air service enables the merchants to sell their pearls early, and to take quick advantage of the opportunities offered by market changes and conditions.

Lord Sempill, who has been in Karachi for nearly six weeks, since he was forced to abandon his attempt to fly to Australia in three and a half days, has decided to return to England. He will fly back in a Dutch 'plane. The rest of the party, however, will continue the flight to Australia this morning.

TRAFFIC LIGHTS FOR SYDNEY

Sydney, which has been experimenting with automatic traffic-actuated signal lights, has now decided to order £25,000 worth of this English type of street signal for use in the city. The Traffic Department Commissioner (Mr. Maddocks) says that the English traffic-actuated light system is far superior to the American fixed time signal system. Most of the equipment, the installation of which will cost less than traffic police service, will be made in Australia.

LUCKY BREAKS . . No. 12

Dame Fortune is no stranger on 'Change. Not long ago she showered wealth upon a certain Mr. Hoadley in New York. The market had expected 8,000,000 bales of cotton to be "ginned," but, owing to the failure of one out of every sixteen bales, there were only 7,498,167. A frantic rush to buy ensued and prices shot up twenty points at a time. Mr. Hoadley started to sell. In five minutes he had made $4,000,000—enough to yield a perpetual yearly income of over £30,000.

Dame Fortune scatters five figure fortunes in every Irish Hospitals' Sweepstake. A Cambridgeshire ticket may prove YOUR lucky break by winning YOU £30,000. Think of it! Don't merely THINK of buying a ticket, though. Get one for certain——NOW!

Last day for receiving Counterfoils October 2nd. Draw will take place on October 23rd. Race will be run on October 28th.

DUTY ON HEEL STIFFENERS

An Order was made by the Executive Council yesterday under the Emergency Imposition of Duties Act, 1932, imposing a Customs duty of 40 per cent. ad valorem on completely or partially manufactured heel stiffeners, toe puffs, or shanks for use in the manufacture of boots and shoes.

Arrangements have been made for the manufacture in the Saorstat of the articles now rendered liable to duty.

DUTY ON CLAY MANUFACTURES

The Executive Council yesterday made an Order under the Emergency Imposition of Duties Act, 1932, extending the scope of the duty (50 per cent. ad valorem, with a preferential rate of 33⅓ per cent. ad valorem) on articles made of unglazed clay not of the nature of statues, statuettes or busts. Under the duty as originally framed fire bricks and fire blocks, fire-clay sunk fires and fire-clay backs, including interiors, boiler and flue blocks, and flue linings were excluded. The effect of the Order is to limit exclusions to interiors, backs, sides or bottoms for domestic fire grates, ranges, stoves and mantel registers.

THE ECONOMICS OF CUPID

Assuming that Canadians are hard-headed enough to allow consideration of pocket to enter to some extent into the affairs of the heart, there is a fine indication of the country's economic prosperity in the fact that so many of her folk are getting married. During the first half of this year 15,798 marriages were registered in Canadian cities and towns of 10,000 population and over. This compares with 14,923 in the corresponding period of 1935 and 14,450 in the first half of 1934. These figures represent only urban marriages, and do not take into account the large number of young couples in rural districts. During the month of June alone—the wedding month—4,504 marriages were registered in urban centres, as compared with 4,308 in June, 1935, 4,051 in 1934, and 3,230 in 1933.

PHILHARMONIC SOCIETY

DR. LARCHET TO BE CONDUCTOR

We are pleased to announce the appointment of the well-known Irish conductor and composer, Dr. Larchet, Mus.D., T.C.D., F.R.I.A.M., as conductor of the Dublin Philharmonic Society Orchestra in the place of Colonel Fritz Brase, who has resigned.

We also learn that the resignation of Colonel Brase was not a part of the general reconstruction of the Society, but was due to private reasons, which were set out in his letter to the late honorary secretary of the Society.

The new officers of the Society are Mr. R. MacNevin, hon. secretary, and Mr. W. J. Mares, hon. treasurer, and they are busily engaged in drawing up the programme for the coming season. The preliminary arrangements include the engagement of the Metropolitan Hall for evening concerts on the following dates:—

DR. J. F. LARCHET.

28th October—Orchestral concert.
25th November—Orchestral concert.
16th Deember—"The Messiah."
3rd February—"Elijah."

Mr. Turner Huggard is the choral conductor, and a number of artists of international fame are being engaged for the above-mentioned concerts.

It is stated that the Society found that holding concerts on Saturday afternoons at local theatres did not tend to the best results, and, as the Mansion House accommodates only some 850 persons, this naturally resulted in the engaging of the Metropolitan Hall. An excellent programme is anticipated, and it is confidently expected that all true lovers of music will support the Society in its new venture, and that "full houses" will be a regular occurrence.

Full particulars will be given later as to where season tickets can be obtained. In the meantime, inquiries will be welcomed by the hon. secretary at his address, 40 Brighton square, Rathmines.

PEACE TRAFFIC

FOURTEEN LINES OF IT

At Fort Erie, in Canada, there is a bridge bearing the present name of "Peace," which marks the long friendship between Canada and the United States. It is, therefore, appropriate that it should be breaking all records in the number of tourists crossing the border at this point. Never before has the total reached on July 4th of 28,000 cars at this one point been reached. In addition to this, 3,000 cars were handled by ferry.

So heavy was the crush that fourteen lines of traffic were open at the Canadian end of the bridge.

The previous high mark for one day at Peace Bridge was 25,000. Last year's one day record was 20,000. The reason, perhaps, for this summer's record may lie in the fact that Independence Day this year fell on a Saturday. There was also the attraction of the opening of the Fort Erie Race Track. Even so, the record is something which Canadians, and probably Americans, too, for that matter, are proud of.

MURDER OF A NURSE

MAN CONVICTED IN LONDON

DEAD WOMAN'S NOTE TO HER FRIENDS

At the Old Bailey, London, yesterday, Thomas Albert Clay (27), of Nuneaton road, Dagenham, pleaded not guilty to a charge of having murdered his sweetheart, Phyllis Brace (24), a nurse, of Papworth, Everard, Cambridgeshire.

A frail looking man, and allowed to sit in the dock, Clay was described by Mr. G. B. McClure (prosecuting) as a man who had suffered serious ill-health for some time, and to have been in Epping Institution receiving treatment for a form of tuberculosis. On July 22 Miss Brace called at the institution, and Clay, against medical advice, decided to take his discharge.

The following day a motorist saw Clay, distressed and exhausted, lying on a heap of stones. Clay told him that he had taken some drugs, and added: "There's a girl in the forest. She may be dead."

BODY FOUND

The next day Miss Brace's body was found in the wood. She had a deep cut in the neck, and not far from her was a razor. Clay, seen by a police inspector, said: "She will be happier now. I will tell you all about it."

In his alleged statement, continued Mr. McClure, Clay said that he and Miss Brace were very much in love. The statement went on: "We discussed the question of marriage, but it was impossible owing to my condition. We thought the matter over and decided to take our lives together."

After describing the couple going to Epping Forest, the statement added:—"About 12.30 p.m. we commenced to take tablets. . . . I remember that Phyllis was very restless during the night. She kept getting up many times and I told her to lie still. . . . Then I woke up and found she was gone. . . .

"Phyllis was lying in a swamp trying to get out. I tried to help her, but could not get out. I tried to help her, but could not get her out. . . . There was a razor in the case. I got it out to use on myself. I could not do it and I used it on her. . . . She was unhappy and I shall be glad to die in any case. . . ."

HARMLESS PILLS

Detective Inspector Smith said that Clay had suffered from tuberculosis for the last ten years, and had been in a number of institutions.

Dr. Keith Simpson, pathologist, said that the pills handed to him were made of plaster of Paris and were harmless.

Mr. Justice Greaves Lord—"What are they used for?"

Dr. Simpson suggested that chemists sometimes supplied them as a harmless substitution to customers who wanted dangerous drugs.

Sidney George Brace, of Papworth, Everard, father of Miss Brace, was asked by Mr. J. D. Cassels, K.C. (defending), if his daughter told him that she took up nursing with the object of nursing Clay when he was ill.

Brace—Not exactly. She was interested that way on account of Clay being ill.

Did she ever discuss the question of marriage with Clay?—No.

It would have been an impossible thing?—Yes; it would, in the circumstances.

Mr. Cassels said that he would not, at that juncture, read a note left by Miss Brace before she left home on July 21, as it might be distressing to the father.

PRISONER'S EVIDENCE

Clay, assisted by a warder, went to the witness-box. He said that Miss Brace's object, in becoming a nurse was that it "might help him later on." They had often discussed the question of marriage and decided that it was impossible.

The note left by Miss Brace, read at the request of Mr. Cassels, stated:—

"Please do not wear mourning. I loathe black, and why mourn when we are happy? We are sorry to leave you like this, but it is not Tom's fault. He has fought bravely for ten years. I will not let him bear any more, and I cannot live without him. Cheerio.—Phyl.

"If there is any mercy in this world, you will bury us together."

Mr. Cassels submitted that if the jury thought that Clay's mind was so clouded with the drug he had taken that he was incapable of forming an intention to murder, he would be entitled to a verdict of "not guilty."

Clay was found guilty, and sentenced to death.

MAY GO TO SPAIN

KILLARNEY COUNCILLOR'S VIEWS

From Our Correspondent.

KILLARNEY, Friday.

At a meeting of Killarney Urban Council to-day, Mr. Clifford moved that the Council condemn the outrages being perpetrated against Catholics in Spain, and that the Government be called on to sever trade relations with that country.

Mr. Ahern—I propose that we mind our own business. It is a matter for the Government, and has nothing at all to do with us.

Chairman (Mr. E. O'Sullivan)—We have a foreign diplomatic service, and we will leave it in their hands.

Mr. McDonogh-Mahony—I second Mr. Clifford's motion, and I will ask him to include as an addendum that we form a branch of the Christian Front that has been organised in Dublin.

Mr. Ahern—I propose again that we mind our own business and leave this matter to the Government.

Mr. McDonogh-Mahony—A Government that sent people over to Russia.

Mr. Ahern—If anyone cares to go to Spain there is no one stopping him.

Chairman—In this matter there is a dual State authority in this country, and as far as the civil side of it is concerned, I think the proper action might be entrusted to them and let them take the initiative. On the religious side we have the Irish Hierarchy, who will give any lead that is necessary, and when it is given I, for one, and, I am sure, my colleagues, will be ready to support it. Failing a lead by either the Government or the Church authorities, I think what Mr. Ahern says is right.

Mr. McDonogh-Mahony—They have given the lead.

Mr. Clifford—The Irish Hierarchy have already condemned the outrages.

Mr. Collins—As Catholics we should do everything possible to help the unfortunate Catholics of Spain.

Chairman—Everybody is in agreement about it. The way to do it is the point. It is the propriety of the means that we are discussing.

Mr. Doyle seconded Mr. Ahern's amendment.

A vote was taken on the amendment, with the following result:—For: Messrs. Ahern and Doyle (two). Against: Messrs. Clifford, Collins, C. Hurley, M. Hurley and McDonogh-Mahony (five). Not voting: Mr. Graham and the Chairman.

The amendment was declared lost and the resolution carried.

Mr. Ahern—I propose now that all these gentlemen volunteer to go to Spain.

Mr. Clifford—They went from Killarney before.

Mr. M. Hurley—We are willing to go if some members of the State go with us.

Mr. Collins—If necessary we will shoulder our gun.

Mr. M. Hurley—The President is supposed to be a Spaniard and he is doing nothing about it.

Mr. Ahern—There was no vote of censure when they were all blown up around here.

The Argentine Supreme Court has declared unconstitutional the law by which dismissed employés must be indemnified on the basis of the positions they have held for the preceding five years.

ENGLISH LABOUR AND COMMUNISM

CO-OPERATION IDEA REJECTED

UPROAR OVER SOVIET JOURNALIST

The Trade Union Congress at Plymouth yesterday rejected the appeal of the Communist Party for co-operation with the Labour movement. While the actual application for affiliation will come before the Labour Party Conference at Edinburgh next month, it is expected that yesterday's decision will have an appreciable effect on the result.

Sir Walter Citrine was again the central figure of the debate. He declared that the Communists having failed utterly to get any hold on the mind of the electorate had changed their tactics on the orders of their paymasters in Moscow.

EXCITING SCENE

There was a remarkable scene when he pointed out that the correspondent of Izvestia, the Soviet official newspaper, was sitting among the delegates.

For a few moments there was uproar. There were shouts of "Get out" and "Leave." Delegates surrounded the journalist, who eventually walked to the side of the hall and then to the Press table.

In the end the conference gave an overwhelming vote in support of the General Council's report, which was entirely unfavourable to any association with the Communist Party.

A resolution expressing the opinion that the hours of work in the cinema industry should be brought into line with the present policy of the trade union movement of a forty hours week, without prejudice to wages and conditions, was adopted.

Mr. J. Rowan (electrical trades) who moved it, said, "unless the Cinematograph Exhibitors Association are prepared to come down to a reasonable number of hours of labour per day, and give reasonable wages, we shall ask the General Council to make it a sweated industry, and to establish a trade board."

A "MISUNDERSTANDING"

The representative of Izvestia, whose presence caused a scene, is Mr. Raymond Jenkins, of Wales, who acts as correspondent to the Soviet newspaper.

Sir Walter Citrine made an outburst because the correspondent was sitting among the delegates in the hall, next to Mr. Evan Evans, one of the South Wales miners' delegates. It was stated last night that the matter was due to a misunderstanding.

Mr. Jenkins comes from the same town as Mr. Evans, and the two are personal friends.

When Mr. Evans left the rostrum after having made a speech, Mr. Jenkins followed him and sat next to him in order to make a private appointment for the week-end. Mr. Jenkins had a Press ticket, and had been sitting at the Press table most of the week. He did not realise that he had no right to be among the delegates, and when he was asked to leave he at once returned to the Press table.

LABOUR GIFT OF £1,000 TO SPAIN

EXPLANATION TO BELFAST TRADES UNION

From Our Correspondent.

BELFAST, Friday.

There has been considerable controversy among members of the Transport and General Workers' Union in Belfast, many members of which are Roman Catholics, following the report that a gift of £1,000 had been made to the Spanish "Reds" by the Union.

Alderman L. McCurdy, the National Organiser in Belfast, to-day explained the real position in an open letter to all the members of the Union in Belfast. He writes:—

"No doubt you have been concerned regarding the reports, published resolutions, etc., in connection with an alleged gift of one thousand pounds made by our Executive Council to the Spanish Reds.

"I may say that I personally was also concerned, not because I believed such statement, but the effect such publicity would have on the minds of our members. My first inclination was to get into print, emphatically denying the allegation, but on second thoughts I decided to wire the General Secretary notifying him of the position and requesting him to furnish me with the true facts as to the alleged gift. By telegram, the General Secretary replied as follows:—

"'M'Curdy. 66 Victoria street, Belfast—Executive provided £1,000 for fund established by National Council of Labour to provide humanitarian relief for victims affected by unfortunate civil war in Spain.—Signed, Bevin.'

"This reply from the General Secretary should serve to show our members that the Executive Council of the union did not subscribe money for 'Spanish Reds,' as per inference, to help the Spanish Government by providing for the instruments of war, but was provided for the provision of humanitarian services to assist the victims of the unfortunate warfare. It is provided by our Christian teachings that we should exercise charity. What better charity can we exercise than to assist the victims of fratricidal strife? Belfast District Committee endorses action of Executive."

NEWRY COUNCILLOR REPUDIATED

From Our Correspondent.

NEWRY, Friday.

Following a letter published in the Press from Mr. Myles Connell, U.D.C., Newry, upholding the cause of the Spanish Government as against that of the rebels, a meeting of Labour representatives on Newry public boards was held in the Dockers' Hall on Thursday night, Mr. J. Poacher, P.L.G., presiding. Following deliberations, the following resolution was passed:—

"That we, the Labour representatives on the Newry public boards wish to disassociate ourselves from the letter from Mr. Myles Connell, U.D.C., which appeard in the local Press."

The following names were attached to the resolution:—James Poacher, William Byrne, John Neary, Michael Griffin, Thomas Morgan, Daniel McAllister, John Byrne.

REFUSAL TO SURRENDER

THE ALCAZAR CADETS

GOVERNMENT SENDS THEM A PRIEST

"HOME RULE" FOR THE BASQUES?

From Reuter's Correspondent.

MADRID, Friday.

A last appeal for a priest was sent out to-day by the 1,000 men, women and children besieged by Government troops in the Alcazar fortress at Toledo.

Three-quarters of the fortress has now been pounded into ruins by shellfire and bombs, but the inmates—cadets and their families—have refused to surrender or allow the women and children to leave.

To-day they sent a messenger out of the building with a request that the besiegers should allow a priest to enter, so that "they might be allowed to die as Christians."

The authorities granted the request. A priest was eventually found and conducted to the Alcazar. As soon as he had entered the bombardment, which had been temporarily stopped, was resumed.

The Communist paper Mundo Obrero declares that more than two hundred Spanish anti-Fascists are detained in the military fortress of Caxias, Lisbon.

The paper protests against "this new violation of international law."

"We ask the democratic countries," it adds, "to oblige Portugal to respect the legitimate Government of the Spanish Republic."

The Basque Nationalist member of the new Spanish Government, Señor Aguirre, Minister for Public Works, is believed to have had a long talk with the Premier, Señor Cabellero, concerning the conditions under which the Basques would consent to be represented in the Government.

One condition, it is believed, is that an autonomous constitution should be granted to them, similar to that given to Catalonia.

POPE TO SPEAK ON SPAIN

VATICAN CITY, Friday.

An important speech will be made by the Pope on Monday to Spanish Bishops who are at present in Italy. The speech will be at 11 o'clock (London time), and will be broadcast by the Vatican wireless station and all Italian stations.

Translations of it, in several languages, will be given afterwards. It is expected that the Pope will make a pronouncement on the Vatican attitude towards the Spanish conflict.

POISON GAS FEARS

ST. JEAN DE LUZ, Friday.

No steps regarding the possible use of poison gases by the combatants in Spain are likely to be taken by the Powers at present.

M. Branting, the former Swedish Prime Minister, declared on his return here from Madrid that the insurgents were preparing to employ asphyxiating gases against the Government forces.

Although the British Government has asked its Ambassador to Spain, Sir Henry Chilton, to convene the Diplomatic Corps to consider the whole question of this possible use of poison gas, no result was reached at a meeting held yesterday.

The Italian Ambassador to Spain stated that it was impossible to deal with this matter, since the Madrid Government did not think it worth while to follow the efforts of the Diplomatic Corps to bring about a humanisation of the war.

In these circumstances, the Diplomatic Corps considers that no overtures could very well be made to the insurgent junta at Burgos regarding this question.

SAN SEBASTIAN FOOD SHORTAGE

HENDAYE, Friday.

There has been heavy firing to-day round San Sebastian, but owing to the impossibility of approaching the battle front it is not clear at what objectives the firing has been directed.

The British destroyer Escort put in at St. Jean de Luz this afternoon with about 100 refugees from Gueataria, a little port some eight miles west of San Sebastian. It appeared, they said, that Fort Pasajes, between Irun and San Sebastian, was being bombarded by the insurgents.

In San Sebastian itself the situation is reported to be becoming daily more precarious. Food is both scarce and expensive, since it can only be brought in by sea—a dangerous task in view of the insurgent warship off the coast.

All roads out of the town, except that to Bilbao, have been cut off, and the Bilbao road is under fire. Four trains are stated to be running daily between San Sebastian and Bilbao, but obviously no food supplies can be brought from the latter town, which has a population of 200,000 souls. In fact, a cargo boat left St. Jean de Luz this morning with 600 tons of provisions for Bilbao.

The Governor of San Sebastian remains optimistic, according to a correspondent there. "We have reserves, both of food and ammunition," he declared. "We are not able to make a countr-attack, but we can defend ourselves for weeks."

There is no talk of surrender to be heard in San Sebastian, and it is categorically denied that there have been any negotiations along these lines.

REBEL CLAIMS

RABAT, Friday.

The following claims were made over the insurgent wireless from Jerez, Corunna and Seville to-day:—

At Oviedo the insurgent garrison repulsed an attack by loyal militia, taking many prisoners, including women fighters. In Bilbao the situation is desperate. The town lacks food, and the Basques are reported to have decided on surrender.

A further advance has been made on Madrid. An attack by General Asienso on Talavera failed and his troops fell back nine miles.

MISSING BELFAST WOMAN

BELIEVED TO HAVE LOST HER MEMORY

Miss Jane Robinson, who resided with her stepmother, Mrs. Robinson, at 114 Argyle street, Belfast, has been missing from her home since Monday last. Miss Robinson, who is a spinner, is about 42 years of age and is 5 feet 7 inches in height and has dark, bobbed hair. She was wearing a navy blue skirt, flowered slip, brown shoes, and a brown shawl with fawn or yellow border. She had no money in her possession, having left her purse in the house.

Her stepmother, or the police, would be glad to receive any information about her. She may be suffering from loss of memory.

COMBATTING VANDALISM

NORTHERN IRELAND BEAUTY SPOTS

NEW COMMITTEE OF THE NATIONAL TRUST

From Our Correspondent.

BELFAST, Friday.

An Advisory Committee of the National Trust has been formed for Northern Ireland, with the Right Hon. M. M. M'Causland, H.M.L., as chairman and representative of the committee on the Central Council; Captain J. P. Perceval-Maxwell, D.L., as deputy chairman, and Mr. A. S. G. Loxton, as hon. secretary.

Although the committee has only been in existence for a short period, several properties of natural beauty or historic interest (one in the vicinity of Belfast) have already been offered to the Trust, and negotiations in reference to these are now proceeding.

The Right Hon. M. M. M'Causland, in an interview to-day, informed me that the committee was hopeful of receiving generous financial support in Northern Ireland. The National Trust had promised that all the money subscribed in Northern Ireland would be returned for carrying out the committee's activities in the North.

"It is a fine opportunity," said Mr. M'Causland, "for anyone who has land which is of natural beauty or property of historic interest, and who does not wish to see it sold, possibly for building purposes, to have it transferred to the National Trust and preserved for the benefit of the people of Northern Ireland in perpetuity. It is hoped that the Government of Northern Ireland will follow the policy adopted in Great Britain, and introduce a bill in the Northern Parliament to provide for exemption from death duties on property given over to the Trust."

OFFERS INVITED

Mr. M'Causland added that the National Trust had under its control in Great Britain 55,000 acres, but as yet had no property in Northern Ireland. Kanturk Castle, County Cork, was handed over many years ago, and is now under the control of the National Monuments Committee of the Irish Free State.

Mr. M'Causland said that the Northern Committee was anxious to consider offers of open spaces and beauty spots, including mountain or arid areas, glens, demesnes or beaches, which would be preserved for public use. In some instances, as in England, a small charge might be imposed on the public to preserve and maintain the houses or estates. A great many properties had been handed over in England which were either self-supporting or had been provided with an endowment fund by the donor for their upkeep or preservation.

Captain J. P. Perceval-Maxwell said that the fact that the National Trust had been willing to agree to the formation of a Northern Ireland Committee was a great tribute to the interest which the people in England were taking in Northern Ireland.

The Northern Ireland Advisory Committee is composed as follows:—The Right Hon. M. M. M'Causland, H.M.L. (chairman); Captain J. Perceval-Maxwell, D.L. (deputy chairman); Lady Mable Annesley, the Right Hon. Sir Thomas Dixon, Bart., H.M.L.; the Right Hon. Samuel Cunningham, Dr. D. M. Barcroft (Newry), Mr. T. J. Campbell, K.C., M.P.; Mr. John Seeds, Dr. Chart, Dr. R. S. Hunter, Mr. W. M. Crawford, Colonel Pakenham, C.M.G., with Mr. A. S. G. Loxton (hon. secretary).

RECEPTION TO NEW MINISTER

CEREMONY IN BLACKROCK TOWN HALL

Blackrock Town Hall—where services were once held by the local Presbyterian congregation before the present church of St. Andrew's was built for the district—was used by the local congregation and presbytery again last night when they held a reception for their new minister, the Rev. J. Noel Thompson, M.A., who was installed on the previous evening.

The Rev. J. S. Rutherford introduced the new minister who has been appointed to St. Andrew's from the Shearer Memorial Church, Glasgow. The minister was then welcomed by representatives of the congregation and presbytery, and formally acknowledged his reception.

After the presentation of the gown to the new minister by Mrs. C. Dunlop, Mrs. Pearce, Mrs. R. Seeds and Miss Moffatt, representatives of the founders of the church in the district, presentations were made to the Rev. J. S. Rutherford for his two years' service as Moderator of the Commission in charge of Blackrock, and to the Rev. Finlay J. Stewart who, for just over a year, has acted as assistant minister. Mr. W. Nesbitt expressed the thanks of the congregation to Messrs. Dickson, Watson and Barry for the decorations.

Among the clergy present at the reception were:—The Very Rev. R. K. Hanna, D.D.; the Rev. J. S. Crockett, the Rev. J. S. Rutherford, the Rev. J. C. Breakey, the Rev. Mr. McCaughey, the Rev. R. Crossett, the Rev. T. Byers, the Rev. G McCullough, the Rev. Finlay J. Stewart, the Rev. David Hanna (Coleraine); the Rev. J. S. Culbert (Ballycastle); the Rev. A. Stuart Hill (Cookstown); the Rev. John Dunwoody (Donaghcloney); the Rev. E. W. Greening, the Rev. E. M. Bateman, the Rev. H. B. Hobbs, and the Rev. W. H. Hayes.

The installation service at St. Andrew's on Thursday night was conducted by the Rev. W. G. Peters (Tullamore), and others taking part in the ceremony were:—The Very Rev. J. J. Macaulay, the Rev. T. Byers, the Rev. R. K. Lyle and the Rev. J. S. Rutherford.

TAILTEANN GAMES PREPARATIONS

LARGE GOVERNMENT GRANT EXPECTED

Communication with Irishmen in all parts of the world has been opened by the Aonach Tailteann Council, it was reported at a meeting held at 59 Dame street, Dublin, last night. Mr. J. J. Walsh, Honorary Director, presided. Information already has been posted to men and women of Irish extraction in almost every city of the world.

An appeal was made by the Council to people at home with relatives or friends in remote parts to send their names and addresses to Mr. McGough, Hon. Secretary, 59 Dame street.

Mr. J. J. Walsh said that this was really the first time they had attempted to promote Aonach Tailteann with the good-will and co-operation of all the people of Ireland, North and South. Everything now pointed to the attainment of that ideal Aonach for which they had been striving in past years. On the assumption that the Government would make a liberal grant, which they could now do with the approval of all parties, the 1937 Games should reach a perfection untouched by any previous effort.

Major-General Murphy reported that no barrier would be placed on boxers competing here in consequence of the decision recently made by the International Board on the status of Irish boxers.

The Council directed that steps should be taken to form committees for the following purposes:—Social and entertainment, foreign visitors' reception, street decoration, and finance.

The attendance included:—J. G. Carr Lett (Irish Fencing Club), Dr. F. J. O'Dea (N.A.C.A.), P. T. MacGinley (President, Gaelic League), Seán Ryan, P. McDonald, P. J. O'Keeffe (General Secretary and Manager, G.A.A.), representing the Gaelic Athletic Association; J. Healy (Boxing), Dr. Vincent O'Brien and William Reidy (Music), H. F. Brennan (Swimming), Art McGann (Irish Dancing), J. O'Mara and C. O'Neill (Billiards), A. M. Wells (Aviation), George Atkinson (Hon. Treasurer), and C. McGough (Hon. Secretary).

The County of Cork would benefit by about £40,000. Mr. D. Murphy suggested that the Association should not rest satisfied if an increased price for wheat was given. Oats and barley were also important crops requiring the effects of the organisation to secure economic prices.

WEST CORK VACANCY

NO QUESTION OF EARLY BY-ELECTION

It was learnt yesterday that there is no question of an early by-election in West Cork to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Mr. James M. Burke, T.D. In order to secure the issue of a writ for the election it is necessary that the Dail should be in session. This cannot now be done until 4th November, when the House reassembles; and, in any case, the United Ireland Party, with whom the motion will rest, have not yet considered the matter.

West Cork is one of the strongest United Ireland Party constituencies, the total first preference vote at the last general election being 24,624, as against 10,500 for the Fianna Fail and Labour candidates combined.

The late Mr. Burke headed the poll, followed by Mr. T. J. O'Donovan (U.I.P.), Mr. T. J. Murphy (Labour), Mr. Eamonn O'Neill (U.I.P.), and Mr. Hales (F.F.). Since then Mr. Hales has resigned from the Fianna Fail Party.

THE KING'S RETURN JOURNEY

LEAVING VIENNA ON SUNDAY

From Reuter's Correspondent.

VIENNA, Friday.

The King will leave Vienna for home, it is learnt, on Sunday at 8.35 p.m. He will travel in a special "sleeper" attached to the ordinary Vienna-Paris express, which is due in Paris on Monday evening. It is possible that he will spend the night in Paris before proceeding to England.

This afternoon King Edward had a game of golf with Baron Rothschild at the latter's private golf course at Enzesfeld. Wearing a sports jacket and light grey flannel trousers, he left Vienna by car at noon in time to lunch with the Baron before going out on the golf course. Enzesfeld is about twenty miles from the city.

The King's host, Baron Eugene Rothschild, is a retired colonel of a famous Austrian Hussar regiment, and one of the three senior members of the Austrian branch of the Rothschild house.

He returned to Vienna about 6 p.m., and after changing into evening clothes drove to see Professor Neumann, the ear specialist, with whom he stayed about half an hour. Later in the evening the King heard, at the Vienna State Opera, the last act of Wagner's "Gotterdammerung."

The King's popularity here is increasing every day. Crowds wait for hours outside his hotel in the hopes of catching a glimpse of him, and in order to give him a hearty cheer when he appears.

Typical of small acts which endear him to the Austrian people was his rejection last night at a famous Viennese restaurant of all foreign wines and champagnes in favour of a bottle of Gumpoldskirchner—a wine grown on the slopes of the Vienna forest near the capital, and regarded by experts as the best Austria can produce.

PRICE OF WHEAT IN THE FREE STATE

No information was available yesterday concerning the request made last week on behalf of the Free State wheat growers for an increase in the price for wheat in the current season.

The price fixed for the autumn selling is 24s. 6d. per barrel, which is not considered adequate.

PREPARING FOR LOCARNO

AIR LIMITATION QUESTION

Although no preparation for the suggested Locarno meeting on October 19th or 20th has yet been made through diplomatic channels, nevertheless departmental preparatory work is understood to have reached quite an advanced stage in London, says Reuter. This should enable the British Government to set the ball rolling as soon as the date and place have been agreed on.

The view is still taken in London that the West cannot be entirely separated from the East in these discussions. The communiqué of July 23rd provided for "other matters" coming "necessarily" under discussion at a later stage if progress could be made over a new Locarno.

Air limitation is regarded as important, and this necessarily involves Soviet Russia, as the size of the Russian Air Force is inevitably taken into German calculations. Moreover, air limitation is an essential condition for a Western air pact.

Perhaps the chief bargaining counter which Britain will possess at a Locarno Conference is her ability to extend to Germany the guarantee of the Rhine frontier at present given under a temporary arrangement only to France and Belgium.

As to colonies, the basis of calculation is still the statement of March 7th—that the question of colonial equality should be adjusted "within a reasonable time" after Germany joins the League.

Owing to the possibility of a considerable modification in the European situation if a Locarno Conference were successful, Britain will probably not formulate any far-reaching or very definite suggestions for the reform of the League at the coming League Assembly meeting.

It is expected that the Sixth, or Political, Committee of the League will be charged with reviewing the various proposals for League reform, and the British ideas may only be made known to this Committee, and not circulated in the form of a memorandum.

GREYHOUND ST. LEGER TROPHY

DISAPPEARS FROM ITS CASE

The greyhound St. Leger gold trophy disappeared from its case at the Wembley Stadium last night. The trophy was to have been raced for in the St. Leger final on Monday night.

It stood in a glass case on a table outside the secretary's office near the main entrance to the stadium. According to the boy on guard, the trophy was in its place at twelve minutes to eight o'clock. Thousands of people passed by it. A few minutes before racing was due to commence at eight o'clock Mr. F. Jackson, the secretary, noticed that the trophy had disappeared. It was valued at £60.

BEET-GROWERS AND SUGAR COMPANY

A deputation of the Irish Beet Growers' Association yesterday saw the directors of the Irish Sugar Company, when, it is understood, a number of matters of common interest were discussed. These had reference to various details in connection with the present season's crop, in regard to which it is learned that satisfactory results were arrived at.

TWO COAL DISPUTES

5,000 MEN IDLE IN LANARKSHIRE

Coal disputes at Bedwas, South Wales, and at Blantyre, Lanarkshire, were unsettled last night.

To-day the conference which is attempting to find a way out of the Bedwas dispute, which threatens to involve 120,000 men in the South Wales coalfield, resumes at the Mines Department in London. A new development which they will have to consider occurred last night, when the Miners' Industrial Union, rival organisation to the South Wales Miners' Federation, issued a statement that they would not agree to a ballot at Bedwas Colliery.

In Lanarkshire 5,000 men carried out a one-day's strike yesterday in sympathy with 49 stay-in strikers at the colliery of William Dixon, Ltd. The men contend that the rates of pay for back-stripping do not meet present-day requirements owing to the highly-mechanised conditions in the pit.

A smuall quantity of bread and water was smuggled to the strikers on Thursday night, but yesterday they received no food.

The Lanarkshire Mineworkers' Union was asked last night to call on the men throughout the country to stop work to-day.

The demand for a ballot is made by the Bedwas workmen, in order to satisfy the directors of the company that the men do not wish to have anything to do with the Industrial Union.

THE FRENCH STRIKES

NUMBER INVOLVED NOW 60,000

From Reuter's Correspondent.

PARIS, Friday.

It is estimated that there are well over 60,000 strikers out in France this evening, although the prompt intervention of M. Salengro, Minister of the Interior, in the textile workers' strike at Lille will probably send some 40,000 employées back to work soon. There are still some 15,000 workers in heavy industries out at Marseilles and 6,000 in the Douai district. It is feared that this strike may spread to other industries at Lille.

Employés at the Licorne motor factory, near Paris, have come out on strike and occupied the works, following the dismissal of ten workers. Employés in the boot and shoe trade left their work this afternoon.

THE LATE MR. J. M. BURKE, T.D.

The remains of Mr. J. M. Burke, T.D., were removed yesterday evening from the private nursing home at Clonakilty, where he died, to the Pro-Cathedral, Skibbereen. Holland, P.P., Ardfield; the Rev. A. G. Sheehy, C.C., Courtmacsherry; the Rev. J. Ambrose, C.C., Clonakilty, and the Rev. D. Crowley, C.C.

The chief mourners were:—Mrs. K. Burke (widow); the Rev. J. Burke, P.P., Barryroe, and William Burke, U.D.C., Skibbereen (brothers); Mary, Margaret and Teresa Burke (sisters); Dr. P. J. Scully, Dingle, M. F. Scully, John Scully and Albert Scully (brothers-in-law); Mesdames W. Burke, Mary, Annie and Eileen Scully (sisters-in-law); Timothy, William, Nancy and Mary Burke, Mary and Denis McCarthy (nephews and nieces).

The funeral takes place to-day to Abbey burial ground, Skibbereen, at 3.30.

Mr. Lloyd George and his party arrived at Heidelberg yesterday afternoon from Stuttgart and Heilbronn.

IRISHMAN'S DIARY

Mass Production : Slane Castle : Dublin's Repertory Theatres : A Pinch of Snuff : A St. Bernard Play

Three Repertory Theatres

Dublin now occupies what must surely be a unique position in having three repertory theatres in full production—the Abbey, the Gate and the Torch. The Abbey is now in its thirty-second year, and has not only achieved for itself the proud title of "The National Theatre" at home, but it has also been acclaimed throughout the world as a definitely Irish contribution to the world theatre. Not yet quite ten years old, the Dublin Gate Theatre has achieved a great reputation at home by its contributions to theatrical art, but its reputation is also now spreading abroad through visits to London and Egypt last year. The Torch is the newest of Dublin theatres, being not yet two years old. During its first season, under the direction of Mr. Charles L. Keogh, it made a place for itself by revivals of old-time melodrama. It has re-opened under new direction and with a new policy. The new managing director is Mr. Hugh Hyland, who was familiar to all theatregoers until about a year ago as the resident manager of the Gaiety Theatre. Under Mr. Hyland's direction, it is the intention to stage at the Torch Theatre a selection of plays of all periods and countries, each play for a week, with a company of some thirty artists.

Adaptation of Theatres

A peculiar thing about the three repertory theatres in Dublin (writes a correspondent) is that all have been adapted from other uses in the past. Everyone knows that the Abbey Theatre was adapted from the buildings which were once the City Morgue and the Mechanics' Institute, where inquests were held and where, next door, a variety entertainment flourished for a long time. In the famous Rotunda Buildings the Dublin Gate Theatre occupies what was once the Concert Hall, in which musical entertainments and competitions were presented over a very long period. The newest theatre, the Torch, in Capel street, is located in what was known for forty or fifty years as the Trades Hall, in which the trade union movement in Dublin had its headquarters. It ceased to be used as trade union headquarters some twenty years ago, and for a long time the fine hall was almost unused. In addition to meetings connected with trade union and associated matters, the hall was used frequently for entertainments, and large audiences assembled there for concerts and recitals. The acoustic properties of the Trades Hall are excellent, as befits a place originally designed for the purposes of speech-making, and every word can be distinctly heard in all parts.

Old Families Return

The Marquis Conyngham, his wife and three children, are spending the summer, or what is left of it, at Mount Charles, Donegal. They have had a number of visitors there recently, and among these were Mr. Henry Crofton Atkins, brother he must be to Lady Shrewsbury. Miss Antoinette Constance is also there. She is the daughter of Lady Conyngham by her first marriage. It will be remembered that Lord Frederick Conyngham succeeded his brother as sixth Marquis in 1918. Lady Conyngham was before her marriage Miss Antoinette Thompson, a daughter of Mr. J. W. H. Thompson, of Somerset. Her eldest son is now Earl of Mount Charles. The Conynghams have another boy, Lord John, and their daughter is Lady Antoinette—a tall young person who looks about 10 or 12. They have lived for the past few years at Amat, a very fine place in Ross-shire, which the Marquis acquired.

St. Bernard Play

Mr. Hilton Edwards is living strenuously these days; for he is putting the final touches to his production of the St. Bernard play. This work is to be presented at the Dublin Gate Theatre on Tuesday. Adapted from an old miracle play, by Henri Gheon, and translated by Sir Barry Jackson, it is a drama certain to be appreciated in Dublin. After a successful run in England, it has been translated into Irish by Mr. Liam O'Brien, and played at the Gaelic Theatre in Galway.

In the Dublin Gate Theatre presentation Micheal MacLiammoir is playing the part of St. Bernard, and Mr. Edwards is the comic character of the piece. There is a large cast. St. Bernard was a great preacher of the eleventh century, who afterwards became associated with the Cistercian Order.

The play deals with the early life of the saint, when his friends are intent upon his marriage. But St. Nicholas, it seems, intervenes to save him from such a fate. The menu at the proposed marriage feast strikes me as a very tempting one to resist. According to what I heard, there was to be trout, followed by almost a dozen other courses, and particular mention is made of almond paste.

A Pinch of Snuff

An effort to revive the snuff-taking habit is (writes a correspondent) to be made by a company which has recently been registered in England with a capital of £100, under the name, "Ye Ancient Order of Snuff Takers, Ltd." The objects of the company are to encourage the use of tobacco snuff among the people of the world, and restore the habit of conviviality of ancient days; to buy, sell and deal in all commodities and apparatus of and incidental to the furtherance of the use of tobacco snuff. I don't know whether the tobacco manufacturers are behind this concern or not, but it is, I believe, a fact that snuff-taking has declined considerably in recent years. In fact, one rarely sees a snuff box now, although some twenty or more years ago, they were in certain districts—principally among factory workers—as common a sight as are ladies' powder boxes to-day. Better ventilation and better conditions of employment in industrial areas are, it is stated, responsible for the practical abolition of the snuff-box. In the North of England, however, especially among the cotton-workers of Lancashire, the taking of a pinch of snuff is still very prevalent, and I understand that one of our Free State tobacco factories still does a considerable business in supplying mentholated snuff to Lancashire women workers.

Snuff-taking was not always confined to manual or industrial workers. The habit worked its way in among the nobility and clergy, and if I remember correctly, one of our greatest snuff-takers in his day was His Eminence Cardinal Logue. Even in Dublin to-day one of the city's most popular clergymen will also greet you with a pinch of snuff.

Mass Production

Among the new buyers who emerged at the Doncaster Sales this week is a most remarkable South African breeder. This is Mr. Henry Nourse, who first made his presence felt early on Tuesday morning, when a filly from the Sezincote Stud fell to his bid of 1,200 guineas. In South Africa Mr. Nourse breeds to lease. He keeps scores of brood mares, and leases the progeny to race. It often happens that almost every horse in a race on the South African track belongs to Mr. Nourse, while they are really leased to different people. That must be a profitable business. Of course, horses are often leased here and elsewhere, but not on the colossal scale maintained by this newer buyer. The King's horses were leased to Lord Derby during the mourning period for his father. When Minoru won the Derby for his grandfather, Edward VII., that horse was leased from the National Stud in Kildare.

Slane Castle

Slane Castle, the scene of one of this week's important Irish weddings, is a home with an interesting past. The present building is only about two hundred years old, but it is built on the site of the very early stronghold of Sir Christopher Fleming. I remember once Lady Conyngham pointing out to me the old foundation and part of the ancient structure which has been incorporated in the present building. Slane Castle has many associations with Royalty; for George IV. stayed there during his visit to this country in 1821. His full-length portrait hangs in the drawingroom. The late King George fished the Boyne, and caught a salmon in sight of the castle when he went to visit Beauparc during his last visit to Ireland. The grounds of Slane Castle contain a holy well dedicated to St. Erc, to which the faithful in the district are allowed access on patron day.

MR. S. B. McCARTHY AND MISS H. M. ROBINSON

The wedding took place yesterday at Monkstown Parish Church of Mr. Samuel Burton McCarthy, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. W. B. McCarthy, O'Connell avenue, Limerick, and Miss Hilda Maude Robinson, second daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Robinson, Endsleigh, Newtownpark avenue, Blackrock.

The Service was conducted by the Rev. H. G. Forde, M.A., who was assisted by the Rev. A. Butler, B.A.

Mr. F. W. Robinson gave away his daughter, who wore a graceful gown of pearl satin and a head-dress of satin leaves and sprays of orange blossom. She carried a bouquet of deep cream roses.

There were two bridesmaids—Miss Vera Robinson (sister of the bride) and Miss P. McCarthy (sister of the bridegroom). They wore delphinium blue moire taffeta frocks, with wreaths of silver leaves and blue velvet, and carried bouquets of pale pink roses.

Mr. Leslie McCarthy (brother of the bridegroom) acted as best man, while the groomsmen in the church were Mr. H. Colthurst and Mr. W. Lee.

After the ceremony a reception was held at the Salthill Hotel, Monkstown, by the bride's mother, who wore black-flowered marocain, with a large black hat and silver fox furs.

Mr. and Mrs. McCarthy left in the afternoon for their honeymoon, which will be spent in the Channel Islands, the bride wearing a grey tweed suit, trimmed with broadtail, and a small green hat.

Wedding gown and bridesmaids' frocks by Seaman, 32 Wicklow street.

ANCHOR LINE'S DUBLIN SAILINGS

The Anchor Line announces that the Cameronia has been scheduled to call at Dublin on 3rd October en route for New York. According to the original schedule, the direct service between Dublin and New York terminated for this year with the sailing of the Transylvania on 12th September. Bookings from Dublin have been very heavy, however, indicating that this direct Anchor Line service has been a great convenience to American visitors to Ireland, and in order to give every facility to those who have still to return this call of the Cameronia has been arranged. The service has very definitely been appreciated, and the Anchor Line in return are prepared to meet the demand.

PORTMARNOCK LIVELINESS

IRISH AMATEUR CHAMPIONSHIP

EXCITING SCENES IN FINAL

By a Special Correspondent.

THE final of the Irish Amateur Golf Championship, 1936, began at the thirty-fourth hole yesterday. Brown and O'Sullivan had played thirty-three holes, and O'Sullivan was one up. A thousand people crowded the seventeenth tee, and streamed along the seventeenth fairway.

O'Sullivan, after his few quick waggles, hit a screamer along the right-hand side of the course. Brown, with a set face, played an even better one, with a little pull into the wind. O'Sullivan hit a cautious iron shot to within twenty yards of the green. Brown, sufficiently confident to despise caution, took his brassie, and crashed another wood to within a short chip of the hole. O'Sullivan was past the stick with his pitch, Brown made no mistake, and the crowd began to run madly up the eighteenth fairway. All square and one to go.

The stewards were crying angrily: "Stand back—give them a chance." Impressionable women giggled in semi-hysteria.

Brown was up the middle with his drive. O'Sullivan got more distance, but found a heavyish lie in the rough. Again Brown, grim and confident, tried to get home with his brassie. The ball went off with a whip-lash crack, boring its way into the wind to the green. A gust caught it, and it swung high to the right towards the clubhouse.

A TENSE MOMENT

A thousand people, in death-like silence, started as Brown's ball landed crash against the tiles of the roof. Around the clubhouse there was commotion. The umpire called: "Is it out of bounds?"

There was no answer.

A steward began to run up the course. Arms and flags waving by the clubhouse: "It's all right."

O'Sullivan's supporters turned away in agony as their champion took a spoon from his bag. "Play safe! Play safe!" O'Sullivan hit a beauty, high and true into the breeze. It landed in the middle of the green. The stampede again.

By the clubhouse wall was gathered a milling crowd. Brown's ball, having smashed a slate to powder, bounded down against the gable, and lay on the sunken path. The stewards, by main force, cleared a passage.

"Can I ground?" asked Brown.

There was some consultation among the officials.

"No."

Brown studied the line, and from the hard gravel of the path hit a perfect shot to within four feet of the hole.

As O'Sullivan sank his second putt for a half there was a roar of excitement that would have been impressive at a Rugby international. "What a match!" "I've never seen such golf!" "Brown's got him now. . . !" We ran helter-skelter to line the fairway of the first hole.

EAGER GALLERY

Brown was up the middle. Those on the tee roared: "Fore! fore!" as O'Sullivan's drive curled out into the crowd on the left. It was lying well. With people edging forward all round him Brown pulled his brassie out thirty yards to the left of the green pin high. O'Sullivan again was short with an iron.

Up a narrow laneway of humanity Brown played his pitch to within six feet of the hole. O'Sullivan's chip was three feet short. Brown's putt hit the back of the hole, checked and hung on the lip. O'Sullivan, with a three-foot putt for the amateur title, missed the hole completely and threw up an arm in his disgust. The crowd again began to run.

Brown found a badly hanging lie off his drive. O'Sullivan was shorter—but straight. His pitch landed sadly short of the green. Brown finished on the right edge with ten yards to go. O'Sullivan chipped to within three feet of the flag. They halved in 4. O'Sullivan's putt staggered in by the back of the hole. He smiled at his narrow escape.

A DULL ENDING

On the thirty-ninth Brown hit a perfect drive. O'Sullivan was out well in the rough to the right. His recovery was short. Brown, with a do-or-die iron, bounded over the green into a bunker. O'Sullivan was too strong with his chip. Brown laid his approach within two feet of the hole. O'Sullivan missed his nine-yarder, and, with a sharp tap, J. C. Brown knocked his ball into the hole for a win, and the Amateur Championship of Ireland.

The crowd, exhausted by running over rough ground all day and the long-drawn-out tension of the 39 holes match, raised but a spasmodic cheer. It was a dull and prosaic end to the most intensely exciting championship final that Portmarnock has ever seen.

As they streamed across to congratulate the finalists the stewards cried to the crowd: "Keep off the green; walk round."

DUBLIN'S HABITS AND CUSTOMS

TOWN LIFE IN THE OLD DAYS

WHEN CLAY PIPES WERE GIVEN AWAY

ONE might be inclined to dismiss the city of half a million inhabitants, electrified, mechanised, industrialised, from a survey of Irish folklore. Nothing would be more unjust. Dublin City is unique, not merely for its historical and antiquarian interest, but still more for its wealth of unwritten lore, traditional history, customs and habits, relics of town life under a different order of things, that can still be discovered among the poor people who live in its slums along the quays and under the shadow of Dublin Castle and the twin Cathedrals.

In the Iveagh Buildings I once came across a travelling pedlar whose family history would form the plot of a superb historical novel. The founder of his branch of the O'Byrne family left Glenmalure about the year 1600, went to sea, was captured by pirates, and carried into slavery at Algiers. An expert horseman, he accompanied the Bey on hunting expeditions, and on one occasion saved the life of the Bey's daughter when she was attacked by a wild beast. For this service the Bey instructed him in the secret processes of tempering Algerian steel, and sent him home with a large sum of money.

GUARDED SECRETS

Settling at Dundalk, he built a house, which was long known as the Pirate's Castle. Later he removed to Dublin and established as a steel manufacturer in Ship street. The firm continued as steel merchants and exporters until the middle of the last century. Their secret processes were carefully guarded. Formulae were retained in the Irish language, which was taught only to the sons, so that when daughters married into other families they did not carry the secret with them.

Big business men, they conducted trade all over the world, and, to this day, my informant assured me, you will find half-caste O'Byrnes, Gaelic speakers, in the remote Barbadoes.

CLAY PIPE-MAKING

In neighbouring Francis street survive the last vestiges of the once flourishing clay pipe trade. Patrick Devlin will tell you how once in every public-house a clay pipe was given free with every pint of porter. Members of the fraternity always took the pipe and broke it outside. It was good for trade. . . . .

He will tell you, too, of the pipes at Dublin wakes up to thirty years ago, and of the other funeral customs then observed.

Theirs was a powerful union. Its unemployment benefit system had much to commend it. Members out of work had to walk from town to town in order to receive their daily 1s. 8d. One day from Dublin to the Drogheda office, three days from Drogheda to Belfast, two more to Derry. In his day Pat has walked from Dublin to Derry, and from Glasgow through Liverpool and Coventry to London.

Relics of the past can be found at every step as you climb the steep hill from the water side of Anna Liffey to the dark pile of Christ Church above. The "Brazen Head," once terminus for coaches from the South, where freaks and tricksters gathered to amuse visitors green from the country, lies hidden in the centre of a block of buildings. It is still young with memories of Robert Emmet and the United Irishmen who gathered there, of the divine Sarah and treacherous defeat.

COFFINS ANL NAILS

Up another flight to the street of the coffin makers. The old people remember when the guilds flourished, each in its own quarter. Near at hand is the street of the nail makers. The master printers had their guild, and so had the master jewellers. Hard workers and hard drinkers. An old master told me a story of one of his men who was engaged in engraving the Parliament houses on a presentation cup. "Master Harry," said the employé, with familiar respect, "may I have half-a-crown to pay my way to the Bank of Ireland? I want a peep at it." Master Harry looked at him. Then he remembered there were a few halting places in the hundred yards that separated the Grafton street workshops from College Green. The man got his half-crown and turned out a masterpiece.

Little remains in the memories of the glories of the beautiful countryside that stretches south of the city, of the Giants' Grave at Ballybrack, of the Robbers' Fortress at Glencree, of Red Hugh's winter escape across Pine Forest, and the lone Glen of the Downs.

LONE GLENASMOLE

But in Glenasmole is still preserved the old tradition about the luxuriance of its vegetation recorded in a poem of the Fianna. In this Oisin complains of St. Patrick's scanty fare, and says he would find in Glenasmole a quarter of a blackbird larger than his quarter of mutton, a quicken berry larger than his Measgan of butter, and an ivy leaf larger than his griddle of bread.

Here the elfin pipers played their merriest tunes on May Eve under the new May moon; and solitary individuals wandered in lone fairy-people valleys in hope of hearing the mystic pipers and receiving the agility and grace conferred only on those who tripped to the music of the fairy pipes.

But you may not throw yourself on the grassy slopes to sleep in the open air in this enchanted glen, even though you feel drowsy in the afternoon sun. 'Tis some passing elf that weighs your eyelids; and if you yield to the spell a greater and more potent charm will surely bind you.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

SPAIN

TO THE EDITOR OF THE IRISH TIMES.

SIR,—I am, generally speaking, not in sympathy with Irish politicians of any shade, and most certainly am not an Orangeman, but such letters as those in to-day's issue of the Irish Times make me absolutely despair of my countrymen. My reference is to the very unfair assumption of a correspondent signing himself Vincent O'Brien. The insinuation that the "plight of the Northern Catholics under Orange Craigavon" is such that it will be necessary to keep an army of young Irishmen to avenge their wrongs is monstrous.

I have lived in the Free State and must say that I made many Roman Catholic friends, and have not had the misfortune to meet many who are actuated by such an intolerant spirit as is manifested in this letter, and I also number Orangemen among my friends, and can truly state that I do not know even one possessed of this spirit.—Yours, etc.,

JAMES A. HANNA.

Belfast, September 10th, 1936.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE IRISH TIMES.

SIR,—Mr. Thomas J. Hayes, in a letter published by you to-day, makes an absurd comparison, apropos of the Spanish civil war, between the community of goods practised by early Christians and the Communism of to-day.

Catholics do not deny the "Communism" of early Christian times. This sort of Communism is still practised by the most faithful members of the Church with the fullest possible ecclesiastical approval. I refer to members of Religious Orders, some of whom, with the object of following the counsel of poverty in the most perfect manner, do not even permit themselves the handling of money.

The essential difference between this Christian community of goods and modern Communism is that the former is a mode of life which the individual may freely choose, while the latter denies the indivdual the right to acquire property at all.

As a Catholic, I strongly object to falsehoods such as these being dragged like red herrings across what ought to be a reasoned discussion as to whether or not the Spanish insurrection is a genuine crusade. It is painfully evident that chief concern of many of your correspondents is not with the fate of Christianity in Spain, but to exult in the sad fall of a country which was once the type of Latin Christian civilisation.—Yours, etc.,

FRANCIS A. GIBNEY.

MEHR LICHT

TO THE EDITOR OF THE IRISH TIMES.

SIR,—When I uttered that paradox, in a letter to you the other day, which you were so good as to find space for, that Hitler was an unknowing pro-Jew, I had not in mind the imminence of the Nazi Conference at Nuremberg, or its spume of hate, extracts from which, and a leading article thereon, you publish to-day. Perhaps, it now behoves me to offer an explanation of my paradox, and I trust that you will permit of my doing so. From the time of Ramses II., who took all the Hebrews into slavery at a time roughly computed as 1,500 years prior to the Christian era, mighty Kings and scoundrels have tried to crush the Jews, and all of them have failed. Martyrdom, massacre, oppression, provide the key-note of Jewish history down the ages. Over a million Jews gave their lives in vainly defending Jerusalem in the reign of Titus, and as late of 1900-1906 hundreds of thousands were killed in the Russian "pogroms," and millions of them had to flee that land.

It is written in the Scriptures that the Kingdom of Heaven suffereth violence, but woe unto him through whom it comes, and it is in that sense I mean that Hitler and all that long line of evil-doers who sought to destroy Israel have in reality sustained her. No great cause can flourish without sacrifice, and what can the whole of history show comparable to the martyrdom of the Jews for their faith? Hitler and his men vainly think to impose their theories of the Jews on the rest of the world, though when they began their age-old dodge of rousing the basest instincts of the mob against the Jews, they said, when other peoples attempted to protest, that it was a matter which solely concerned Germany! But fear is in their hearts; they try to say that it is fear of the Jews, including, I suppose, fear of their own persecuted and defenceless Jewish citizens; but that is not the ground of their fear; well may they be afraid, for they have violated a fundamental spiritual law, that of freedom for the souls of others; they have challenged something older than the Cosmos, and that ancient Hebrew injunction: Thou shalt love thy neighbour, thou shalt love even thine enemies.—Yours, etc.,

HENRY M. SINCLAIR.

Daily Programme Review

TO-DAY

RADIO ATHLONE: Variety, with Orchestra, 7.15.

NORTHERN IRELAND: "Fairy Tales," Orchestral Concert, 9.35.

B.B.C. NATIONAL: Band of the King's Own Royal Rifle Corps, 7. Variety, 8.30.

REGIONAL: Promenade Concert, 8.

MILAN: "I Pagliacci" (Leoncavallo), 8.45.

RADIO ATHLONE will relay the Promenade Concert from Queen's Hall, London, to-night, in addition to B.B.C. Regional. This will account for an hour and a quarter of the main programme from 8 to 9.15. Preceding the London relay, a variety programme will be given. Those taking part are Billy Harmon and Mida O'Brien, the Musical Knights and Julia Grey, the Yodelling Boys, and the Station Orchestra.

The usual B.B.C. Saturday variety show will also be put on for National listeners at 8.30. The bill, which is an attractive one, includes some new names and old favourites.

SHELSLEY WALSH
INTERNATIONAL OPEN HILL CLIMB.

Running commentary relayed from Shelsley Walsh — B.B.C. Regional, 4.15.

"The Full Story," told by John Watt, in five parts, proceeds to-night, when part three will be told. Those who are following this interesting feature should tune in at 8. (National.)

George Formby, the popular comedian, tops the bill in "King Fun," a 1936 revue, now running at the Opera House, Blackpool. An excerpt, in which George Formby appears, will be relayed to listeners.

The Promenade Concert programme has its usual popular appeal for Saturday "Prom" enthusiasts. In the relay listeners will hear Pouishnoff, the eminent Russian pianist, playing Chopin in romantic mood. He is acting as soloist in the Pianoforte Concerto No. 1 in E minor, the second movement of which Chopin himself said is "intended to convey the impression received when the eye rests on a beloved landscape on a moonlight night in spring, calling up in one's soul beautiful memories."

Rossini's "William Tell" Overture opens the concert, however, to be followed by Francis Russell, singing "The Flower Song" ("Carmen"); then the Concerto, and the relay concludes with Sibelius's symphonic poem, "En Saga."

Fairy tales expressed in music is the content of a delightful little programme to be played by the Northern Ireland Orchestra, under the direction of Philip Whiteway. The choice of items has rested upon a fantasy, "Cinderella," by Eric Coates; Roger Quilter's suite, "Where the Rainbow Ends," and a selection, "Peter Pan," by John Crook.

KATHLEEN LONG is the distinguished guest artist playing with the Northern Ireland Orchestra in to-morrow's orchestral concert. Miss Long is no stranger to this country. As an exponent of pianoforte music, she has charmed Irish audiences on many occasions. On this occasion she will play Mozart's A major Piano Concerto and two of Debussy's short pieces. The remainder of an excellent programme includes "The Magic Flute" Overture and a work of Sibelius, his Rakastava Suite for strings and timpani. The concert will be given under the direction of Peter Montgomery.

Mr. Michael O'Higgins, the well-known Irish baritone, who will sing a number of French, German and Italian folk songs in to-morrow night's broadcast programme from Radio Athlone.

Irish listeners may like to have their attention drawn to a short B.B.C. programme to-morrow at 6.45. Entitled "If," it concerns one of the many big ifs in the history of Ireland. "If the French had landed in Bantry Bay in 1796" how would history have been changed? The possibilities of this interesting "if" will be discussed by Maurice Healy on the National wavelength.

The story by Henry James, the American author, which has been adapted for broadcasting, was written during the period when American respect for European culture was in full flower. "Four Meetings" is the story of a little schoolmarm obsessed with the idea of Europe, who saves up her money so that she may see it for herself. How much, or how little, her dreams come true is the pith of the story.

The famous "Blue Danube," sung by a male voice choir, is a treat which occurs but rarely. It is one of the items of the Bournville Works Male Voice Choir programme for broadcasting to-morrow afternoon. This choir, which has won many prizes at various festivals during its life of some fourteen years, first broadcast in 1925, and has continued at intervals ever since. Granville Bantock's vigorous "Drake's Drum," and "Tiger, tiger," by Armstrong Gibbs, are included in the remainder of the programme. (Midland, 5.30.)

After discharging at the South Wall she will proceed to Liverpool to finish unloading, and then to her home port at Glasgow. The same vessel was at Dublin three years ago.

FREE STATE CROPS

CONDITIONS AT END OF AUGUST

YIELDS GENERALLY SATISFACTORY

At the close of August, says the report on agricultural conditions in Saorstat Eireann on 1st September, issued by the Department of Agriculture, seasonal operations were not so far advanced as at the corresponding date last year.

The rains in July and early August, followed by sunshine and heat, had a good effect in stimulating the growth of grass, and at the end of the month pastures were carrying a heavy covering.

Live stock were maintained in good health and condition, and no reports of the outbreak of disease were received from any quarter.

HAY CROP AND CEREALS

The yields of first and second crop hay were variable, but in most districts were rather better than the weather conditions had led people to expect; quality, however, was on the whole inferior to that of last year. The saving of a considerable balance of the meadow hay had in a good many cases to be postponed to enable the harvesting of the cereal crops to be undertaken, and, consequently, it is impracticable to give any precise information regarding the total yield of the hay crop.

The harvesting of the cereal crop was carried out under practically ideal weather conditions, and with the exception of spring wheat, which was not expected to be ready for cutting until early in September, a good proportion of the crops had been saved at the close of the month.

Wheat proved generally a satisfactory crop. The quality of the grain was reported to be average. With regard to yield, sufficient weighings had not been made to enable a reliable estimate to be formed, but from general indications it was anticipated that the yield, while not up to last year's exceptionally high level, would not fall much below the average of recent years. It was generally reported that the wheat crop had resisted the inclement weather much better than either oats or barley, and that very little tossing, or "lodging," of the crop was to be seen in any district.

Reports regarding the oats and barley crops are variable. From the general tenor of the reports, however, it is anticipated that neither the quality nor the yield of either crop will be up to last year's standard, but, nevertheless, will not be much, if anything, below the average of the last ten years.

THE FLAX CROP

The flax crop was much tossed by the weather, and pulling was more difficult in consequence. At the end of the month the great bulk of the crop had been pulled and retted, and was well saved. Further work in connection with it was postponed to enable the harvesting of cereals to be carried out, and hence there was no reliable information regarding yields. The crop bulked well, with, it is anticipated, average yields.

ROOTS AND POTATOES

Mangels and turnips made satisfactory growth, and looked promising at the end of the month, although complaint was general of a greater prevalence of weeds than usual, which farmers had not much opportunity of clearing. Sugar beet was reported to be more promising than last year. Comparatively few instances were reported of injury from "fly" or disease.

The digging of second early potatoes was generally completed during August. Yield and quality were about average. About 500 tons were exported during the season.

The main crop made good progress, having regard to the nature of the season, which favoured the spread of blight. Reports from every district indicate that where spraying was not carried out frequently and thoroughly the disease made very considerable headway, particularly during the latter half of the month. Where spraying had been properly attended to the disease did very little harm. On the whole, indications pointed to an average yield.

CATTLE AND SHEEP

Cattle stocks were reported to be healthy and in good average condition. The various cattle fairs held during the month were well supplied, and the most marked demand was for good stores.

The following quotations may be regarded as representing the average range of prices realised at provincial fairs during the month for the various kinds of stock mentioned:—

	Prices per Head.
	From			To
	£	s.	d.	£	s.	d.
Calves, under one month	0	18	0	3	0	0
Calves, 1 to 9 months ...	2	0	0	3	10	0
First Class Stores, 9 to 12 months	4	5	0	6	0	0
First Class Stores, 12 to 15 months	5	0	0	8	0	0
First Class Stores, 15 months to 2 years	6	17	6	10	0	0
First Class Stores, 2 to 3 years	8	2	6	12	15	0
First Class Stores, 3 years and over	9	0	0	13	0	0
First Class Fat Bullocks and Heifers	9	0	0	14	10	0
Best Fat Cows and Bulls	5	10	0	10	0	0
Choice Springing Cows and Heifers	11	5	0	14	10	0
Choice Down-calved Cows	11	0	0	14	10	0

Flocks of sheep were maintained in good health and condition. No reports of any serious outbreak of liver fluke or other disease were received from any district. The fairs held during the month were well supplied with sheep and lambs. Demand continued steady, with no appreciable change in price. Lambs were in good request for export and home trade.

Wool prices varied according to breed and quality from 7d. to 1s. 1d. per lb. for washed wool, and from 6d. to 1s. per lb. for unwashed.

The average of the top prices for fat sheep was around 45s. each, and for fat lambs 35s. each.

PIGS AND HORSES

The number of pigs offered for sale at the various marketing centres in Saorstat Eireann during the month of August was about the same as in the preceding month. Average prices for pigs suitable for the bacon-curing industry varied around 57s. to 59s. per cwt. dead-weight, or approximately from 42s. 9d. to 44s. 3d. per cwt. on the live-weight basis. Bonhams were in good supply at from 15s. 9d. to 26s. each, according to age and quality. Breeding stocks were well maintained.

Horses continued in good demand during the month at satisfactory prices, good working horses making up to £35 each; troopers up to £50 and high-class hunters up to £200.

The supplies of milk which reached the creameries during August were up to the normal for the season. Milk deliveries to creameries during July realised an average price of 4.32d. per gallon, with the separated milk returned to producers. Milk collected in the counties adjacent to Dublin for re-sale in the city returned 7d. to 8d. per gallon to producers.

FREE STATE UNEMPLOYMENT

The number of unemployed on the live register in the Free State on the 7th September was 66,645, compared with 67,045 in the previous week.

Charge of Stealing from Church.—At Longford District Court on Thursday, J. Dowler, aged 18 years, was charged with the larceny of two donation box keys and of thirteen pence from donation boxes in the Catholic church at Corrydonlon, Rathowen. Father Egan, P.P., Rathowen, said that, by the sergeant's instructions, he put four marked pennies in the boxes. Guard Maher said that he concealed himself in the church. Two hours later the accused boy came in and went to the boxes. When he left witness followed, and Dowler said: "If it's the keys and money you want, here they are." The District Justice adjourned the case to consider what he would do with Dowler.

BOOKS OF THE WEEK

White Native

An Independent Young Man

Going Native. By Eric Muspratt. London: Joseph. 12/6 net.

MR. MUSPRATT is a very terrifying young man. He does not like civilisation, inefficiency, laziness, or unmuscular males. His independence may seem almost inhuman to those of us who are happiest in a crowd of laughing, chattering people. A lot of other adventurers, of course, have had similar qualities, but Mr. Muspratt's self-sufficiency precludes all possibility of one's sharing in his joys, hopes, memories and sorrows. One gets the impression that Mr. Muspratt does not mind about this.

Trouble Brewing

"Going Native" begins with an account of a 3,400 miles voyage across the North Atlantic in a 30-ton yawl. The author was accompanied in the "Pansy"—a strangely chosen name—by two other young men. On arrival in the West Indies they divert themselves for a while, and enjoy a number of (apparently) extremely innocent adventures with a bevy of attractive ladies. Mr. Muspratt, in this part of the book, is very naïve, as befits a man of action with no drawing-room technique. Trouble is brewing, however, for Mr. Muspratt's two companions are beginning to get on his nerves, and Captain Lou Kenedy, with his beautiful trading schooner, "Silver Fox," offers a strong temptation. Captain Kenedy was a former friend of the author's, and Captain Kenedy is just that type of very strong and very silent man that Mr. Muspratt most respects. Mr. Muspratt looks very like changing vessels.

Desert Island

He needs time, however, to make up his mind, and thus he goes to live for a while on a tiny palm island, 350 yards by 150—completely deserted. From the diary of his doings here we gain an insight into the forces which drove him to write "Going Native." He wrote the book, "only trying to pick up a quick fortune and fame for some immediate plan of my own." Fortunately, however, he admits that "I never enjoyed myself so much in the writing of a book. Don't have to think or gather material. Have to spend most of my concentration avoiding material." This passage is very typical of Mr. Muspratt. His directness is quite uncompromising. He needed money, and, knowing that people like reading about desert islands, he went to a desert island, and wrote down everything he saw there. He did not have to think or gather material. Whenever he writes a record number of words in a day it fills him with satisfaction and the determination to write a couple of hundred more to-morrow. He seems to go about the art of writing as another man would take an axe to a tree. The harder you write the better—it's a trial of strength.

We may be doing Mr. Muspratt an injustice. There is no denying that he "puts himself across" with terrific energy, and that his book thereby is interesting. So strong a personality always must be interesting. "Going Native" may be one of the finest adventure stories ever written; but 19 words of it coloured our whole opinion—"I've never enjoyed myself so much in the writing of a book. Don't have to think or gather material."

The Mass

The Meaning of the Mass. By Father John Kearney, C.S.Sp. London: Burns and Oates. 5/- net.

THIS book, which may be described as a systematic exposition of the complete significance of the Mass to the spiritual life, must prove of high importance and significance to all Catholics. In it the teaching and liturgy of the Church is classified and arranged so as to elucidate the fundamental truths the author sets forth with such skill and appeal. All unnecessary theorising is avoided, and the work has a strict logical continuity.

Siegfried Sassoon Again

A Quiet Book

Sherston's Progress. By Siegfried Sassoon. London: Faber and Faber. 7/6 net.

FOR six years nothing has been heard of George Sherston. Six years ago he was left at Slateford Shell-Shock Hospital, after he had made his stand as a conscientious objector. Now Mr. Sassoon resumes his story, and we learn how Sherston gradually persuades himself that "going back to the war as soon as possible was my only chance of peace." The book is divided into four parts. In the first Sherston is being won back to mental stability by the untiring labours of Rivers, the psychologist; in the second he is in Ireland, hunting in the country around Limerick; the third part gives his experiences in Palestine and France in diary form; while the last part, called "Final Experiences," runs as an ordinary narrative.

This book is something of a puzzle. The war-time experiences of George Sherston obviously are the war-time experiences of Mr. Sassoon. Why introduce the complication of an imaginary and wholly valueless character? Then the third part—the Palestine diary—is so much better than the other three that one cannot imagine it to have been written at the same time. Could it be that Mr. Sassoon himself believed so strongly in the unquestionable value of this diary that he felt it necessary to write the three narrative parts to go with it? This theory very probably is true, since Mr. Sassoon, in "Final Experiences," does make mention of an old war diary. Anyway, however "Sherston's Progress" was written, it is a cultured book, intelligent, quietly witty, with frequent passages of an almost poetic quality. It might have been a little bit more vital.

New Guinea Gold

An Unchanged Land

New Guinea Gold. By Edmond Demaitre. London: Bles. 10/6 net.

DESPITE the changes which have taken place in recent years, greatly to the discomfiture of the crocodiles in the Gazelle Peninsula and to the detriment of the hitherto ample leisure of the various officials, the essential nature of New Guinea appears little altered. Mr. Demaitre shows this all through his entertaining book, wherein appears as full and penetrating account of this great mysterious island as has been written these many years. The white inhabitants, excluding those officials whom the wheel of progress has spurred into belated activity, are of just the same mind as of many years ago, and gold, with quinine and its medical variants as disease quellers, are the major topics of conversation. There is no cure for gold fever, the author implies, and he gives melancholy accounts of the tragedies and misfortunes which overtake those smitten with this malady.

His accounts of the psychology and ethics of the New Guinean natives must bristle with new problems for the specialist. According to Western ideals, there is really something abnormal in a native who clubs to death a perfectly good and faithful wife and mother, simply because he was in a great rage, which had arisen without any apparent cause. The stories he tells, too, of the white man who was murdered because a green fly buzzed around him, and the Austrian whose love for music proved his downfall, suggest that the White Man's justice will have to be modified considerably to deal adequately with such primitive beings for a generation or more at least. Then his tales of the bush telegraph "which functions marvellously" are enormously interesting, but do not satisfy the curiosity of the stranger. One has to be satisfied with telepathy as an explanation and leave it at that. The author deals as well with strange and undiscovered animals, orchids and the lovely, but "bone-headed," birds of paradise. The book is most satisfyingly complete, and is well written.

New Novels

The Emotional Journey (Vol. II., Men and Woman). By W. B. Maxwell. Hutchinson. 7/6 net.

MR. MAXWELL has deserted the field of ordinary commonplace novel writing in order to present a picture of men and women set against a background of England. "The Emotional Journey" is the second volume in this large scheme, and concerns itself chiefly with a literary group in London. There are four clearly defined major characters and a number of supers, whose stories may or may not be developed at a later date. The influence of M. Jules Romains on Mr. Maxwell has had an enormous effect. It is not only in the obvious parallel between "Men of Good Will" and this embryo "Men and Women," but in style and method of presentation. Mr. Maxwell may lack the breadth of vision, the versatility, the profound psychology of his master, but his new work is immeasurably superior to his old, and his good technique has enabled him to handle the large canvas successfully.

The Barrier. By Jane England. Hurst and Blackett. 7/6 net.

In her latest novel, which, as usual, concerns the Rhodesia she knows so intimately, Miss England shows that she can plan and work out an involved plot with skill and logic. Alix Stevenage, married to a somewhat "stodgy" but eminently reliable husband, suddenly finds herself involved in a local murder. Her husband's cousin, one Evadne, a "baggage" of the worst type, is discovered strangled under circumstances which seem to point to a friend of Alix's, a Jew solicitor, as the guilty party. The discovery of the guilty party and the reconciliation of husband and wife are deferred till the very end of the book, during which the reader will find plenty of things Rhodesian and interesting besides the chief characters themselves.

The 'Bus Stops at Binham Lane. By Stacey W. Hyde.

Mr. Hyde has chosen a topical theme for his novel, and yet it is a theme which has been unexplored by modern novelists. Binham Lane, when Marshall and Freda Pyke came to live there, really was a lane, dusty, and bordered by green hedges. Marshall, a nervous wreck after the war, saw in Binham Lane a promise of the peace he needed, but to Freda, who loved crowded streets, and people she could impress, it seemed the essence of desolation. In time, however, the building boom began to boom in Binham Lane, and in a few short years the lane became a concrete road, shops and garages took the place of the green hedges, and Binham Lane became a London suburb. Its evolution had a far reaching effect upon the lives of Freda and Marshall, and somewhat verbosely Mr. Hyde tells the story of the change.

Jupiter 8. By Francis Pollock. Cape. 7/6 net.

Here is a story which depends for its effect upon the very last line. In essence Mr. Pollock writes of a young man's attempt at living luxuriously, swiftly and dangerously in the not encouraging City of Toronto. Derrock in the beginning is running an interior decorating business of his own. His life is quiet, and fairly comfortable, surrounded with beautiful and expensive things. Interior decorating, however, is not always as successful as it might be, and when Derrock finds a story of his has been bought by a sensation-loving magazine, he decides in future to earn his livelihood with his pen. A coup on the stock exchange confirms him in his decision, for now he has plenty of money to play with. "Jupiter 8" is the story of his experiment. Through countless parties, romances, drinking bouts, wild drives by night, intellectual discussions, disappointments, successes, and finally a terrible motor accident, one wonders what this book is all about. To our mind the last two lines of it justify its apparent confusion.

Death is So Fair. By Louis Lynch D'Alton. Heinemann. 7/6 net.

ON Easter Monday, 1916, the fat Mr. Moody took a tram ride into the City of Dublin, and laughed scornfully when a number of young men stopped the tram and compelled him to disembark. As he wanders the streets to see what is going on, however, he grows more and more uneasy, and, as he becomes involved with the drunken hooligans who have sacked a warehouse on the quays, Mr. Moody wishes himself at home. As he tries to escape from the city he is shot dead—and in this dramatic manner opens the dramatic story of Manus Considine, who threw up his vocation of priest to fight with those who sought to free Ireland. He is essentially the idealist, who is appalled by the mercilessness of his fellow-rebels, but gradually, through evil necessity, he becomes as relentless and determined as any of them. At times this book is nearly melodramatic, but Mr. D'Alton writes of a melodramatic time.

The Silver Boy. By Hebe Elsna. Rich and Cowan. 7/6 net.

Miss Hebe Elsna's new story consists rather of a collection of sentimentalised incidents than of short stories proper. She is one of those "popular" novelists who have a clearly-defined public, and she continues to give them briefly or at length those ingredients which she has found welcomed. Motherhood, childhood, married bliss and friendship are here presented with capital letters, a misty halo of romance, and excessively sickly sentiment.

Marriage is Possible. By Margaret Widdemer. Rich and Cowan. 7/6 net.

Miss Margaret Widdemer tells a story of young people in and out of love. One pair find marriage quite perfect, but their friends and near relations are not so fortunate. There is a snake in the grass in the person of a clinging young woman, who is the cause of much trouble and heart-burning. She is got rid of in an ingenious way just when it is time for the story to end. Marriages are, in fact, made and unmade with unusual facility in this book, and its American origin is obvious.

A Constructive Policy for Agriculture in Britain

"Romantic Obscurantism"

(By Joseph Johnston.)

The Revival of Agriculture. Prepared by a Committee of the Rural Reconstruction Association. With a Foreword by Lord O'Hagan and Michael Beaumont, M.P. London: Allen and Unwin. 3/6 net.

READERS of this book, the sub-title of which is "A Constructive Policy for Britain," are invited to believe that Adam Smith based his economic theories on unproved dogmas; that bankers control their own money (sic) by issue of their own bank notes; that the law of supply and demand is a myth to which agriculture has been sacrificed; that the economic crisis of 1931 was the result of the traditional economic teaching; that three-fourths of Britain's imports of food could be produced at home, thus doubling agricultural employment and output; and that the payment of interest on Argentine loans gives no employment in England.

A Leg-pull?

Having recovered more or less from the shock occasioned by these statements, the more intelligent reader will ask himself whether this book is to be taken seriously, or whether it is in the nature of a gigantic "leg-pull," practised at the expense of the less sophisticated. Is it necessary to point out that if interest is not paid on Argentine and other foreign loans—in the only way in which such interest can be paid, i.e., by imports of chilled beef and the like—the British owners of these foreign investments will lose their money, which is, perhaps, a small matter in the eyes of the authors of this book? More important is the consideration that the investment of some £4,000,000,000 of British money in the Argentine and elsewhere constituted the fund out of which the makers of steel rails, dock equipment, and the like were paid for their services in making this important class of export goods in the past, and that, apart from rearmament, unemployment must remain chronic in this department of Britain's economic life unless, and until, the stream of foreign investment is renewed in something like its former volume.

The Price to Pay

Of course, it would be possible to scrap the major portion of the capital invested in export industries and shipping, and greatly to expand the production of food supplies at home provided the community, as a whole, is prepared to pay the price. The price would be in the first instance the break-up of what is left of the international economy, a break-up which would be accompanied by world bankruptcy and world revolution, and at a later stage, as soon as the domestic implications of the new economic gospel made themselves manifest in Great Britain, revolutionary class war even in that country.

Economic Insularity

Of all the absurd statements contained in this book the most absurd is the statement that "we have no control over international economic life," implying that Britain can pursue a policy of economic insularity without troubling about its international consequences. These are some of the facts derived from tables contained in a very sensible book called "The Agricultural Dilemma," published by P. S. King and Son, Ltd. About half the world's net imports of wheat now come to the United Kingdom, as compared with little more than a quarter ten years ago. About 80 per cent. of the world's net imports of beef and veal now come to that market, as compared with less than 60 per cent. ten years ago. That country now absorbs about 75 per cent. of the world's imports of butter. The proportion was less than 70 per cent. in 1925.

Britain's Influence

External communities which have been developed by British capital have "a prescriptive right to dump surplus food products on the British market," and Britain cannot deny that right without reversing the whole process of development of an international economy, which was a major feature of British economic policy in the past. In one aspect it would amount to a violation of the faith on which external communities have in the past committed themselves to a certain development of their economic resources, unbalanced from a local or national point of view, but complementary to that of Britain and the world economy as a whole. The ethical aspect is, perhaps, unimportant. There remains the overwhelming consideration that the international economy, now tottering, in so far as it shows signs of vitality and hope of recovery, is now more exclusively British than ever before. The extent to which British policy has already gone in the direction of insular economics, though moderate in degree, is already inflicting a strain on that economy which is all but intolerable. Any violent movement in that direction, of the kind advocated in this book, would destroy all hope of international recovery, and create a revolutionary situation at home and abroad which neither the Commonwealth relationship nor the existing social order could survive.

Obscurantism

There is, of course, a problem of agricultural reconstruction in England, as elsewhere, and there are one or two points in this book which will repay careful consideration. But the book, as a whole, is so vitiated by a kind of romantic obscurantism that it makes no solid contribution to this most desirable object.

Flying Among the Alps

From Heston to the High Alps. By Douglas Fawcett. London: Macmillan. 6/- net.

MR. DOUGLAS FAWCETT, who began to learn to fly at the age of 68 years, has written a light and entertaining book about his experiences, first as a pupil at one of the well-known English flying schools, and secondly about his experiences flying over the Alps, which he knew as a climber. There is a great deal of useful instruction in the first part of the book, but, as he points out, one cannot learn to fly on theory.

He is an enthusiast for joy-flying, and particularly for Alpine flying. The airman, he writes, can steer between the peaks of the Dent du Midi or skirt hanging glaciers and steep ridges. He is not limited to the one grand outlook attained by the climber after long hours of toil; he revels in a gallery of pictures multiplied at his own good pleasure.

In the foreword he says that Alpine flying in light single-engined craft is not a sport which has lured many British airmen abroad, but it will furnish one of the delights of the generations to come. An ex-mountaineer, he was to find that the passage of time had robbed him of one form of climbing play only to provide another of far greater charm.

The Late Lord Darling.

Lord Darling's Trials

A "Popular" Version

Lord Darling's Famous Cases. By Dudley Barker. London: Hutchinson. 8/6.

MR. BARKER re-tells in popular style the story of most of the great trials in which Lord Darling had a part. He does full justice to Darling as judge, as man and as lawyer. Wisely he does not overdo, as so many popularisers do, the more sensational features of the cases in which Darling figured. This enables him to bring out effectively the best qualities of Darling as judge, and in itself this is an achievement which very few writers in this field have to their credit.

The reader need not expect to find much that is new or fresh in these pages. But in every one of the seventeen cases here reported he will find something of interest either in the telling or in the circumstances which led up to trial before Darling. In most cases the essential facts are here, and they are invariably set forth in a manner that will satisfy everybody except the reader who will have nothing but bald law-reporting.

Among the most interesting of the cases dealt with are those of "Chicago May," Seddon, Armstrong, Charlesworth, and Casement, and the J. H. Thomas action for libel.

Nomad Indians

Fig Tree John. By Edwin Corle. London: Werner Laurie. 7/6 net.

THIS tale of Agocho, or Fig Tree John, as the whites called him, represents the life-story of a number of nomad Indians who still reject the civilisation the white man has to offer, and who persist in living in the old tribal way despite the encroachments of road, rail and settlement. Fig Tree's son married a white woman, and the old warrior found himself confronted with endless problems to which there could be no possible solution. The book ends on the right note of tragedy and disillusionment.

Spiritual Struggles

Wrestlers with Christ. By Karl Pfleger. Translated by E. I. Watkin. London: Sheed and Ward. 7/6 net.

THIS very remarkable work deals with the spiritual struggles of a number of eminent writers in their quest for "a being that is wholly other than man, yet at the same time essentially man—human in such perfection of humanity that all human suffering and tragedy are in the strictest sense his own." These writers are Leon Bloy, Charles Peguy, Andre Gide, G. K. Chesterton, Dostoievsky, Soloviev and Berdyaev. The thoughts and mental workings of these men as depicted in their writings are dissected and commented upon with real penetration and psychological insight. Mr. E. I. Watkin is the translator, and he has done his work admirably.

Hunting in the Taiga

Siberian Adventures

Big Game Hunting in Manchuria. By N. Baikov. London: Hutchinson. 18/- net.

THE vast expanses of virgin forest which stretch right across Siberia to the Northern provinces of China, the Taiga, as they are called, afford a secure refuge to almost as many kinds of human flotsam and jetsam as they do to wild beasts. Refugee hunters from Russia and China, convicts who have survived the two years' journey across the wilds of Siberia, Chinese trappers, ginseng seekers and Khunghuze bandits, all find amidst the impenetrable forests at once a sanctuary and a livelihood. N. Baikov, the author, is one of those who sought the woods from free choice. The wilderness and the freedom attracted him, and he found in the depths of the Taiga all the game and hunting he could desire.

Hermits and Tigers

As a naturalist and an observer of beasts and men he leaves little to be desired. His descriptions of the tiger, the leopard and the bear are as vivid as the excellent photographs he includes of those creatures. Better still are his narratives and accounts of the outcasts and recluses whom he met in his long residence. The ginseng seekers, who discover under the great cedar trees the almost sacred plant, with its miraculous virtues, which seem to be founded on fact; the Jekyll and Hyde existence of the bandit chief, at once the dread leader of a body of Kunghuzes, and at home a prosperous and respected merchant. Good pen pictures of the scenery are not forgotten, which supply a mental background for the reader, and there are a number of short biographical stories which serve to show the manner of recruit which takes service for life in the dense thickets of the Taiga. A very pleasant book on an unusual and little known subject.

"Ireland To-day"

THE fourth issue of "Ireland To-day" is, in various respects, the most virile. To be sure, it is somewhat overloaded on the subject of Spain, but its editorial comments on that theme are well balanced, while Owen Sheehy-Skeffington's "foreign commentary" says several things that badly need to be said. Unfortunately, a symposium on the same subject is incomplete. Some contributions illustrating the rebel point of view, if composed with the knowledge and clarity of Mairin Mitchell's study of the land question in Spain, would have been extremely interesting.

The other features include a lecture by Professor W. F. Trench on "Swift and his Ireland"; a technical, but very far from unreadable, essay on "Thatch," by Conor MacGinley; an excerpt from Ernest O'Malley's "On Another Man's Wound," and a genuinely excellent essay, though limited in its scope, on "Rural Life on the Continent," by P. P. O'Donovan. In addition, there are poems by David Quinn and John Lane, and the usual critical features. Conspicuous among these last is John Dowling's assault upon the new National College of Art, wherein he cries shame upon the salaries accompanying the professorships. Mervyn Wall, commenting on the theatre, thinks that "earnest and serious-minded people" shortly will "have to decide for themselves whether the Abbey is not a greater power for evil than for good."

BRAY DISTRICT COURT

BRAY CLUB FINED

(BEFORE MR. L. PRICE.)

The Suburban Club, Florence road, Bray, was prosecuted for breach of the rules of a registered club by allowing intoxicating liquor to be supplied and consumed on the premises.

Mr. J. M. FitzGerald, K.C. (instructed by Mr. J. M. Magee, solicitor), who appeared on behalf of the club, submitted that as the order to search the club, which was issued by Superintendent O'Reilly, was undated, it was invalid and ultra vires. According to the Act of 1924, the search must be made within twenty-four hours from time of issue of the order. In this case the order bore neither date nor time of issue. It was not competent for the Guards to rely on evidence procured as a result of an invalid order. The secretary of the club called attention at the time to the defective order, but in spite of his protest the Guards persisted in making the search.

Superintendent O'Reilly, who prosecuted, admitted that the search order was not dated or timed, but he submitted that they were entitled to give evidence of what they found. If they did an illegal act in procuring evidence, that was another day's work. He mentioned that, in order to prove an offence under the Shebeening Act, officers committed an illegal thing in procuring drink in order to prove an illegal act. The Justice was entitled to hear evidence regarding the illegal thing done by the club.

Mr. FitzGerald held that it was very unfair and against the interests of justice to give information which was got on an invalid warrant

Mr. Price said that he would prefer to let the question of the undated warrant be decided elsewhere. He would hear the evidence, but they need not go into the matters that occurred after the warrant was read.

Sergeant Callan, Bray, gave evidence that, accompanied by Guard O'Flaherty, he visited the club at 11.10 p.m. on the 29th August. The door was opened by Mr. J. Devitt, and on going upstairs he found the bar open, and the manageress, Mrs. Margaret Parker, was serving drinks. There were seventeen persons there, and they were sitting around small tables. On some of the tables there were glasses containing drink, and on others there were empty glasses. Two of the seventeen men were visitors, the other being members. Mr. P. Devitt, honorary secretary of the club, asked to see the search order, and said that it was not dated. Mr. Devitt then put the order in his pocket.

The sergeant said that he told Mr. Devitt that he was entitled to take a copy, but not to seize it.

Mr. FitzGerald said that, apart from the technical point, it was regrettable that this should have occurred. The club was carried on in an honourable way, and was the principal club in Bray; its membership was comprised of business and professional men. It had never been charged before with a breach of the Act.

Superintendent O'Reilly said that the bar should have been closed at 9.30 p.m. on Saturday night. The club had a good record.

Mr. Price convicted and imposed a fine of £1.

ANOTHER CASE

The Bray Social Club, Main street, Bray, was prosecuted for supplying intoxicating liquor for consumption on the premises after hours, in contravention of the Act and of the club rules.

Superintendent O'Reilly prosecuted, and Mr. J. L. Reilly, solicitor, appeared for the defence.

Sergeant Callan said that the door of the club was open about 12 o'clock, midnight, to let some people out, and he got in. He went into the billiard room and there heard voices from the bar which was locked. Guard Flaherty, who was with him, knocked at the bar door, and they were admitted. In the bar were four men, three of whom were members. There was a man behind the bar counter, and there were four glasses containing stout on the counter. The bar man said it was a clean catch.

Guard Flaherty corroborated.

Mr. J. L. Reilly, solicitor for the defence, said that the barman on the occasion acted on his own responsibility. The premises had been locked up at 9.30 that night, and the barman acted on his own in reopening the bar when there was no member of the committee or person with authority present to reprimand him.

Mr. T. O'Brien, Hon. Secretary of the Club, said that there had been a reorganisation of the club following a previous charge in that Court. He heard of the raid on the club on the following Sunday morning. Murphy, the barman, was immediately suspended, and at a meeting held on the following Tuesday night he was dismissed, and the members found on the premises were suspended for a month. As a result of these happenings the keys were now taken from the barman after closing hours every night.

Superintendent O'Reilly said there had been a previous conviction in January, 1936, and an earlier conviction.

Mr. Price held the charge proved, and said he must convict. He decided to reserve judgment as to the penalty he would impose as this was the fifth conviction in eleven years.

NEWS SUMMARY

IRELAND

The story of the disappearance of a sum of £114 in gold, the life savings of an old age pensioner, was told at a Special Court in Dundalk yesterday, when two women were charged with stealing it.—(Page 10.)

Killiney Castle and 48 acres of land around it have been purchased by the Dun Laoghaire Corporation for use as a public park.—(Page 9.)

GREAT BRITAIN

Sir James Jeans, lecturing last night at Southport, mentioned that a 200-inch telescope now being built in California might solve the problem whether space is curved and finite or is infinite.—(Page 9.)

ABROAD

The two days' lull in the fighting round San Sebastian, which led to rumours of an impending truce, was broken yesterday, when heavy firing was heard across the French frontier. Denial that surrender of San Sebastian is contemplated was given by the Governor of the town.—(Page 5.)

SPORTING

At Doncaster yesterday Buckleigh won the Doncaster Cup.—(Page 12.)

FINANCIAL

London Stock Markets were brighter, but not by any means busier. Some Industrials showed improvements. Oils were firm.—(Page 14.)

Dublin Market was steady. Guinness units were supported, and new Land Bonds were strong.—(Page 14.)

A Bitter Choice

Spain's civil war continues to dominate the news in the world's Press. The struggle has been in progress now for more than two months, and there seems to be no sign of an early decision. General Franco's insurgents, composed of a major part of Spain's regular army, the Foreign Legion from Morocco, and a large detachment of Moors, are in possession of a substantial area in the South. Seville is their headquarters in that portion of the country, and anybody who cares to listen to the broadcasts from this once romantic city can form his own conclusions regarding their policy. In the North-West there has been heavy fighting. The rebels have taken Irun after a desperate siege, in the course of which the Government forces defended their positions with furious gallantry; and San Sebastian, one of the fairest watering-places in Europe, is being attacked now with intensified vigour. In the East the anti-Fascist militia are in full control of Catalonia, by far the most prosperous part of Spain. They also occupy an extensive portion of Aragon, where the rebels hold Saragossa in an uneasy grip. Some time ago the militia realised that they could not capture this ancient city by frontal attack, and promptly changed their tactics. Now they are concentrating on the little town of Huesca, which is of great strategic value. If they can take this town—and reports regarding its actual possession are conflicting—the fall of Saragossa will be only a matter of time. According to our Special Correspondent, Mr. L. T. Fleming, who just has returned from the Aragon front, Huesca constitutes the key to the military situation in Northern Spain. For that reason the anti-Fascist forces are doing everything in their power to capture it, and, if they succeed, the chances of a rebel victory will be reduced considerably. From the purely military point of view, General Franco's army has many advantages. It has trained troops, led by experienced officers; it has artillery, which its opponents lack, and it is obtaining not only ammunition, but aeroplanes, from foreign sources. These advantages ought to ensure its ultimate victory; but the Government's supporters are fighting with a ferocity that is almost without precedent.

In the whole history of modern warfare there never has been a more ruthless conflict than that which is being fought to a tragic finish in Spain. Civil wars always are cruel, as we in this country have learned to our cost; but the fighting in Spain knows no mercy. Even in Signor Mussolini's campaign against the Abyssinians there was some attempt to observe the elementary decencies of war; in Spain there is none. Neither side takes any prisoners—or if it does take them they are shot down like dogs on the spot. Neither side spares age or sex, and, as General Queipo di Llano declared, the word "pity" has been erased from the Spanish dictionary. We are sickened, as all civilised persons must be sickened, by the dreadful crimes that have been, and are being, committed in Spain. The organised murder of priests and monks by the anti-Fascists cannot be condemned sufficiently strongly, and their burning of churches has been an outrage upon civilisation. On the other hand, who can pretend to excuse the Badajoz massacre, the savage conduct of the Moors, or the murderous spirit of the Fascist generals? The whole business is unutterably beastly and unutterably sad. Possibly it was inevitable that sides should be taken by foreigners; but surely it was not necessary to gloat over atrocities, real and manufactured; to seek to inflame human passions; to revel in an orgy of horror and bestiality, and to treat the situation in Spain as if all the filth were on the one side and all the nobility on the other. We are glad to print to-day a number of extracts from an article in the current number of Blackfriars, an organ edited by the English Dominicans; for this article is informed by the real spirit of Christ's Church. Men and women who profess the Christian faith must be horrified by the appalling things that have been happening in Spain; but, if they are true to their religious beliefs, they must not seek to justify one crime by reference to another. Conditions in Spain are, and always have been, vastly different from conditions in Ireland. Yet our own experiences during the civil strife of fourteen years ago ought to make us in this country humble in our penitence, rather than arrogant and self-righteous in our judgments.

However, the war in Spain may end, no good can result from it. It began as a military Putsch, not unlike many of the previous pronunciamientos in Spanish history; but now it has become a struggle between two different kinds of tyranny—one a tyranny of the Right, and the other a tyranny of the Left. At the start there was a reasonably democratic Government in Madrid, with fairly effective control over the whole country. Now the Civil War has unleashed forces which nobody can pretend to control, and no man can foretell the outcome. Whatever happens, one thing is almost certain. There will be no human freedom in Spain for a century. The world has witnessed the effects of dictatorships at both ends of the scale. Soviet Russia is at one end; Nazi Germany is at the other. The Russians have persecuted the Christians; the Germans have persecuted the Jews. Russians and Germans are deadly enemies, in spite of the fact—or possibly because of it—that they both have forfeited their individual liberty. The Nazis may not have burned churches; but what is their record towards religion? The whole theory of the totalitarian State is opposed to the free practice of religious belief, and, although Signor Mussolini has become less virulent in his attacks on the Church, nobody who has read his former speeches can have any doubt regarding his real opinions. Who can believe that General Franco, the latest recruit to the Fascist doctrine, is likely to be less autocratic than his prototypes? If the Anti-Fascists win in Spain, there probably will be a period of chaos and slaughter from which the country never may recover. If the Fascists win, Spain will join Italy and Germany in military dictatorship, and the result may be another European war. Either alternative presents a dreadful prospect; and the real tragedy of it all is that it never need have happened. All the world is topsy-turvy. The freedom that shrieked when Kosciusko fell is being assailed more bitterly than ever; and a stricken generation does not know where to turn for comfort.

Planned Industry

The British people are willing to stand in queues, whereas we Irish prefer to make a mad rush for the tram; they obey traffic signals implicitly in circumstances where an Irish driver would try to slip round the policeman. Yet it is only in such small matters that the British take kindly to regimentation. Since the industrial revolution began they have fought against the interfering hand of the Government, and only within the last decade—and then under the stress of adversity—has the hand begun to prevail. At the opening meeting of the third World Power Conference, in Washington, Sir Harold Hartley has given an idea of the part that "planning" plays nowadays in British industry. The surprising, but characteristically British, feature of this planning lies in the fact that it has come into effect not as a result of any positive decision, but spontaneously, and little by little. The Governments of Russia, Italy and Germany conclude that a particular industry is needed, or that a particular industry is redundant; they speak the word, and the industry is established, or, as the case may be, disappears. The British Government never interferes—but the same effect is achieved. We do not profess to know how these things happen in Great Britain; the fact remains that, when there is need of an industry, it comes into being, and when the need has vanished the industry vanishes with it. Doubtless, this lack of positive planning is suited best to the peculiar genius of the British people. It is of a piece with their system of law, which, unlike the systems of continental peoples, is based upon no "codes," but has evolved, to a large extent, from the pronouncements of judges over a period of centuries. Yet even Great Britain is unlikely to remain proof much longer against the "planner." Her largest industry, agriculture, has been taken in hand, and is controlled by elaborate "marketing schemes." Factories have been, and are being, built under the direct ægis of the Government; many manufacturing industries have been "rationalised"; and wages and working conditions are no longer a matter for the individual employer. After a few more years, perhaps, British industry will be organised as highly—though less obviously—than the industry of many "planned" countries. When markets are gained and lost through the action of Governments, much of the responsibility for industry's welfare must be thrown upon the Governments' shoulders; and if they protect manufacturers by tariffs, sooner or later the Governments will demand a finger in the industrial pie. The progress towards "planning" is not studied easily in the case of Great Britain; but in the Free State every step will be apparent. It will be interesting to observe how far the process will go. Will it be in the direction of Italy and Germany, or of the older England?

Greener England

Everybody can remember how Dublin was "smartened up" for the Eucharistic Congress four years ago, and how much better the city looked as a result. It is a great pity that the stimulus which the Congress then provided has not maintained its effect. Important functions of this kind have a marvellous effect upon civic and national pride; and, if more of them were held in Ireland, the country's appearance would benefit greatly. Next year the Coronation of King Edward the Eighth will induce London to put on its best face. Not only, London, however, but the whole of Great Britain will be beautified if the Garden Club's scheme to celebrate the Coronation is carried into effect. According to a special correspondent of the Daily Telegraph, the club's idea is to encourage the planting of trees and flowers, and the forming of children's gardens and playgrounds, both in town and countryside. It hopes to create what are described as "Coronation avenues" of trees and flowers, leading into the various towns and villages; to plant a chain of trees from Land's End to John o' Groats, and to mark county boundaries by belts of trees. Derelict churchyards are to be transformed into gardens and playgrounds for children; a rock-garden is to be built in a London park, together with a model open-air theatre. Moreover, the club hopes to encourage the building of more parks and the use of window-boxes, and suggests a competition for "the greatest improvement from ugliness to beauty by a village before May, 1937." Special attention will be paid to the manufacturing towns, whose ugliness, it is hoped, can be offset by flowers and flowering shrubs. The entire project is highly commendable. Even if the whole elaborate project fails to be accomplished, much certainly will have been done for the beautifying of England. The Coronation may stimulate people who, in normal circumstances, would care nothing for the appearance of their locality. We wish that a similar plan could be devised for Ireland, whose shortage of trees is even more serious than England's. The Government's "Arbor Day" was not without success; but what is needed is a movement as widespread as this English movement promises to be.

National Fitness

Physical unfitness, according to Professor Lelean, is costing Britain about twenty-two hundred million pounds a year. The twenty-two hundred millions take into account payments to doctors, treatment, benefits, administration, the value of time lost at work and a gigantic loss of business. In Germany, where the people are foreigners—and cannot be expected to know much about games—every four persons out of five are in good physical condition; but in Britain—a country which taught the rest of the world anything it may know about sport—the ratio is one in three. Professor Lelean's estimate, although we cannot imagine how it was made, is disturbing; for it seems that, in a roomful of twenty cricketing, footballing, golfing, shooting, hunting, fishing and dart-throwing Englishmen only about six and two-thirds are more than wasted invalids. It is, we suppose, again a matter of the national temperament. A German gentleman of the new school, faced with a growing embonpoint, is inclined to hurry the embonpoint away to a health class, and trundle it about until such time as the burden subsides. It was not ever thus; but the Nazis have made a fetish of health, and their genius for propaganda has done the rest. The German gentleman has been persuaded that he will look very fine bounding round a field in running shorts and a beret. He goes off and bounds, and there is a noticeable improvement in his health. To the Englishman, however, all this sort of painstaking enthusiasm is faintly revolting. It puts him in mind of cranks who do exercises before breakfast, bathe all the year round and chew every mouthful fifty times. Foreigners may find it necessary to go to these extremes; but the Englishman can stroll out and score a century, three goals, or a bull's eye on a fleeing duck, without preparation of any kind. If pressed on the subject of the £2,200,000,000, probably he will reply that it is better to lose money than one's reputation for careless efficiency.

LONDON LETTER

THE TURKISH VISIT TO LONDON

59 FLEET STREET, LONDON,
FRIDAY NIGHT.

The Turkish delegation which is to come to London next month with the purpose of discussing Anglo-Turkish collaboration will be headed by Ismet Pasha, the Premier, as Kemal Ataturk is unable to come in person. The date when the delegation will arrive in London is unknown, but it will probably depend upon the return of the King to London after his holiday. The delegation, which will be a strong one, will include the Foreign Minister (Ruchdi Aras), the Minister for National Economy (Djelal), and a number of high officials in the Turkish Navy, Army and Air Force, with a staff of officials from Government departments. The delegation, when ready, will proceed directly to London, and on arrival here will be received by the King, who himself gave the invitation to Kemal Ataturk.

Locarno Difficulties

Great Britain has sent out invitations to a Locarno meeting to take place on October 19th, but there is little certainty that a gathering will take place so soon. Objections are forthcoming from Germany and from Italy, and of a character showing that there is much behind them. Herr Hitler and his Government wish to be given full details as to the scope of the discussions to be taken at the conference, and it is appreciated that the German leader is unwilling to talk about the situation in Europe generally at a conference attended only by five, or possibly fewer, Powers. Signor Mussolini also has strong views on the conference, and, if indications may be relied upon, he does not wish to attend any such international gathering until the situation in Spain has cleared.

Naval Agreements

Naval questions are to be discussed at the Foreign Office on Tuesday next, when representatives of the British Government will meet delegates from the Finnish, Norwegian and Danish Governments. It is the desire of this country that the Scandinavian countries, with Finland, shall adhere to the principles of the London Naval Treaty, the agreement to take the form of a bi-lateral arrangement. It is expected that the discussion will not be prolonged, as it does not include much of outstanding importance.

Sir Samuel Hoare's New Home

Sir Samuel Hoare, the First Lord of the Admiralty, intends to take up his residence at Admiralty House on his return to London. This fine building has been undergoing renovation, while there has been a great amount of arrangement of the furniture and other details. Sir Samuel Hoare is disposing of his town house in Cadogan Gardens, and this may put an end to the rumours that he will not be the First Lord of the Admiralty for long, as he is expected to succeed Mr. Neville Chamberlain as Chancellor of the Exchequer. In the present state of things in the political world nothing would be surprising, and it is generally acknowledged that Sir Samuel Hoare would be a good successor to Mr. Neville Chamberlain should the latter become Prime Minister. At present the adjustments at Admiralty House seem to indicate that Sir Samuel Hoare expects to be settled there for some time to come.

Mr. Lloyd George in Germany

Mr. Lloyd George has so enjoyed his visit to Germany that it is possible that he may decide to go to France towards the end of the year to meet M. Blum, and discuss international politics with him. It is said that Mr. Lloyd George would like to meet Signor Mussolini, but as he has no visit to Italy in contemplation a meeting is not likely in the near future. Colonel Tweed, who acts as political secretary to Mr. Lloyd George, has recently been on a visit to Russia, and brought back an invitation to his chief to go to that country, but it is improbable that the invitation will be accepted. Mr. Lloyd George's tour in Germany will last another week.

Ministers' Holidays

Ever since Queen Victoria acquired Balmoral Castle it has been a custom of the Sovereign to have a Minister in attendance when he or she is in residence. The late King entertained a succession of Cabinet Ministers during his Scottish holiday each autumn, a list being drawn up by the Prime Minister and submitted for the Royal approval. The command was sent out for a stay of three days and two nights, each Cabinet Minister taking his turn. The King has decided, however, that he will not follow this custom, and he will disturb nobody's holiday unless a matter of urgency should arise necessitating personal contact with a member of the Cabinet.

Moscow to Be Rebuilt

A number of leading men in the Soviet Government, who are to plan a new Moscow, arrived at the London County Hall to-day, where they are to be instructed in local government and other matters. The party is headed by M. Nikolai Bulganin, Chairman of the Moscow Soviet, who was received by Mr. Herbert Morrison. The Soviet officials are to spend ten days in studying the various departments of local government, and as they have already paid a visit to Paris they will then be returning to Russia, where the result of their researches will be communicated to M. Stalin. M. Bulganin said to-day that they had been greatly impressed by the wonderful efficiency of services in London, and realised that there was much they could learn from them. It is intended to make Moscow a fine city, and the party were particularly interested in being able to study London's great housing enterprises, road construction, lighting system, and sanitary arrangements. The engineers of the party are to pay special attention to London's underground system. Moscow's underground railway has now been running for a year, and a second section is now being constructed.

HITLER SPEECH SURPRISE

DISAPPOINTMENT FOR 200,000 LISTENERS

FUEHRER SAYS NOTHING NEW

WATCHED by over 200,000 people, and heralded by an imposing searchlight display, Herr Hitler last night addressed the Nazi Party Congress at Nuremberg.

Contrary to expectations, there was no important pronouncement on foreign affairs, this being apparently reserved for another declaration towards the end of the Congress. Hitler spoke for only ten minutes.

The immediate audience consisted of political leaders, who had been brought by train, car and aeroplane from every part of Germany.

The ceremony combined the awe of a religious Service with the drama of a glamorous theatrical spectacle. Just before Hitler arrived scores of searchlights, placed by the Army authorities at regular intervals around the field, focussed their rays on a single spot in the sky. Pillows of light transformed a mile-square area of the stadium into a huge open-air cathedral.

“LONGING FOR PEACE”

From Reuter's Correspondent.

NUREMBERG, Friday.

Hitler began speaking at 9.5 p.m. “We are meeting here for the fourth time,” he said. “What a change has taken place in these four years in our people.

“A great miracle has taken place. From year to year this development in our people has made progress. Whenever we have met here we were able to look back upon another year of success.

“All we here, and the whole nation, know that the time of internal tension has been overcome, just as have all external menaces. To-day we are a closely united people, and this people is standing behind the flag. In my proclamation I was able to remind the people of what had been achieved in these four years.”

HEAVEN'S BLESSING

Hitler went on to praise the spirit of the German people, spoke of its resurrection, and said it had found its way back to honour.

“Heaven has not given its blessing to an unworthy people. We have really worked hard in these four years. Not every one of you can see me, and I cannot see every one of you, but I feel you, and you feel me. You come from hamlets and villages and towns in order to feel.”

Hitler continued:—

“If our old enemies should once more dare to attack, they would be felled to the ground and will learn to know us. We know our opponents. The hour, however, will never come when they can again lift their heads in Germany, even if they would come from beyond our frontiers. We are longing for peace; we want to build up our Reich as we see it, and not as the Bolshevik Jew sees it.

THE FUTURE

“We want to provide for the future of our children. We have only one request to make to Providence, and that is—Spare our children our experiences.

“We never hesitated to sacrifice our peace to put down the disturbers of peace at home.

“A National-Socialist must be a man courageous and willing to sacrifice his life. To-day we can watch quietly further developments. We shall not be incautious. We shall remain calm and self-confident.

“I am calm and self-confident, because I see you, because I see our organisation of men and women. I can prophesy: This Reich has only experienced the first years of its youth. It will grow up through the centuries to come.

“I greet you and thank you for your loyalty and faith. I greet you as the hope of the present and guarantors of the future. I greet especially you young people. Be men, do right, do your duty, and God will never desert Germany.”

PROGRESS OF THE NAZI PLAN

“Martyrs,” Sterilization, Employment, and “Semi-Jews” Discussed

From Reuter's Correspondent.

NUREMBERG, Friday.

THE Congress of Germans living abroad was one of the most interesting features of to-day's events at the Nuremberg Nazi Party Convention.

More than 3,000 leaders of Nazi organisations from all parts of the world attended, including the leader of the London group, which is said to number about 800.

A special ceremony in honour of the seven Germans slain in Spain, and of Herr Gustloff, who was assassinated at Davos, in Switzerland, on February 4th, was held.

NO RISK

“Our enemies outside Germany know that they may take revenge on our fellow-countrymen without the risk of being sentenced to death for their crime,” declared Herr Rudolf Hess, Herr Hitler's deputy. “Gustloff was a man of blameless character. He fell by the hand of a Jew because he was the best propagandist for National Socialism and the new Germany.

“Events in Spain have now shown that Germans abroad are no longer unprotected, and that our new warships will arrive to protect them,” Herr Hess added.

In consecrating new swastika flags for the Germans abroad the Fuehrer's deputy said that some of them would fly in Britain.

Herr Bohle, the leader of the Nazi Foreign Organisation, emphasised that the work of the organisation was a purely German one: It would never deviate from this course, he stated, and never interfere with men and affairs which were not purely German.

MARRIAGE LOANS

Earlier in to-day's proceedings Dr. Frank announced at the Congress of German jurists that marriage loans totalling 350,000,000 marks (£28,000,000) had been made up to July last, enabling 600,000 German couples to marry.

Dr. Frank also stated that 672 persons were sterilised in 1934, 324 in 1935, and 120 in the first six months of this year. National-Socialist Germany, he added, was standing by its racial laws, and refused to be influenced by foreign critics.

Some 400 'planes of General Goering's Air Force arrived in Nuremberg this morning in readiness for next Monday's great air display.

Citizens ran out into the streets to gaze up at the fighters and bombers gleaming in the sun when they heard the thunderous roar of their approach. Flying in their formations, they were sometimes only at a height of 300 feet.

BETTER THAN BRITAIN

There were a number of meetings of various Nazi organisations. At one of them Herr Fritz Reinhardt, State Secretary in the Ministry of Finance, declared:

“Adolf Hitler's four-year plan, announced in the spring of 1933, has already been fulfilled, although it was due to finish only in the spring of next year.

“Five million unemployed have been put to work again. Thus unemployment has been practically abolished in Germany, and there is already a growing lack of trained labourers.”

He said that in the middle of this year there were only 18 unemployed in Germany per 1,000 inhabitants, as compared with Great Britain's 37 per 1,000, France's 31, Holland's 45, and America's 81.

He estimated the total number of unemployed in Russia at 25,000,000 to 30,000,000.

TO BE “EXTINGUISHED”

Addressing the medical profession, the Reich Medical Leader, Dr. Wagner, described the “semi-Jews and quarter-Jews,” individuals with two or one Jewish grandparents, as a “mongrel race which is biologically and politically undesirable, and which should be extinguished as soon as possible.”

Anyone who believed that the Jewish problem was terminated by last year's anti-Jewish legislation was mistaken. “The fight continues,” he declared.

Dr. Wagner deplored that many million marks had been spent in the past on people with hereditary diseases. This he described as a “squandering of national income.”

He hoped that families with three or four children would become the average. Only then, he concluded, could the nation's armed strength be maintained.

NORWAY'S REPLY NOT SATISFACTORY

U.S.S.R. AND TROTSKY CONTROL

From Reuter's Correspondent.

MOSCOW, Friday.

The Norwegian reply to Soviet representations of August 29th requesting the expulsion of Trotsky from Norway on the ground of “Terrorist” activities, is not well received here.

M. Yakubovich, the Soviet Minister in Norway, has told the Norwegian Ministry of Foreign Affairs that he has brought Norway's statement of September 3rd to the knowledge of the Soviet Government, and that, unfortunately, the Soviet Government finds it impossible to accept this statement as satisfactory and in conformity with the friendly relations which exist between the U.S.S.R. and Norway.

The statement listing measures of control established by Norway regarding Trotsky stated that “the Norwegian Government placed Trotsky and his wife under such control that the possibility of his undertaking in future any action which could harm or menace either the State or interests of the U.S.S.R. must be excluded.”

M. Yakubovitch states that the measures mentioned in this communication from the Norwegian Government cannot be considered a real deprivation of the right of asylum The Norwegian Government, he declares, has by this answer assumed full responsibility for the effectiveness of the measures taken by them and for the consequences of Trotsky's further stay in Norway.

PRAYERS FOR PEACE

MEN FROM TWENTY NATIONS AT LOURDES

From Reuter's Correspondent.

LOURDES, Friday.

A contingent of British ex-Service men is among the 150,000 ex-soldiers who have come here to take part in the third international pilgrimage to pray for peace. More than twenty nations are represented, including many Canadians, and French, German, Austrian and Belgian ex-Service men.

The Bishop of Lille, Cardinal Leinart, who fought at Verdun, and Monseigneur Gerlier, Bishop of Tarbes and Lourdes, who was wounded on the battlefield, are presiding over the ceremonies, which will conclude on Sunday.

A DIPLOMAT'S DEPARTURE

A group taken aboard the Lady Longford at the North Wall, Dublin, when a number of friends assembled to bid farewell to Major Paul Ruzicka, who is returning to Prague after seven years as Czechoslovakian Consul in the Irish Free State, and his wife, Madame Ruzickova. Included in the picture are: Major Ruzicka, Madame Ruzickova, M. Pierre Guerlet, French Minister, and Madame Guerlet; Dr. Koester, German Chargé d'Affaires, and Frau Koester; Mr. J. Orr Denby, U.S. Chargé d'Affaires, and Mrs. Orr Denby; Mynheer I. R. A. W. Weenink, Consul-General for the Netherlands; Commendatore R. Lodi-Fé, Royal Italian Consul-General, and Signora Lodi-Fé; M. Ferguson, Dr. James Ashe, Miss A. Hortig, and Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Balch.

Major Paul Ruzicka, Consul for Czechoslovakia, who is returning to Prague to take up a Foreign Office appointment, and Madame Ruzickova, left Dublin last night on the British and Irish Steam Packet Company's steamship Lady Longford.

Among their many friends who were at the quayside to bid them farewell were representatives of the Diplomatic and Consular Corps in Dublin.

Major Ruzicka intends to motor direct from Antwerp to Prague.

He told an Irish Times reporter that he was very sad at leaving Ireland. “It is a lovely country,” he added, “and I would like to have spent many more years here.”

As the boat moved off Major Ruzicka and Madame Ruzickova were wished “Good-bye and God-speed” in many languages.

The gathering included:—The Minister for France and Madame Guerlet, the United States Chargé d'Affaires and Mrs. J. Orr Denby, Dr. Koester, German Chargé d'Affaires, and Frau Koester; the Royal Italian Consul-General and Signora Lodi-Fé, the Chancellor of the Czechoslovakian Consulate and Madame Janata, the Consul-General for the Netherlands (Mynheer I. R. A. W. Weenink), M. Francois Brière, Secretary, French Legation, and Madame Brière; M. Lestocquoi, French Commercial Attaché; M. ACQUIRED FOR THE PEOPLE

KILLINEY CASTLE AND LANDS

COASTAL BOROUGH THE NEW OWNER

KILLINEY Castle and its land—nearly forty-eight acres—last night became the property of the citizens of the Dun Laoghaire Borough.

Members of the Dun Laoghaire Corporation held a special meeting last night to approve the purchase of the property for a sum of £3,000 from its owner, Mr. A. H. Ormsby-Hamilton, M.A., D.L., and expressed their thanks to the Borough Manager, Mr. P. J. Hernon, and other officials who were responsible for negotiating the deal. Plans for the purchase of the land for the public have been under consideration for some time past, but the negotiations were kept secret.

Mr. Ormsby-Hamilton purchased the property before the Great War for a sum of between £10,000 and £12,000.

KILLINEY HILL PARK

Victoria Park — sometimes called Killiney Hill Park—which adjoins the newly-acquired lands, is one of the most popular public parks around Dublin. The estate overlooks Killiney Bay, which is, of course, one of the best-known beauty spots around the Irish coast.

The purchase of the Killiney Castle lands is a further step by the local authorities to preserve the amenities of the district, which is particularly popular with holiday makers. Some years ago the Dalkey Urban District Council paid £1,200 for a stretch of land on the Vico road, which lies between Killiney Hill and the sea, in order to preserve the view. At that time there was a likelihood of the land passing into the hands of builders and the purchase followed a long agitation, which, it will be recalled, was strongly supported by the Irish Times.

A NEW PLAYGROUND

When the Dalkey Urban District was merged into the coastal borough of Dun Laoghaire the control of the land naturally passed into the hands of the Dun Laoghaire Corporation.

Tea rooms have been established in the district, and the further acquisition of the forty-eight acres of land around Killiney Castle will provide the citizens of Dublin with one of the finest natural playgrounds which could be possessed by any capital city.

Part of the newly-acquired land is opposite one of the entrances to Victoria Park, and part borders on the Sorrento road.

The precise area of the land concerned in last night's purchase from Mr. Ormsby-Hamilton is given as 47 acres 3 roods 10 perches.

COUNTY CORK CAR SMASH

FIVE PERSONS INJURED

From Our Correspondent.

CORK, Friday.

Five people were injured in a bad road smash near Cork this evening. They were Mr. Arthur Earle, an English tourist, of Underwood, Alderley Edge, Cheshire, his wife, who was seriously injured, his son aged about ten, and his daughter, aged twelve, and Mr. Nolan, of Roman street, Cork.

Mr. Nolan escaped with some cuts to the head, and Mr. Earle and his children were slightly injured, but Mrs. Earle is in a critical condition at the Bon Secour Hospital, Cork, to which the party was rushed by ambulance.

The accident occurred near Inishannon, County Cork. The car was involved in a collision with a Cork car travelling towards Bandon.

Father Russell, P.P., Ballinhassig; Dr. Hennessy, and the Civic Guards from Ballinhassig were quickly on the scene, and the injured were removed to hospital.

LORD CARSON'S WILL

FIRST WIFE'S ESTATE UNCLAIMED FOR 23 YEARS

The first wife of the late Lord Carson, Dame Annette Carson, of Rottingdean, Sussex, died intestate on April 6, 1913, leaving estate valued at £5,501.

Lord Carson died on October 22, 1935, without having taken out letters of administration of the property. Letters of administration have now been granted to Lord Carson's second wife, Ruby Baroness Carson, of Cleve Court, Ramsgate, sole executrix of his will.

WONDERFUL NEW TELESCOPE

PROBLEMS IT MAY SOLVE

SIR JAMES JEANS ON SMALLEST STAR

QUESTION OF SPATIAL LIMITS

SIR JAMES JEANS last night told an audience at Southport of the wonders that may be revealed by a two hundred-inch telescope, now in process of construction in California. The subject of his lecture was “Some Problems of Present-day Astronomy.”

The new telescope, he said, may solve the problem—whether space is curved and finite or is infinite.

How big is space? he asked. The theory of relativity told us that space was curved, and that it curved back into itself, so that the total volume was finite, like the total area of the earth. A more mathematical interpretation said that space was not curved in the same way as the earth's surface, but that it had a “negative” curvature and must extend to infinity. This problem, he added, may be solved by the new two hundred-inch telescope which we now possess.

Motions of the nebulæ suggested that space expands, but the diameter of space must be greater than 480 million light years. There was no doubt about that, because our telescope could probe space for 240 million light years in every direction, and yet find no sign that there was a boundary to space anywhere near at hand.

But if we could not see the boundary of space, we could try to fix its position by theoretical arguments.

A BIG PROBLEM

A measure of the mass of the electrons might tell us the mass of the whole universe and its radius. Sir Arthur Eddington, by very complicated mathematics, now hoped that he had carried this computation through to a successful issue. “Sir Arthur finds that even before the universe began to expand its radius was about 1,068 million light-years—four times the distance of the furthest nebulæ.

What does it all mean? Here is one of the big problems of to-day for astronomy, for physics and for philosophy.

Continuing, Sir James Jeans said that what was probably the smallest of all known stars had recently been discovered. Its radius was only about half that of the earth, but it probably contained nearly one million times as much substance. Its average density must be about 36 million times that of water, and a piece of it, the size of a pinhead, would break a man's back.

There were as many stars in the universe as there were grains of sand in the Sahara Desert—10,000 million million million.

The telescope to which Sir James referred is to be placed on Mount Palemar. It weighs 40 tons, is nearly 17 feet broad, and is estimated to cost nearly £2,000,000. The mirror, which will take three years to finish, weighs 20 tons.

The lens has been designed and made in England.

AFTER THIRTY-TWO YEARS

SNOW AND FROST IN SPRING ON THE RAND

From Reuter's Correspondent.

JOHANNESBURG, Friday.

A thirty-two years old weather record was broken to-day when snow fell heavily on the Rand and in surrounding country. Spring officially began just a month ago, and the last occasion on which there was snow as late as September was in 1904. The Rand is covered with a thick white mantle and the temperature is below freezing point. All aviation has been suspended at the Rand airport, and airmail planes from Natal to the Cape are held back.

Snow is falling along the whole route from Johannesburg to Durban, telegraphic and telephonic communications have been cut off, and the slippery surface on many roads has caused numerous accidents

Mr. Herbert Marshall, the British stage and film actor, was “thrown” from a mechanical horse yesterday at Hollywood, receiving a slight scalp injury. Three stitches were put in the wound.

EXPELLED BY REBELS

LECTURE FOR “THE TIMES”

FASCIST MENTALITY IN SPAIN

“Times” Telegram.

ON THE FRANCO-SPANISH FRONTIER, Friday.

THE TIMES photographer was expelled from the battle zone by the insurgents to-day, and is now at Hendaye. His expulsion was ordered by the insurgent headquarters at Burgos for the following reasons:—

The Times, according to Burgos, was prejudiced against the insurgents. It ought not to call them “insurgents,” but “loyalists,” or “nationals,” and it ought to call the Government supporters “the Reds.”

The Times ought not to keep a correspondent in Madrid, which was no longer the true seat of government. It ought, on the contrary, to have a special correspondent with the “national” forces.

The insurgents object to the work of the Special Correspondent of The Times on the Franco-Spanish frontier. They preferred the Special Correspondent at Hendaye, but they thought he ought to come to Burgos for instruction.

WARNING

This lecture—a perfect example of the Fascist mentality—was delivered by a staff officer in a room used as a Press Bureau at the insurgent headquarters. On the wall hung a notice in French warning foreign journalists that they would be expelled from Spain if they did not conform with the conditions outlined above.

The photographer was accused of visiting the front without a pass. In fact, he had a pass issued by the insurgents themselves at Pamplona, and had been sent to Burgos—as he was on a former occasion—to have it confirmed.

After being lectured he was searched and all his papers were taken from him. So were his photographic plates. These were developed and examined at the insurgent headquarters.

Finally the photographer was put into a taxi-cab under guard, and driven to the frontier, where he was expelled into France at 3 a.m. to-day.

FROM “THE TIMES”

(BY SPECIAL ARRANGEMENT.)

THE DEFENCE OF FREEDOM

The Times, in the course of a leading article largely suggested by the discussion in the Trades Union Congress, says to-day:—In the circumstances of our time the advocacy of pure pacifism can only weaken the power of the nation to resist the hostile forces in quarters where pacifism is suppressed. The breakdown of the national defences might spell the end of the national tradition of freedom. Those who pride peace for the sake of ideals, not merely peace at any price, have a grave responsibility. If the need of defence be admitted as a practical necessity, then it must also be conceded that defence must be adequate. Allowing so much, they may justly expect guarantees that the means of defence shall not be abused, and shall not lead to militarisation or the curtailment of freedom.

But something more is needed than a working agreement on actual measures of defence. Those who complain of the younger generation's lack of patriotism should concern themselves rather with the need for defining and teaching patriotism in higher terms than the mere preservation of a geographical area, its inhabitants and their material interests. Those who are concerned with measures of defence ought to realise the practical importance of ideals, especially in arousing the British people. Two generations back Kipling provided the British people with a gospel of Empire which raised Imperialism above mere materialism. To-day there is need for a new vision—one bigger than Kipling's, and better. There is need also for the sense of a mission—not so much to rule as to influence by example. To gain this, we must grasp the principles that matter in our tradition—above all, the spirit of freedom. If Fascism and Communism can raise enthusiasm among the young, how much better sources have we from which to generate it.

COLONIES IN AFRICA

THE UNION AND GERMANY

HITLER'S DEMAND CRITICISED

From Reuter's Correspondent.

CAPE TOWN, Friday.

SOUTH Africa's opposition to the handing back to Germany of mandated African territories is the keynote of Press comment on Herr Hitler's claim to colonies.

“Almost every member of the Union Government, from time to time during the past three or four years, has stated quite clearly that South Africa cannot consider the retrocession of either South-West Africa or Tanganyika,” says the Cape Times.

After pointing to the “odd coincidence” of the recent statements on the mandates question by Mr. J. H. Hofmeyr, Minister for Home Affairs, at Dar-es-Salaam, and by Mr. Te Water, High Commissioner in London, before the Mandates Commission in Geneva, the paper adds:

“It is difficult to imagine, even on the widest platform of world policy, that the South African point of view could possibly be overridden, much less ignored. It is noteworthy that Herr Hitler failed to specify what Germany's Colonial demands may be.”

A WORLD ISSUE

Te Water's “very correct” statement at Geneva, and declares: “South African opinion is undoubtedly against the handing back of any mandated territory. It is, however, none the less true that the issue will be finally settled not on the very narrow platform of South African policy, but on the wider platform of world policy.

“That is the place where one of those days the Union will have to make its voice heard.”

The Bloemfontein Friend, however, says that Mr. Hofmeyr's recent “hands off Africa” statement is not a final retort to Germany's Colonial ambitions. The newspaper argues that some other way of satisfying Germany's Colonial demands must be found, and it suggests that a way out may probably be found on the lines indicated by Sir Samuel Hoare in his speech to the League Assembly last year.

ANTI-FASCIST ACTIVITY

TWENTY ARRESTS IN ITALY

From Reuter's Correspondent.

ROME, Friday.

It is now admitted in official quarters that about twenty persons were arrested at Terni, north-east of Rome, recently on charges of anti-Fascist activities. It is alleged that they had received money from abroad for propaganda.

The arrested men were workmen at Terni, where there are important steel works. There were no Fascists among them, nor have there been arrests elsewhere.

SYMPATHY WITH SPAIN

It is now reported that certain Fascist officials have been removed from their posts at Terni for failing to get to know about the trouble beforehand.

It is rumoured that there have been a few arrests in Rome, but there is no confirmation of this.

The arrested men are charged with spreading leaflets or chalking up phrases expressing sympathy with the Spanish Government.

U.S. JOURNALIST ORDERED TO LEAVE

Mr. Henry Gorell, acting Chief Correspondent in Rome of a leading American news agency, is under orders from the Fascist Government to leave Italy within twenty-four hours. The reason given for the expulsion is that the agency published a report yesterday to the effect that a Communist organisation had been discovered in Italy and that many arrests had been made.

Yesterday evening, immediately after hearing of the report, the Ministry of Press and Propaganda gave Mr. Gorell twenty-four hours to leave the country. At the request of the United States Embassy the period was extended for another twenty-four hours.

FRANCE'S COLONIAL COMMUNICATIONS

EFFECTS OF THE WAR IN SPAIN

From Reuter's Correspondent.

PARIS, Friday.

The important question of France's colonial communications in relation to the Spanish civil war is understood to have been discussed at a meeting to-day of the Higher Mediterranean Council, under the presidency of M. Blum.

M. Moutet, Minister of Colonies, subsequently gave some indication of the considerations which are occupying the authorities in an interview with L'Information.

The Minister spoke of the eventuality, in a coming conflict, of the Straits of Gibraltar being closed, and suggested that France could be cut off from French North Africa by “nests of marine vipers” in the Balearic Islands.

The Atlantic route from Africa to Bordeaux, he said, could be controlled from Rio del Oro, which, it has been reported in Paris, has been offered to Germany in return for help to the Spanish Fascists.

The Minister added: “With present events in Spain, France's communications overseas, and particularly with West Africa, are at stake, and with that goes our national existence.”

FIGHTING IN PALESTINE

ANOTHER BRITISH CASUALTY

From Reuter's Correspondent.

HAIFA, Friday.

Another British soldier, Sergeant Sweeny, of the Loyal (North Lancashire) Regiment, was killed this evening in an encounter with a large band of Arabs near an Arab village at the foot of Mount Carmel, four miles east of Haifa.

Five Arabs were killed by a British detachment from the Loyals in co-operation with R.A.F. 'planes.

The Arab Higher Committee is meeting Sir Arthur Wauchope, the High Commissioner, to-morrow. They are expected to make a statement regarding the calling-off of the strike or otherwise and to present a memorandum on the recent British announcement of policy.

DOMINICANS AND SPAIN

AN OUTSPOKEN ARTICLE

USE OF ATROCITY PROPAGANDA

“SYSTEMATIZED HUMBUG” AND ITS EFFECTS

BELOW we give some extracts from a long article, entitled “Catholic Atrocity—Propaganda,” in the September number of Blackfriars, a monthly review edited by the English Dominicans. (The cross-headings are ours.)

The vilest feature of modern warfare—viler than poison-gas, which kills only the body—is the spiritual poisoning of the masses (says the writer), and this most especially by the systematic arousing in entire nations of man's basest and most soul-destroying passions of hate and revenge by Press, radio, camera and cinema.

The quasi-absolute warfare of to-day necessitates this spiritual corruption and degeneration of the civil population, and the dissemination of atrocity propaganda is its most effective form. The grim determination which must be maintained by every man, woman and child if the strains and horrors of modern warfare are to be endured, and if what is ironically called their “morale” is to be sustained, needs to be nourished by harrowing accounts—true, false or embellished—of the crimes of the other side. Posters urged us to “remember” (not Christianwise, forgive and forget) Louvain, Scarborough, Edith Cavell, the Lusitania. Italians must be goaded by Ethiopian mutilations; Ethiopians (and sanctionists) by Italian gas and Red Cross bombings; Spanish Reds, by the memory of the brutalities of the Asturias; Spanish Whites, by that of the assassination of “Fascist” leaders, and (this is our point) of burning churches, butchered priests and violated nuns.

Thus, deliberately and scientifically, the fever of revenge (still euphemistically called “reprisal” as a sop to Christian and humanitarian sentiment) is enkindled and fostered, the ethics of war are forgotten, and “war” becomes a demoniacal massacre, enflamed by the personal hatred of whole peoples and classes—a thing, it needs to be said, which has nothing whatsoever to do with the Bellare of St. Thomas Aquinas.

“INTOLERABLE”

That modern States and parties should be compelled to resort to this sort of thing is bad enough in all conscience. That Catholics as Catholics should participate in it and allow the spirit of hate and revenge to be exploited by capitalist Press Lords with approval from Catholic pulpits is intolerable. It should go without saying that the prayers and the most deeply-felt sympathy (the word is grotesquely banal) of Catholics throughout the world are with the Catholics in Spain during the present almost unprecedentedly hideous persecution. That a Catholic esprit de corps should, on that account, induce us to side with the insurgents, and have no sympathy whatever with the “rabble” in their resistance to what they believe (and their opponents seem to give them plenty of reason to believe) to be the threat of an oppressive, murderous and reactionary tyranny, not only does not follow, but is fundamentally un-Christian.

If butchered Spanish priests and religious are “martyrs,” indeed, then it is to God alone (continues the writer) that their blood cries for vengeance—the vengeance of His mercy. It is irrelevant to this that General Franco is a devout Catholic, known to Our Special Correspondent, and even that the ideology of the Red leaders is anti-God. The fact is that the struggle in Spain is a detestable and sinful business, and should be regarded as such by Christians.

As to the religious persecution we and our Press cannot have it both ways. Either the Spanish priests and nuns are “martyrs” or they are not. If they are, it is sacrilege to exploit their blood and sufferings to enflame fratricide, or to bait foreign intervention on behalf of the insurgents. If they are not—but who will say they are not?

“MUST GOD GO FASCIST?”

Under the caption “Must God go Fascist?” the Dominican writer continues:—The temptation for Catholics to give moral and material support to the Spanish insurgents in their struggle with the common enemy of the Communized Left is but one form of a larger problem, which, owing to the changed tactics of Moscow in the formation of United Fronts and the consequent new political groupings, is rapidly becoming an acute one.

On the legitimacy of participation in the new United Fronts of the Left authority has spoken unhesitatingly and unmistakably, and events in Spain have rapidly justified the rightness of its prohibition. (It may be remarked, in passing, that this is not a merely continental issue; it may very soon become critical for the consciences of British trade unionists and Labourites.) But United Fronts of the Left engender United Fronts of the Right, and the question of the legitimacy and desirability of co-operation with Fascism becomes pressing.

Before the insurrection in Spain, Don Luigi Sturzo had already contributed to the Dublin Review some “Experiences and Reflections” which, coming from a writer of his wide experience of political realities and uncompromising fidelity to authentic Christian principle, command particular attention at the present critical moment.

The writer then quotes Don Sturzo as follows:—

PROBLEM FOR CATHOLICS

“The problem facing all true Catholics is . . . . . whether they can in conscience accept, or, worse, promote, a State régime that denies civil and political liberties, thus depriving themselves of the necessary instruments for asserting or, in any case, defending moral values in public life . . . . We will pass over the practical experiences of Catholics under dictatorships for whom the problem of choice no longer exists. It exists instead for the Catholics of France, Spain (alas it seems no longer), Belgium, Holland and elsewhere, and even in England, where British Fascism finds no few sympathisers among young Catholics. Do Catholics find that the Fascisms of the various countries (whatever name they may adopt) possess that minimum of morality, without which membership, or even support, must transform itself into a 'co-operation in evil,' in the sense in which the phrase is used by moralists?"

Continuing, the writer in Blackfriars, in a section headed "The Genesis of God-hatred," asks:—"But why this feverish, insensate hatred of religion among the Spanish mob? For ourselves, we believe that the answer to that is something to fill us with shame and fear, rather than righteous indignation. For when we have said all that has been said—the Spanish Church's relative indifference to social evils, her political associations, wealth, clerical privileges (all apt to be exaggerated)—much still remains to be explained. Marxist agitators? But can we believe that these would have such success were there not some deep-seated resentment to agitate? Even the fact that those of the clergy who, directly or indirectly, live on dividends are, willy-nilly, and even in spite of themselves, dragged into the class-struggle on the side of Capital (a fact which, in their seclusion and indifference, they are too apt to forget) does not wholly explain these happenings.

"BOURGEOIS RELIGION"

We have to explain the fact that men and women who yesterday were, at least nominally, Catholics are to-day swept by a frenzy of hatred, not merely against ecclesiastics, but against the Church, against religious emblems, altars, the Host (witness the photograph of a firing squad expending precious ammunition on a monster statue of the Sacred Heart). The hatred of a Nero, a Marx, a Lenin for Catholicism is milk and water compared with that of the ex-Catholic, whether its expression be purely literary or through physical violence. The fact is notorious; what is the explanation? We make no particular reflections on Spanish Catholicism—and we are well aware of the heroic sanctity of many Spanish Catholics, even before the persecution—when we suggest that the answer is to be found in the rottenness of conventional bourgeois religion, which crushes the spirit of man.

Under the side-heading of "Scandalphobia," the writer says:—It is, we believe, to the spiritual rottenness of "respectable" bourgeois religion that we must look for the ex-Catholic's peculiar detestation of Catholicism. . . Originally, and still theologically, scandal-giving means putting a stumbling-block in the way of others and inducing them to sin. Nowadays it has come to mean not doing anything to hurt one's own individual or corporate reputation—and in practice often comes to mean not doing anything valuable or creative at all.

"SYSTEMATIZED HUMBUG"

It is a purely negative and negativing "virtue," though it sometimes assumes a nauseating positive form of systematized humbug under the name of "giving edification." . . . Under a Scandalphobian régime theology dies. Instead of being fides quaerens intellectum, the adventurous search for the discovery of new implications of God's revelation and its applications to new situations and problems, it becomes the parrot-like repetition of old formulas.

The article in Blackfriars concludes:—The Rothermere Press has sent prepaid telegram forms to the clergy inviting "support" in their "efforts to make clear to the British people the campaign of the Reds in Spain against Christianity and civilisation." But the Osservatore Romano remains firmly neutral and anti-interventionist, a Catholic Spaniard in Sept (August 21) shows how the insurgent army has betrayed his country, and Mauriac in Figaro (August 18) shows the irony of their Assumption celebrations of the Badajoz massacres.

"A VERY GREAT CHIEF"

TRIBUTE TO GENERAL GAMELIN

From Reuter's Correspondent.

PARIS, Friday.

A warm tribute to General Gamelin Commander-in-Chief of the French Army, was paid by M. Daladier, the Minister of War, at the conclusion of the French autumn manœuvres in Provence.

M. Daladier described the General as "A very great chief, simple, kindly and far-seeing, who is an admirable inspiration to our army.

"When the army is provided with indispensable material the country will have nothing more to fear," concluded M. Daladier.

IRISH CHRISTIAN FRONT

FUNDS RECEIVED ALREADY EXHAUSTED

The Executive Committee of the Irish Christian Front announce that they are now in a position to handle supplies to any amount provided sufficient money is available. Persons anxious to subscribe are asked to forward their subscriptions direct to the Irish Christian Front, Mansion House, Dublin, or to organise a local committee in each parish or town to collect subscriptions, and then forward them to the Executive Committee.

"The members of the Standing Committee," it is stated, "are giving all their spare time to the work of aiding those who are defending with their lives Christianity and Catholicity in Spain, and they feel it is not too much to ask the clergy and prominent people in every parish to organise the financial help the people are prepared to give to this Christian cause."

A representative of the Irish Christian Front has landed in Spain, it is added. The funds that have already been received have been exhausted, and it has been necessary to borrow money to finance consignments of medical supplies and to open up lines of communication with the "patriot" forces.

CORK CITY ARRESTS

FIVE YOUNG MEN TAKEN TO DUBLIN

The five young men who were arrested in Cork early on last Tuesday morning were transferred, under police escort, to Dublin yesterday.

Their arrest followed the alleged painting of political slogans on the street and the discharge of a shot.

The names of four of them are stated to be:—William Conry and Denis Conroy, Carrigtwohill; Michael Walsh, Stream Hill, Cork, and Denis McDonnell, Gardiner's Hill, Cork. The name of the fifth man could not be ascertained. It is understood that they will appear before the Military Tribunal.

HOW FUN FAIRS CHARM THE SCIENTIFIC MIND

DR. HUXLEY ON RACE

EFFECTS OF ALCOHOL ON MOTOR DRIVERS

Special Telegram.

BLACKPOOL, Friday.

Men of science attending the British Association Conference at Blackpool on Thursday tasted of the pleasures that await one in the amusement park. The psychology section reaped the benefit of their experience to-day, when several speakers told the meeting why the Fun Fair wields so potent an attraction.

Mr. Frank Thomas, of Blackpool, analysed the "thrill" of the "Big Dipper," "the Grand National," "Jack and Jill," and other like amusements. Their most obvious function is, he said, to place their patrons in a situation which, if it occurred in a vehicle in ordinary life, would be fraught with extreme physical danger, but which, in this instance, offered also an infallible means of escape. On any of these contrivances you sit in a car over which you have no control—a car which then proceeds to behave alternatively in reasonable and in absolutely nightmare fashion, the reasonable phases enhancing, of course, the emotions of the other. But whether you were being hurtled down an appalling precipice or being, so it seemed, half flung from the car, just when the climax of danger had been achieved, you found yourself once more, if only momentarily, safe.

Fear could be commercialised on the pleasure beach in another way, and this time it seemed to be linked with the exploration curiosity propensity, and to take the form of the fear of the unknown, combined with curiosity to elucidate it. This combination of motives could be manifested in two ways superficially different. The first was exemplified by such contrivances as the "Ghost Train" and the "Noah's Ark," from both of which weird and intimidating noises emerged, inviting the bolder and more curious to venture in, to risk they don't know quite what until they have paid and been in to see.

Examples of the second type of fear-curiosity combination were provided by the character and handwriting readers, who first stimulated and then allayed fear of the unknown, fear of the future, and satisfied curiosity about them.

Referring to games of skill—particularly the more violent ones, such as hitting a knob with a heavy mallet—Mr. Thomas said that these offered an obvious outlet for any unsublimated aggressiveness.. Conscious or unconscious dislike of a foreman or an overseer, aggression towards a rival, and rebellion against familial restraint, or even against traffic congestion, or traffic restrictions, might well be diverted from its real object towards the target which it was thought so vigorously to destroy.

TWO CLASSES OF MAN

The Rev. F. A. Farley, of Blackpool, concluding the discussion, which was on the "Psychology of Mass Entertainment," defined the "extrovert" and the "introvert." The former, he said, was attracted by public entertainment; the latter sought solitude.

The extrovert was permanently nearer to intoxication, and the introvert could transform himself into an extrovert by taking alcohol. The quickness and response of the extrovert made him appear more intelligent than the introvert, who was often hesitant and awkward, but to be an introvert did not mean that he had less intelligence.

Mr. Denys W. Harding, of London, in a paper on "The Desire for Entertainment," described the result of a questionnaire addressed to 200 workers attending adult educational classes. The reply fell into three strikingly different classes. In the first were those who were merely tired. The next and biggest group of the three was of those who referred to disagreeable states of feeling, such as boredum, depression, irritation, worry, and the condition of being "aall bottled up." The third division wanted entertainment when they were feeling cheerful. There were others who approached amusement as a medicine.

EDUCATIONAL SCIENCE

IMPORTANCE OF GOOD HOUSING

In the Educational Science Section, Miss Ishbel Macdonald (daughter of Mr. Ramsay Macdonald) said that the difficulty appeared in all walks of life of getting the person you provide things for to use them. You built houses for the poor, and the less poor lived in them. You addressed electors to get them interested in your political parties, and you found you were addressing only your supporters and politically educated people. (Laughter.) You invented aeroplanes to improve communications, and they were used for bombing and international warfare. The politician said if only you put him in office he would reform the world. But he did not realise how difficult it was going to be to apply the sciences he was putting before his students of economics or politics.

I used to think, said Miss Macdonald, that to provide a good education was the most important responsibility; but I am afraid I have changed my mind. It is no good providing good education if you are not going to provide good houses. (Hear, hear.) The teacher's work, she added, was undone if the child went back to dreadful housing conditions.

PHYSIOLOGY

ALCOHOL AND THE DRIVER

A highly technical discussion on the Molecular Structure of Live Cells in the Body took place in the Physiology Section. So difficult did the subject become that one by one the members began to leave their seats.

Then a young woman joined in the debate to recount her experience after taking a drink of cider.

I was driving in Plymouth, she said, and, not knowing that it was alcoholic, I had a glass of cider. After driving on it I found I could not get off the middle of the road, and could not change gear It was very difficult to drive at all. I know the effect of alcohol on a driver, she added.

Dr. Ratcliffe (Birmingham) said that the most dangerous driver was a man who had had a little alcohol, which removed his caution and lessened the speed of his reaction to danger. Some of the worst accidents I have known, he added, have been where young people have been coming back from a dance in the early hours of the morning after having had a few cocktails. If I were the Minister of Transport I should say that every person under thirty should be teetotal when driving a motor car.

Another doctor member said that, although a man who had taken a little alcohol could touch his toes or his nose with his eyes closed, he could very rarely keep still, and one of the early signs of intoxication was inability to keep still.

Another member asked whether alcohol might not cause an avoidance of accidents. In certain circumstances when the mind was overburdened by worry a man driving a car would not think of his driving. Given a glass of beer or sherry, he believed that a man would drive better.

Alderman W. Melland (Manchester) said that, owing to the lack of facilities for playing, we had become a nation of watchers, although the desire to play games was inborn in those who were now spectators. An analysis in a school showed that 98 per cent. of both girls and boys were game-lovers. Many juveniles first saw the inside of a police court through kicking a bundle of rags about in the street.

EXPERIMENT IN DIET

Mr. A. F. Dufton, of Huntonbridge, told how he lived for ten days on the diet on which the poor of Munich lived in 1795 at a cost of two farthings a day. This was his daily diet:—8 a.m., breakfast—eight ounces of dried rye bread; 1 p.m., dinner—twenty ounces of Rumford soup and one ounce of dry rye bread; 7 p.m., supper—four ounces of dry rye bread. The Rumford soup contained pearl barley, tea, bread, weak vinegar, water, and a little salt.

I was agreeably surprised not only at the palatibility, but also at the apparent adequacy of this diet, he said. I lost weight, it is true, but this was not unexpected. I was not emaciated, however, and did not experience hunger, and was able to do my usual daily work. My friends, moreover, remarked how well I looked. The diet was one of 1,300 calories, compared with the British Medical Association's recommended figure of 3,400 calories.

Mr. Dufton added that his wife had no qualms whatever about joining him on this diet, and felt fitter than before. "Is it not clear," he said, "that with a reduced diet less oxygen is required to consume the food, less blood has to be circulated to transport this oxygen, less moisture has to be exhaled, and less air is breathed. All this means that the body has less work to do. The body, in fact, can idle if food is not ingested unnecessarily."

GERMANY AND THE JEWS

DR. JULIAN HUXLEY'S CRITICISM

Dr. Julian Huxley, at a combined meeting of zoologists and anthropologists, said that political pseudo-scientific usage of "race," notably in Germany, was unscientific. "Race," he added, "can only be defined generally, and if you try to define it in terms of language, culture or nation, you cannot do so in any scientific terms. Quantitative application of the anti-Semitic laws, in distinguishing between Jews, half-Jews and quarter-Jews, is also unscientific.

AGRICULTURAL SECTION

MILK AND THE SPECIAL AREAS

Mr. J. L. Davies, in the Agricultural section, said that consumption of milk in the special areas was below a quarter of a pint per head per day. In South Shields the consumption was as low as .16 of a pint compared with an average for the country of .4 of a pint. Consumption in some of these special areas fell below one pint per head per week. Some towns were above the average. In Derby, Northampton, Peterborough and Middlesbrough consumption was .45 of a pint per head per day. London and Birmingham had fairly high figures, and Manchester a fairly low figure. The highest figures of consumption were at Brighton, Reading and Wellingborough. Generally speaking, consumption per head coincided with income per head.

"DAFT" TOWNS OF ENGLAND

So-called "daft" towns in England were mentioned in an address by Dr. E. Wilson, of Kendal, on "Folk Tales of Westmorland and North Lancashire."

Even to-day, he said, the inhabitants of villages and little towns have a reputation for stupidity. In the Lake District, the beautiful valley of Borrowdale, has this reputation. There it is said that the natives saw a sack of quick-lime smoking and poured water on it.

Another instance of a so-called "daft" town was Hazlegrove, near Stockport. There one man was said to have fenced his garden with wire netting to keep out measles, and another, whose wheelbarrow needed repair, got underneath it, as though it was a motor car.

These stories, he said, helped to show that the humorous folk tales are more alive to-day in England than many people may imagine.

RUST AND ITS COST

Dr. S. Wernick, of London, in a paper in the Chemistry Section, declared that the loss entailed as a result of corrosion constituted one of the most serious drains on the world's resources. This waste was proceeding without a moment's cessation in every country throughout the world. Mankind fights corrosion in many ways, said Dr. Wernick, and in so doing incidentally spends something like a hundred and fifty million pounds annually.

During the course of his banking career Mr. O'Connell became an outstanding figure in Irish banking circles. Mr. Newell, who was pre-deceased by his wife, leaves two sons and six daughters.

COUNT CIANO FOR GENEVA

IF NO ABYSSINIAN PRESENT

From Reuter's Correspondent.

ROME, Friday.

It is believed that Count Ciano, the Italian Foreign Minister, will himself go to Geneva for the Council and Assembly meetings this month.

Count Ciano will only go, however, if it is quite plain that there will be no Abyssinian delegate present, and no fear of demonstrations of any sort.

SOVIET TRADE WITH CANADA

From Reuter's Correspondent.

MOSCOW, Friday.

The Soviet prohibition on the purchase of goods of Canadian origin, and the chartering of ships under the Canadian flag, has been repealed. This decision has been reached by the People's Commissariat on Foreign Trade, following the decision of the Canadian Government to repeal its embargo on the importation of certain Soviet goods into Canada. The embargo had been in force since 1931.

MILK VENDORS' GRIEVANCE

REPRESENTATION ON BOARD

"HIGH-HANDED" ACTION OF MINISTRY

The position which has been created by the establishment of the Dublin and District Milk Board was discussed at a meeting of the Dublin Milk Vendors' Association at Barry's Hotel, Great Denmark street, Dublin, last night.

Mr. B. Doyle (Chairman), who presided, said that members of the Executive Committee of their Association had called at the Department, and on one occasion it had been stated by the Department officials that the Milk Board, under the new Milk (Stabilisation of Prices) Act, would be constituted of an equal number of large distributors' and of small distributors' representatives, with a number of representatives of the producers equalling the combined numbers of the distributors and retailers. The Association had received a letter from the Ministry asking them to submit the names of four members from whom the Minister could select two to act on the board, but when the board was set up last week it was seen that the Minister had selected three representatives of the large distributors, seven producers, and only two of the small distributors.

Their two representatives—Mrs. Lawlor and Mr. Doyle—attended the preliminary meeting of the board, but withdrew after lodging a protest against the non-fulfilment of the promise of the Department that their Association would have equal representation, and asking the Minister to reconsider the matter.

AN ULTIMATUM

On Tuesday last, the day before the meeting of the board, Mrs. Lawlor was rung up by the Minister's Secretary and given fifteen minutes to make up her mind as to whether or not she would act on the board. Mr. Doyle was out on business at the time, but when he got in touch with the Department later the Minister's secretary informed him that the board had then been constituted, and that there had been two other retailers nominated.

The Chairman characterised the Minister's action as "high-handed" in going over the Association's head to appoint two retailers. There were 1,492 retailers who would be included in the Register to be compiled under the Act, and the Association's duty was to look after the interests of these retailers. He warmly refuted the suggestion in some quarters that the Association, or the members of the Executive Committee wanted to sabotage the Act, and said that as a matter of fact the Act was largely framed on the scheme which their Association had prepared.

APPEAL TO MINISTER

On the motion of Mr. Monnelly, seconded by Mr. McHale, it was decided to write again to the Minister asking him to reconsider his decision in allowing only two members of the Association on the Dublin Milk Board, as against three members of the larger distributors, and to reiterate their demand for three members.

Mr. Doyle (Chairman) said that plans were well ahead for the formation of the Co-operative Society which had been discussed at their meeting at Banba Hall. The rules had been now drafted, and were awaiting revision. This they hoped would be done in the next ten or twelve days, and they would then be lodged with the Registrar.

IDENTITY OF VIEWS

YUGOSLAV-RUMANIAN TALKS END

From Reuter's Correspondent.

BUKHAREST, Friday.

Following his two days' visit to Bukharest, during which he has had conversations with King Carol, M. Tatarescu, the Rumanian Prime Minister, and M. Antonescu, the Foreign Minister, Dr. Stoyadinovitch, the Yugoslav Prime Minister, left here to-day, together with M. Antonescu, for Bratislava, to attend the meeting of the Permanent Council of the Little Entente.

Prior to his departure, Dr. Stoyadinovitch, in an interview with newspapermen, expressed the utmost satisfaction at the outcome of his visit. His conversations with M. Tatarescu and M. Antonescu, he said, had revealed a complete identity of views regarding foreign policy. "Consequently," he declared, "the aims, means and policy of the Little Entente remain unchanged."

DERRY MUNICIPAL REPRESENTATION

GOVERNMENT INQUIRY INTO NEW SCHEME

From Our Correspondent.

An inquiry, which is expected to last several days, will be conducted by Vice-Admiral Archdale, C.B.E., Inspector of the Ministry of Home Affairs, into the Corporation's scheme, adopted in March last, which proposes to reduce the number of wards from five to three and the Council membership from forty to twenty-four.

The present constitution of the Corporation is:—Unionists, 23 (a vacancy has been caused by death); Nationalists, 16. If the new scheme is passed it is assumed that the Unionist members would number 16 and the Nationalists eight.

At present the Unionists represent three wards. Under the new scheme they would be returned for two wards, and the Waterside Ward would remain as it is and the other four wards—North, South, East and West—would be redistributed so as to form two wards, North and South.

Unionists claim that the scheme is in the interests of economic and efficient civic management, while the Nationalists allege that it is "a Unionist gerrymandering plot" to perpetuate the Unionist majority.

The proposals were passed by the Corporation in the face of bitter Nationalist opposition.

JAPAN AND HER SUBMARINES

From Reuter's Correspondent.

TOKYO, Friday.

Japan should make a separate invocation of the escalator clause of the 1930 London Naval Treaty if she wishes to retain 16,000 tons of excess submarine tonnage, according to a Note which has been delivered by the United States Government to the Japanese Embassy in Washington. Japanese naval circles are of the opinion that Japan will not follow the American suggestion. They contend that it is more in the spirit of naval disarmament not to build the new destroyers which the British invocation of the escalator clause entitles them to, especially as the London Treaty will terminate in four months' time.

Madame Amelita Galli Curci, the famous coloratura soprano, has, according to her friends, won the greatest gamble of her life. She has signed a contract to sing the leading rôle with the Chicago City Opera Company, on November 17th, when she will be making her first appearance since her throat operation last year. At the time doctors said that she might never be able to sing again.

£114 IN GOLD DISAPPEARS

PENSIONER'S LIFE SAVINGS

CHARGE AGAINST TWO WOMEN

An extraordinary story of the disappearance of one hundred and fourteen pounds in gold, representing the life savings of an old age pensioner, from under the mattress of a bed, was told at a special Court in Dundalk to-day, before District Justice Goff, when Mrs. Catherine McKeever and her niece, Christina Curtis, both of Allardstown, Dundalk, were charged in custody with stealing the money, the property of another Mrs. Catherine McKeever, Mary street, South, Dundalk. The aunt was also charged with receiving the money, knowing it to have been stolen.

Mrs. Catherine McKeever, an old age pensioner, stated that for six or seven weeks Christina Curtis had stopped in her house, in which the witness's husband also lived. The girl slept in the house every night, but sometimes went to the country in the evenings. The girl occupied a front room, and the witness and her husband occupied the back room.

MONEY MISSED

The gold was tied in a cloth bag, which was then placed in a leather bag, and the leather bag was secreted in the furthermost end of the mattress. It was not exposed to anybody, and she believed that no one, save herself and her husband, knew where the money was. She and her husband counted the money on August 16th and it was then all right.

On the 30th August, when Christina Curtis was away, she went to count the money again, and found that it had disappeared. Next morning the girl came back, and asked if everything was all right. "I locked the door," said the witness, "and told her that I was keeping her a prisoner until she told me what she had done with the gold." The girl denied that she knew anything about it.

"I offered her £25 of the money if she returned it," said the old woman, "but she still denied any knowledge of it."

COUNTED EVERY MONTH

Mr. Desmond O'Hagan, solicitor for the two women, asked the witness how often she counted it, and she said about once a month.

Mr. O'Hagan—If nobody could get near the money why were you counting it every month?

Witness—To make sure that I had it.

The witness said that she earned the money by keeping lodgers all her life, and whenever she got a gold coin she saved it.

Patrick McKeever said that, apart from his wife and himself, Christina Curtis was the only one going into the house.

Mr. O'Hagan—Was the money your wife's?

Witness—She was charge hand over it—she was our bank. (Laughter.)

ALLEGED STATEMENT

Inspector O'Mahony stated that while in the barracks Christina Curtis made a statement, and later volunteered to make another, saying that she wanted to tell the truth. In that statement she said she was cleaning a window in Mrs. McKeever's house, and saw a string hanging from the mattress under the bed. She took hold of the string, and attached to it was a cloth purse. She opened the bag and saw there was money in it. She took the bag and gave it that evening to Kate McKeever at Allardstown. Kate McKeever took the bag and said nothing. There would be about two handfuls of gold in the bag. Later her aunt bought her a new coat and also a coat for her sister.

Mr. Philip A. McArdle, merchant, said that Mrs. McKeever, Allardstown, came to his shop and bought groceries. She then asked what sovereigns were worth, and he said he did not know, but he thought about 30s. She changed some sovereigns at this rate in his shop, and he told her that if they were worth more he would send the balance. Later she paid in gold for other goods.

The Justice returned Christina Curtis for trial to Dundalk Circuit Court and adjourned the charges against the other defendant. He allowed bail in both cases.

NO INCIDENT AT SAN SEBASTIAN

FRENCH DIPLOMAT NOT PUSHED

Paris newspaper reports of an incident at San Sebastian, in which M. Herbette, the French Ambassador, and his wife were said to have been treated in a threatening manner by the Spanish Communist Deputy Orondo, were officially denied by the French Ministry for Foreign Affairs yesterday, says Reuter.

The incident was alleged to have occurred after the Ambassador had energetically intervened to secure the release of a French journalist, M. Maurice Leroy, who had been detained by the Government Militia at San Sebastian.

According to the newspaper story, when the Ambassador accompanied a party of French refugees who were embarking on the French destroyer Alcyon, the Spanish Deputy endeavoured to prevent them going on board and pushed the Ambassador aside. After some sharp verbal exchanges, in which M. Herbette was said to have taken up a very firm and dignified attitude, the refugees embarked.

In its denial that any such incident had taken place the French Foreign Office declares that correct relations with the authorities at San Sebastian have been observed throughout.

REBELS NOT YET RECOGNISED

SOUTH AMERICA AND SPANISH WAR

The Spanish struggle is being followed with keen interest in South America.

From Montevideo a number of prominent Uruguayans, including Dr. A. Navarro, Vice-President of the Republic, have sent a message to the Spanish insurgent junta at Burgos signifying their support.

In Argentina a bill submitted by Senator Sanchez Orondo, to recognise the Spanish insurgent junta at Burgos as the Government of Spain, has been withdrawn following a request from General Cabanellas, head of the Burgos junta, that no action should be taken until the insurgents have entered Madrid.

CORONATION INVITATION

From Reuter's Correspondent.

ATHENS, Friday.

Sir Sidney Waterlow, the British Minister in Athens, acting on behalf of King Edward, has asked King George of Greece to attend the Coronation ceremonies next May with other members of the Greek Government. It is considered most likely that King George will accept. If he cannot attend, his brother, Prince Paul, will probably take his place.

MEDICAL AID FOR SPAIN

NORTHERN IRELAND UNIT READY

DEPUTATION TO VISIT DUBLIN TO-DAY

From Our Correspondent.

BELFAST, Friday.

A meeting of the committee of the movement in Northern Ireland for sending a medical unit to Spain was held in Belfast to-night, when it was reported that, in conjunction with a similar movement in Scotland, it had been arranged to despatch a unit to Spain next week. The permission of the Spanish Government for the despatch of the unit had been received.

Two members of the unit would be natives of Northern Ireland, it was stated, and they were both well qualified in ambulance and first-aid work.

£200 has been subscribed in the North towards the cost of equipping and sending out the unit.

The question of forming a second unit is under consideration. Members of the committee will visit Dublin to-morrow (Saturday) with a view to enlisting the co-operation of Free State sympathisers with the movement.

LIVERPOOL TO NEW YORK

FLYERS TO START AT DAWN

ONE-DAY ATLANTIC MAIL SCHEME

If the weather reports are satisfactory, Harry Richman and Dick Merrill will leave Speke Aerodrome, Liverpool, at dawn to-day on their return flight across the Atlantic.

When they were entertained at luncheon yesterday by the Lord Mayor of Liverpool (Councillor R. J. Hall), Mr. Richman said that a dawn departure would entail the work of filling the petrol tanks of the 'plane Lady Peace with 800 gallons of special spirit at three a.m. This, he said, would allow about two hours for any condensation to take place. The total weight of the machine and its load would be more than six and a half tons—250 lbs. more than when they left America—and a speed of between 105 and 110 miles an hour would be needed to lift it from the ground

Mr. Richman said that he was particularly concerned about the getaway, but he had been assured that steam rollers would be at the airport to smooth out the comparatively few bumpy patches, and assure a safe getaway.

When the flyers leave they will carry a message of goodwill and greeting from the Lord Mayor of Liverpool to the Mayor of New York. With a view to showing the possibilities of future air mail services between New York and Liverpool, it is proposed to have the Lord Mayor's letter cancelled by the postal authorities one hour before the departure. This will show that it will be possible to post a letter in Liverpool and have it delivered in New York the same day.

The flyers calculate that they will have a range of 22 hours, and, in view of the weather report, their fuel consumption, which was 53 gallons per hour on their flight to England, has been cut down to 45 gallons per hour for the homeward journey.

Starting at dawn, they plan to have breakfast in England and dinner in New York, the same day. The time difference of five hours will be in their favour, and they will have 20 hours of daylight. They should reach Newfoundland at about 2.30 p.m. to-day (British summer time), and New York at about 1 a.m. on Sunday (British summer time). It is calculated they will make a speed of about 160 miles per hour with their heavy load for the first thirteen or fourteen hours, as far as Newfoundland, and that the speed then will rise to 200 miles per hour for the final stage. They will have just sufficient fuel range; but the weather reports from Nova Scotia and the Atlantic seaboard are very good.

CAR DIVES OFF A QUAY

MAN DROWNED: WIFE AND CHILD SAVED

Within two hundred yards of his home a 32 years old man was drowned at Weymouth last night, when his small saloon car nose-dived over the edge of Weymouth quay into the harbour.

He was Lawrence McGinn, employed at a Weymouth brewery, of Franchise street, Weymouth. In the rear seat of the car were his wife and four years old child, Tony.

Apparently, as the car fell into the water, Mr. McGinn turned in his seat and opened the door of the car, enabling his wife, hugging her child in her arms, to scramble out.

Half a minute late the car sank, trapping Mr. McGinn. The vehicle was not salvaged until an hour later, when police and scores of helpers assisted in bringing it to the surface. A steward named Alan Beck, on a yacht near-by, who saw the incident, jumped overboard and brought Mrs. McGinn ashore. Another man rescued the boy.

It is believed that the tragedy occurred through Mr. McGinn swerving to avoid a child in Hope square.

SABOTAGE IN U.S. CRUISER

From Reuter's Correspondent.

NEW YORK, Friday.

It was revealed to-day that a small fire occurred in the U.S. cruiser, Indianapolis, recently while she was undergoing repairs in the Brooklyn naval yard. The outbreak was "undoubtedly deliberate," the manager of the yard declared. Two nails were found driven through a power cable, thus causing a short circuit. The U.S. Navy Department has begun an investigation.

TWO WINS IN ONE WEEK

MANX SENIOR GRAND PRIX

LEAKING TANK DRAMA IN LAST LAPS

From Our Motor Cycling Correspondent.

The issue in the race for the Senior Manx Grand Prix yesterday depended on whether a rider who found his tank leaking on the second last of the six circuits of thirty-eight miles round the Island had taken on sufficient fuel during twenty-four seconds at the pits to carry him to the finish, and whether he could regain the precious seconds he had lost in replenishing.

The rider concerned was Austin Munks, Lincolnshire motor agent, who won the Junior race on Tuesday. When he entered on his last lap he had lost the lead he held from the second lap because of his second call at his pit. Riding faster than he had done at any part of the race, and attaining a speed of nearly eighty miles an hour, he answered the questions in the affirmative and won by ten seconds, having covered the two hundred and twenty-six miles of the race at an average speed of 78.88 m.p.h.

As in the Junior race, the man who chased Munks throughout was Blyth, the Kirkcaldy rider, and for the second time he suffered defeat by a very narrow margin. There were 39 riders in the race, but, except for the first lap, the Lincolnshire man and the Scotsman had the issue between them.

Kenneth Bills, a rider who was not regarded as a potential winner, created a surprise by coming into first place in the first lap, and, when deprived of the lead on the second lap, held on to third place for four of the remaining five circuits. He finished in third place, and behind him was another member of the Perth and Kirkcaldy Club, McEwan.

ONE IRISHMAN

The remaining 35 riders may be dismissed by saying they "also ran." One of them was an Irishman, Martin, of the Belfast and District Club. He was in trouble with his plugs from the start, and retired on the second circuit. Result:—

1—Austin Munks (Norton), 2 hrs. 52 mins. 14 secs.—78.88 m.p.h.

2—J. H. Blyth (Norton), 2 hrs. 52 mins. 24 secs.—78.80 m.p.h.

3—K. Bills (Norton), 2 hrs. 53 mins. 39 secs. —78.24 m.p.h.

RECORD ATTACK AT BONNEVILLE

PROGRESS OF COBB AND COMPANY

From Reuter's Correspondent.

SALT LAKE CITY, Friday.

Driving methodically and without any apparent effort to break the records for shorter distances, John Cobb, the British motorist, raced serenely towards a new world's 24-hour record on the Bonneville Salt Flats to-day.

Cobb and his co-drivers, T. E. Rose-Richards and C. H. Hindmarsh, are driving a Napier-Railton car in an attempt to beat the present record, held by Captain G. E. T. Eyston, who last July covered 3,578 miles 512 yards, at an average of 149.10 miles an hour.

At the 200 miles mark, covered at an average of 161.19 miles an hour, Cobb was slightly behind the schedule maintained on Monday by Jenkins, whose average for that distance was 162.47 m.p.h.

After covering 340 miles, Cobb handed over the wheel to Rose-Richards, who had only done two laps before he returned to the pit to have a new set of tyres fitted. This caused the average to drop slightly, and at 500 miles it was 156.50 m.p.h., as compared with Jenkins's official average of 159.03 m.p.h. and Eyston's 152.34 m.p.h.

ULTIMATUM TO COTTON OPERATIVES

WEAVERS' OFFICIAL REPLIES

Mr. A. E. Naesmith, general secretary of the Weavers' Amalgamation, last night replied to the announcement of the decision of the Cotton Spinners' and Manufacturers' Association to withdraw from negotiations for a general wage increase in the Lancashire cotton industry unless 200 operatives on strike at the Firth mills of Messrs. Mark Nutter, Ltd., at Skipton, Yorks, return to work.

Mr. A. Naesmith, a delegate to the T.U.C. Congress at Plymouth, said to a reporter last night at Plymouth: This decision of the Cotton Spinners' and Manufacturers' Association is a most regrettable one. It implies that the Weavers' Amalgamation and the Northern Counties Textile Trades Federation are primarily responsible for the withdrawal of labour on the non-union question at the mill at Skipton.

"Throughout recent years there have been repeated instances of individual employers committing breaches of joint agreements both on rules governing disputes and as to piece-price lists.

"The representatives of the Cotton Spinners' and Manufacturers' Association have always dissociated themselves from the action of those individual employers, and informed us that they were not responsible for such actions.

"We ourselves are now in precisely the same position. We have even gone a step further than the employers, inasmuch as we have met the representations urging the Skipton Weavers' Association to conform to the joint rules. In these circumstances, therefore, the employers have no justification for threatening to withdraw from the Conciliation Board procedure, which is a matter between the Northern Counties Textile Trade Federation and themselves.

"This action, if persisted in, will do irreparable harm at a time when friendly relations are of the greatest importance. The employers' action may embitter relationships to such an extent that joint discussions may become impossible."

SERIOUS FIRE NEAR DERRY

TWO BUILDINGS BURNED DOWN

From Our Correspondent.

DERRY, Friday.

Damage amounting to hundreds of pounds was caused by a fire to-night at Longfield, Eglinton, Co. Derry, where a publichouse and a private residence were gutted, only the walls remaining. The outbreak occurred shortly before 10 o'clock, and originated in a room at the rear of the bar, but the cause is unknown.

Mrs. Knox, wife of Joseph Knox, the publican, made the discovery. The only telephone in the vicinity was out of order, but a messenger notified the police at Eglinton, who telephoned to the Derry Fire Brigade.

The Strand section of the brigade turned out, and reached the scene at 10.30. Several lines of hose were laid on from the River Foyle, two hundred yards away, but although the country folk, who were joined later by the police, had worked heroically, the roof had collapsed when the brigade arrived. The firemen concentrated on preventing the flames from spreading to the dwelling-house near by and to Mr. Knox's shop directly opposite.

At midnight the firemen were still on the scene, but by then they had the fire under control.

FAMOUS TWIN'S ACCIDENT

LADY LYTTON'S GRAVE INJURY AT 95

The Dowager Countess of Lytton, who is ninety-five next week, is suffering from a fractured hip, the result of a fall.

A reporter was informed at Lady Lytton's home at Knebworth, Hertfordshire, yesterday, that she was "fairly comfortable," though the serious nature of the injury was causing anxiety in view of her advanced age.

Lady Lytton and her sister, the Dowager Lady Loch, have been described as "England's most famous twins," and are believed to be the oldest twins in the country.

The widow of the first Earl of Lytton (son of the famous novelist, Bulwer Lytton), whom she married over seventy years ago, the Dowager Lady Lytton was Lady of the Bedchamber to both Queen Victoria and Queen Alexandra.

Parted from each other by marriage, the twin sisters carried on a daily correspondence for years.

SISTER'S SYMPATHY

Lady Loch was one of the first to be told of her sister's mishap, and at once wrote a long letter of sympathy. "Lady Loch herself is in the best of health and spirits, though she is naturally very upset by the news from Knebworth," it was stated last night at her Chelsea home.

Her ladyship is looking forward to her birthday on Monday, when she hopes to have a quiet family party here. No special celebrations have been planned, but Lady Loch would like most of all to have as a birthday gift a message to say that her sister is recovering.

In spite of the fact that she will be ninety-five next week, Lady Loch still takes a great interest in the affairs of the day.

SMOKED 73 YEARS AGO

Nearly every day she writes, as she has done for the past seventy years, a letter to her sister at Knebworth, and nearly every day she tries a cross-word puzzle, usually finishing it before she goes to bed.

Lady Loch was married in 1882 to the first Baron Loch, two years before her sister's wedding.

She and her sister have often had a quiet laugh together about the modern girl's smoking habits. They first smoked seventy-three years ago as girls of twelve, when their uncle, Lord Clarendon, used to give them an occasional cigarette.

TILLAGE RETURNS CONFIDENTIAL

RULING IN NORTHERN COURT

The Northern farmers can rely on information disclosed by them to the police in the annual taking of "tillage" returns will remain private in all circumstances was made plain yesterday in the Ulster Bankruptcy Court, when Lord Justice Andrews held that such returns were "privileged," and could not be demanded for production in court.

The matter arose when the adjourned examination of the witnesses in the matter of James King, farmer, Ivy Lodge, Clonalig, Culloville, County Armagh, a bankrupt, was reached.

Mr. Isaac Copeland, for the official assignee, said that application had been made to the Ministry for particulars of certain tillage returns, but the information—which the Court had ordered to be supplied—was declined and privilege was claimed.

Dr. Mills, Crown solicitor, for the Minister of Agriculture, said that he was instructed by the Minister to say that, while he was most anxious to assist the Court, it would be contrary to the public interest to disclose the particulars asked for. The information as to such matters as tillage was confidential. It was collected by the police, and the information was given voluntarily by the farmers. If farmers showed any reluctance when asked for particulars, they were assured that the information would be used only in a collective sense for the purpose of abstracts, and that the individual business of farmers would not be disclosed.

Lord Justice Andrews said that he was not prepared to compel the disclosure of the document in the possession of the Department. "When I made an order for its production," added his lordship, "it was entirely subject to any claim of privilege the Department might make."

His Lordship added that, if the information was given on a purely voluntary and confidential basis without statutory authority, anyone who was given that information might properly refuse to divulge it, and the person who gave it might refuse to give it in future if he found it had been given on a false basis in the past. He did not think it was proper that documents of that nature should be disclosed, and he ruled accordingly.

TRADE UNION AND SPANISH WAR

MR. ERNEST BEVIN COMING TO DUBLIN

A telegram on the attitude of the Amalgamated Transport and General Workers' Union to the Spanish civil war was received by the Irish secretary of the Union (Mr. E. P. Hart) in Dublin yesterday. It was sent by Mr. Ernest Bevin, the general secretary of the Union, from Plymouth, where he is attending the Trades Union Congress. Mr. Bevin is to visit Dublin next week for the All-Ireland conference of the A.T.G.W.U., which takes place in the Teachers' Hall, Dublin, on Thursday, September 17th.

The text of the telegram is as follows:—"Regret misunderstanding regarding attitude of Union in relation to Spanish civil war. See Congress debates in to-day's Press, which will explain our attitude and our desire to see civil war brought to speedy end. Union has always stood for freedom of conscience, and will continue to stand for it. Past action of Union in Ireland best proof of this £1,000 granted is for medical and humanitarian requirements, with definite instructions that medical supplies are to be available for either side whoever are the victims of the awful struggle. I deplore, like every good citizen, shooting of hostages and destruction always associated with civil wars.

Am firmly convinced that action of great trade union movement, as expressed through its Congress, which has kept its head and used all its influence in manner most calculated to receive restoration of sanity and maintenance of ordered government, is justified. At All-Ireland conference I will explain in detail steps we have taken as a union In all wars, and particularly civil wars, I have conceived it my duty to take all possible steps that in the end will minimise evil effects of war. Union also firm in its opposition and resistance to dictatorships, both Communist and Fascist.—Ernest Bevin."

The question of allocating money from the Union's funds for use in Spain arose some weeks ago, when it was alleged by speakers in Ireland that the £1,000 was voted by the Exectutive of the Union to aid the Red troops. This was denied by Mr. Hart at the time, and in reply to a question he put to Mr. Ernest Bevin he received the following telegraphic reply:—"Executive provided £1,000 for fund established by National Council of Labour to provide humanitarian relief for victims of unfortunate civil war in Spain." Yesterday's telegram is an amplification of the previous message and a statement regarding the Union attitude on the Spanish situation.

GOSSIP FROM THE COURSE

BUCKLEIGH'S CUP

Traffic Light Takes the Park Hill Stakes

FROM OUR TRAVELLING CORRESPONDENT.

DONCASTER, Friday Night.

It was the usual fairly quiet ending to the Doncaster meeting this afternoon, and it is to be feared that the punters' problem of getting out was not too satisfactorily solved. The consolation is that it might have been worse.

The Doncaster Cup was won by Lord Glanely's Buckleigh, a colt by Sansovino out of Surbine bred by Mr. Ernest Bellaney, who sold his half-brother by Bosworth in the sales paddocks this morning for 4,000 guineas. Buckleigh had not run what could be called a really good race since his third in the St. Leger last year, but after Enfield had come and apparently won his race to-day he was challenged by the Sansovino colt, and as the time was too short for the great stayer that Captain Boyd-Rochfort trains to come again he was run out of it.

Buckleigh was Lord Glanely's second winner of this race, Singapore having won it for him a few years ago from Brown Jack. Sir Abe Bailey ran two, Cecil and Valerius, the latter carrying the second colours.

Tommy Burns rode Enfield, as P. Beasley thought that he might do better with his jockey changed. Enfield ran well for the Irish jockey, and kept a more forward position than he usually does, for he settled down third, while Valerius made the running, with Cecil second, and Buckleigh lying in the background.

Cecil Fails

Coming into the straight Cecil took it up, but the moment Enfield went up to him he stopped, as he had done so often last year.

It looked any odds on Enfield two furlongs out, and he seemed to have won his race well then, but a late challenge from Buckleigh found him wanting in the ability to turn on speed again, and he was beaten. Valerius finished third, and his much more fancied companion, Cecil, fourth.

Lord Glanely, who has been having a lean season, was delighted with his success of Buckleigh. His trainer, Captain Hogg, had sent Pizarro back to Newmarket before he knew of the owner's intention to run him in the Irish St. Leger, but he is despatching the colt to the Curragh to-morrow, and is going himself later. He tells me that he expects Joe Canty will ride Pizarro on Wednesday.

Traffic Light's Good Win

Lord Astor, whose Rhodes Scholar failed so miserably in the St. Leger, won the Park Hill Stakes with his Solario filly, Traffic Light, who, after a regrettable failure in the Oaks, had easily won the Coronation Stakes at Ascot over a mile. The doubt about her this afternoon was whether she would get a mile and three-quarters, but in a better-run race than usual she got it well, and won by four lengths and three-parts from Crested Crane and Rydal, who was receiving 10lb. from her.

Had Traffic Light been in the St. Leger I am not so sure that she would not have done well there, and much better than Rhodes Scholar. Her time this afternoon was a fifth of a second slower than that in which the last classic race was run, but she was being eased up some distance out, and she seemed to have a ton in hand.

A 20 to 1 Chance

One of those irritating things that have been happening all the week happened again, a 20 to 1 chance winning the first race, the Danum Selling Nursery. This outsider was Solidago, who beat Lady's Slipper by three-parts of a length.

The race for the Town Moor Handicap was much more interesting, and here Finalist was unluckily beaten a head by one to whom he was giving 30lb, Sally Andrews, a filly from Lancashire that almost beat the Gimcrack winner of last season, Paul Beg, at York.

Finalist did not get his run until late, and then he was unlucky not to have got up. He was greatly fancied for the Cambridgeshire last year, and I venture to say he will be fancied again with all his weight, which is 9st. 1lb.

Lawson, who trains Traffic Light, had another winner when Sir Abe Bailey's colt, Cold Scent, easily won the Prince of Wales's Nursery. This Foxlaw colt is bred to stay, and he does stay; for on the stands' side he was always in the forefront, and then came away and won by two lengths and a head from Barking Fox and the bottom weight, a filly by Achtoi from Think Twice, owned by Lady Nuttall, who has just sold her very good horse, Guinea Gap, to Mr. David Browning.

Guinea Gap for Knockany Stud

Guinea Gap, who is by Bachelor's Double, and was bred at Navan by Mr. J. C. Sullivan, has had a fine racing career, and has always been one of the most honest of horses. He leaves Lambourn on Monday for the Knockany Stud, where he will stand at a fee of 49 guineas.

The meeting, which has been such a bad one for backers on the whole, ended on a better note with the success of a favourite. After the way Gainsborough Lass had advertised the Gimcrack Stakes form, in which Mr. Bownass's colt, Merry Mathew, finished third, it was automatic that he should be an odds-on chance. Those who laid the odds never had a moment's anxiety, for he was never off the bit, and won easily from First Thyme.

Selections

To-morrow the orchestra will play some lower notes, for the racing is at Alexandra Park, in the South. The Hampstead Nursery there may be won by JUPITER, the September Handicap by BRUMMELL, and the Muswell Plate by BERIBERI.

At Ripon, RASHIEGRAIN may win the Ripon Autumn Handicap, and BOLD BEN the Wakeham Nursery.

GALTEE MORE.

RUBIS TOPAZE TO WIN

Rashiegrain Should Score at Ripon

W. NIGHTINGALL, the Epsom trainer, whose horses win so regularly on Saturdays, has a particularly good chance of a "double" success at Alexandra Park to-day with Rubis Topaze and Miss Elegance. Rubis Topaze is regarded as the best bet of the meeting.

This colt runs in the September Handicap, over one mile and one hundred and fifty yards. He won over a similar distance at the Epsom Derby Meeting, and appears to be nicely weighted. Another good race he ran was when second to Woodstock, over thirteen furlongs at Alexandra Park in May. He galloped round the bends in great style, and would have been an easy winner at to-day's distance.

Among the most fancied of his opponents is Hollands, for whom Gordon Richards has been retained. This gelding has not been seen in public since he ran unplaced in the Britannia Stakes at Ascot. He was a bit out-classed after half-way, and should be judged on other form. His best race of the year was his third to Esquemeling in April. If he can reproduce that form few if any will beat him.

Jiudo may find his 9st. 4lb. too much; for he was under pressure throughout the last two furlongs to beat some moderate horses at Brighton. Salopette will be running over her best distance, and has a chance at the weights.

Brummell ran a good race behind Fair Cop at Gatwick. He probably needs a longer distance than this to be seen at his best. Hollands may be the one to give

Miss Elegance has also shown useful form over the Alexandra Park course. She is selected for the Finsbury Handicap because the going is now as she likes it—slightly yielding.

Royal Ulster had won three times in succession before being narrowly beaten out of a place in the event won by Monk Vendor at Windsor last month. The best of the others may be Old Folk, who lost ground at the start when third to Pendulum and The Reeve at Kempton Park, but gets the vote.

The Hampstead Nursery is over a mile and presents a big problem. Best news concerns who is confidently expected to defy a 7lb. penalty. This was incurred at Gatwick recently, when he won a six furlongs race in comfortable style. He has since done well in long-distance gallops with older horses.

The little known

has been tried good enough for a race like the Muswell Plate. He may beat Royal Affaire at a difference of 16lb.

RASHIEGRAIN

is regarded as the best to stand in the Autumn Handicap at Ripon. He won comfortably over the course on his last appearance and may not have been charged enough.

NEWMARKET HINTS FOR TO-DAY

We shall have about a score of runners at Alexandra Park. For the Harringay Plate I shall take a chance with and the Juvenile Selling Plate may be won by

POLAR BEAR,

SUNSHADE FILLY.

represent us in the Hampstead Handicap. The last named has being doing well in his latest gallops over distance of this race, and will be difficult to beat.

Talaria, who is bottom weight in the September Handicap is well, but rather moderate. Eastern Loveliness is in good trim, but I shall give one more chance. If doing his best he would win.

Our runners in the Finsbury Handicap are all more or less fancied. Alder Rose, on her best form, will require beating, and there are possibilities about Eta, who finished second to Grey Monarch at Lewis. Eta may be the danger to

SPARTAN III. (nap)

should win the Muswell Plate.

At Ripon my fancies are:—2.15, Chrysomel; 4.15, T.P.; 4.40, Rawana.

NAVAN PROGRAMME

Field of Sixteen for the £200 Hurdle Race

TO-DAY'S meeting at Navan is the second last of the season at this popular venue. The card is an interesting one, with the First Autumn Hurdle as the feature, and for this sixteen runners have been declared. Loustic, who won over hurdles at Naas early in the season and has not run in Ireland since, figures at the top of the handicap, and may not concede 9lb. to the useful four years old, Knight o' London. The latter was third to Bachelor's Lane and Swindle in the Galway Hurdle, and should have come on in the interim. Corrib Lady is another that looks to hold a good chance, and she may be the chief danger to

KNIGHT O' LONDON.

Four of the seven declared runners for the Meath Plate have earned a 10lb. penalty, and in consequence African Spoil is favourably treated and should win. Selections:—

DONCASTER SALES

IRISH-BRED YEARLINGS IN GREAT DEMAND

The total amount paid for yearlings at this week's Doncaster sales was 258,455 guineas. This is 16,062 guineas less than last year, which brought a total of 274,517 guineas. The highest price yesterday was paid for one of Mr. Ernest Bellaney's contingent, a colt by Bosworth out of Surbine, the dam of Buckleigh, who finished third in the St. Leger last year and won the Doncaster Cup yesterday. After some keen bidding Mr. Clarence Hailey secured the colt for 4,100 guineas.

Mr. Cottrill, the Lambourn trainer, was the under-bidder, and previously he had purchased a colt by Dastur out of Golden Thoughts for 3,000 guineas. This yearling was sent up from the Cleaboy Stud.

CONFEY STUD DRAFT

Competition again ran high when Mrs. J. J. Maher's lots came up. Mr. Robert McAlpine secured a filly by Fairway out of Portrait for 3,200 guineas, and another Bosworth colt in her draft, whose dam is Confey, went to Mr. H. Leader for 1,250 guineas. Mr. Wellesley paid 1,050 guineas for a colt by Manna out of Snow Storm, and the Irish Bloodstock Agency, acting on behalf of Mr. J. S. Gerber, gave a similar amount for a colt by Bosworth out of Manana, a half-sister to Royal Minstrel and Hairan.

Mr. C. Jarvis, the owner of Knighted, who is by Sir Cosmo, attempted to obtain a colt by that sire out of Pompeia, but he was outbid by Mr. S. Darling, who gave 1,200 guineas. This yearling was sent up from the Cloghran Stud. Another in the same batch also fetched four figures, Mr. H. S. Persse paying 1,300 guineas for the good-looking colt by Concerto out of Boiarinia.

Lord Portal appeared to have made a bargain when he gave 1,300 guineas for a Foxlaw filly out of Lady Mere. He also bought another filly by Foxlaw out of Last Glimpse for 920 guineas.

IMPORTANT TIES IN THE SHIELD

ROVERS AND BOHEMIANS AT MILLTOWN

In so far as the leading teams—Dolphin, Shamrock Rovers and Bohemians—are concerned, the standard of play has been a satisfactory one, even at this early stage of the season, and the meeting of Shamrock Rovers and Bohemians at Milltown this afternoon in the Free State Shield promises to be an unusually attractive feature.

A fortnight ago at the same venue Shamrock Rovers routed Waterford, who, a week later, provided an upset to form by inflicting on Bohemians the latter's first defeat. Should the form work out, the Milltown team would appear to hold the beating of to-day's opponents, but it is no certainty that they will be capable of doing so.

A strong counter-attraction will be the Shelbourne-St. James's Gate match at Shelbourne Park. St. James's Gate have been rather disappointing, despite some promising displays, but their team is settling down together, and should be one of the strongest in the competition later on. Shelbourne's decisive win over Cork last Saturday will have gone a long way towards instilling confidence to the side, and the points may remain at Shelbourne Park.

The most attractive of the three Shield matches to-morrow will be that between Waterford and Dolphin at Kilcohan Park. Both teams play skilful football, and, though Dolphin have an unbeaten record so far, they will have difficulty in maintaining it against their Southern rivals. Brideville and Sligo Rovers meet at Harold's Cross. Both have been disappointing so far, but ground advantage may be sufficient to turn the scale in favour of the Dublin team. A similar remark applies to the meeting of Drumcondra and Cork at Tolka Park, where the home team, having dispensed with some of the newcomers who assisted them in earlier games, call upon the services of old "stalwarts" in Moore and M. Farrell, in addition to a couple of players from the reserve team.

SOVIET GOVERNMENT'S BID FOR SOLARIO

The Soviet Government have been interested in Solario's potential worth as a stallion in Russia. They have tried to make a deal, but, in the opinion of the syndicate of English breeders who own him, the price was not worth considering. Lord Rosebery is chairman of the syndicate, and other members include the Aga Khan and Lord Glanely, who are two of the biggest breeders of bloodstock. The syndicate paid 47,000 guineas for Solario when he had finished his racing career.

Lord Rosebery stated yesterday—"Solario has not been sold. An offer was made on behalf of the Soviet Government, and, although the syndicate have not the slightest desire to part with the horse, I said that as chairman I must submit the matter to the shareholders. The price offered, when disclosed, was such that it was not worth considering."

FINAL GOES TO 39th

J. C. Brown Beats W. M. O'Sullivan in Remarkable Match

AFTER a really splendid match, Joseph Brown, former Irish close champion, won the Open amateur title of his country for the first time at Portmarnock yesterday, beating W. M. O'Sullivan on the 39th green. Never before has a final of any Irish amateur championship been so closely contested, and seldom has a match fluctuated to the extent that this one did.

FLUCTUATING MATCH

For the first nine holes, O'Sullivan was on top, and averaging fours—an excellent performance considering the stiff breeze—turned three holes to the good. He made his first slip at the tenth, missing a short putt, and the whole game swung round. Brown won that hole, and taking the 12th and 13th made the match square. His third successive win, at the 14th, gave him the lead, but he lost the 15th and 16th to fall behind once more. His advantage appeared to have slipped away completely when he was bunkered on his second shot to the 17th, but O'Sullivan was bunkered, too, and, making much the better recovery, Brown won this hole and the 18th, to finish a most interesting round one up, each going round in 78.

The battle was as close as ever on the second round, O'Sullivan squared the match at the short 7th, lost the next one, and brought the match level again at the turn The 10th and 11th were halved, but weak putting by Brown gave his opponent the lead at the 12th. However, an excellent three by Brown at the 14th saw them level once more. After a half in three at the 15th O'Sullivan again went ahead at the 16th, but he lost a great chance at the 17th by under-clubbing himself, and Brown won the hole with a four.

At this point, the most exciting phase of this remarkable match started. O'Sullivan hit the better tee shot to the home hole, Brown slicing into the rough. The latter's second was so badly sliced that it hit the roof of the clubhouse and fell on to the gravel path below, whereas O'Sullivan hit a beauty on to the middle of the green. At this point Brown played a masterly shot, pitching high into the air, to land three feet from the pin. O'Sullivan's approach putt ran four feet past, and both sank the next putt for a half.

It was at the next hole that O'Sullivan lost his great chance. He pulled his drive, but put his second a few feet short of the green, while Brown, after a straight drive, pulled his second into the heavy rough, pin high. His chip was three yards short, while O'Sullivan ran his up to within three feet of the pin. Brown lipped the hole with his putt, but his opponent, with the match in his hands, missed the short one.

The second—or thirty-eighth—was halved in 5, and at the thirty-ninth, O'Sullivan was short, and Brown over the green in 2. The former ran ten yards past the pin with his chip, Brown laid his stiff, and the match was over, for O'Sullivan, who never sank a long putt throughout the day, could not get this one down. The cards read:—

FIRST ROUND.

Brown—Out: 6 4 6 4 5 5 2 4 5—41. In: 4 4 3 4 5 4 5 5 3—37. Total, 78.

SECOND ROUND.

Brown—Out: 5 4 4 5 4 5 4 4 5—40. In: 4 4 4 5 3 3 5 4 4—36. Total, 76.
O'Sullivan—Out: 5 4 5 4 5 4 3 5 4—39. In: 4 4 3 5 5 3 4 5 4—37. Total, 76.
Extra holes: Brown 5 5 4; O'Sullivan 5 5 5.

ALLISS GOES ROUND IN 67 AT HEYSHAM

Percy Alliss, who recently moved from Beaconsfield to Temple Newsam, Leeds, added to his many golfing honours at Heysham yesterday, when he won the Northern Professional Championship for the first time Alliss started the day three shots behind E. W. Jarman, but brilliant rounds of 68 and 67—the last a new course record—gave him a total of 277, which proved to be five shots too good for any of his rival.

He started the third round happy in the knowledge that he had a clear lead of three shots, and his final aggregate was one of the lowest ever returned in major tournament play in England. Nevertheless, Henry Cotton put up a determined fight, and, with a fourth round of 68, took second place with a total of 282, and so continued his phenomenal run of runner-up in championships this season.

MAHON THIRD

Third place went to one of Ireland's representatives, P. J. Mahon (Royal Dublin), who finished one stroke behind Cotton. Probably the surprise of the day was the deterioration of E. W. Jarman, who had shown brilliant form to gain the lead at the half-way stage, but "cracked" yesterday to the extent of rounds of 74 and 79.

Alliss was not always fortunate in his putting, but he did hole an approach of 150 yards at the seventh in his final round. An outward half of 33 laid the foundation of his ultimate success. His record card was:—

Out .... 4 4 3 5 3 4 2 4 4=33
In .... 4 3 5 2 5 4 3 4 4=34

Total........................ 67

THE AGGREGATES

SCOTTISH TITLE WON BY G. KNIGHT

G. Knight defeated G. Crichton by 8 and 6 in the 36 holes final of the Scottish professional match play championship at Barry Angus yesterday. Crichton did not display the same sound golf of his earlier rounds with the result that Knight, making few mistakes throughout the day, was never in danger of defeat. At the end of the first round Knight was three up, he was six up at the 27th, and became dormie seven two holes later. After playing three shots at the 30th hole Crichton picked up his ball.

GIRLS' CHAMPIONSHIP FOR MISS EDWARDS

Miss Peggy Edwards, of Manchester, won the girls' championship at Stoke Poges yesterday, beating Miss Jacqueline Gordon, of Stanmore, Middlesex, 3 and 2, in the 18 holes final, and throughout the day she was well served by one of the strangest putters ever seen in a tournament. It has a steel shaft which fits to a few inches of an old hickory shaft cut off above the "pipe," and is the property of Miss Edward's elder brother. A few months ago brother and sister exchanged putters, and Miss Edwards did so well with her acquisition that she refused to part with it.

Lack of judgment contributed to the defeat of Miss Gordon, who drove so powerfully that she was almost invariably yards ahead from the tee. Her tendency to snatch at her iron shots, however, led her into all kinds of trouble, and an injudicious selection of clubs for approaching nullified the advantage she gained by superior wooden club play. Results:—

SEMI-FINALS.

Miss P. Edwards (Manchester) beat Miss J. R. Baxter (Bishopbriggs)—4 and 2.

Miss J. Gordon (Stanmore) beat Miss S. Stroyan (Sunningdale)—one hole.

LEINSTER BRANCH MEETING

A CUP COMPETITION ABANDONED

The annual general meeting of the Leinster Branch was held at Mills' Hall last evening. In view of the congestion of the Senior League fixtures at the end of last season, it was decided to suspend the Mills Cup competition for the coming season, and to award the trophy to the team winning the Leinster section of the Irish Senior Cup.

The Hon. Treasurer's report showed an increase of £36 13s. 3d. on last year's balance. The Willwood Club were granted affiliation to the branch.

It was decided to start the League competitions on Saturday, October 3. The last date for receiving entries is September 25, and the draws will be made on September 28.

The following officials were re-elected:—President, Mr. W. F. McDonnell; Hon. Secretary, Mr. W. Chiddick; Assistant Hon. Secretary, Mr. H. V. Keegan; Hon. Treasurer, Mr. J. H. Ross; Hon. League Secretary, Mr. D. J. Colter. Mr. F. Hudson was elected Vice-President. The following were elected on the Selection Committee.—Messrs. W. Graham, W. Chiddick, R. J. Anderson, T. S. C. Dagg and McDonnell. The first two named are appointed to the Irish Selection Committee.

The Emergency Committee is as follows:—Messrs. Morrison, Darlington, Pilkington, and the representatives of Fingal and Coolock.

Grounds Committee:—Messrs. G. D. Findlater, Keegan and Chiddick.

It was decided to form a committee to hear protests, and the following were elected:—Messrs. T. Pender, Findlater, Johnston and R. Campbell, together with the President, Hon. Secretary and Hon. League Secretary.

It was decided to play a round of the Irish Senior and Junior Cups on December 5.

GAELIC GAMES

JUNIOR ALL-IRELAND FINALS TO-MORROW

(By PAT'O.)

Three provinces are concerned in the junior All-Ireland finals at Croke Park to-morrow. Westmeath and Wicklow have reached this stage for the first time but Waterford in recent years have won junior and minor hurling championships. Mayo are confident that their juniors will bring home a title, which will be followed by the more important senior one a fortnight hence. Wicklow men have played a big part in the Gaelic athletic movement, and the appearance of a team from the county in an All-Ireland final is welcome. They will put up a bold show, but they have a big task on hand to beat Mayo, who, as the conquerors of Kerry's smart side at Ennis, will be favourites.

Westmeath's entrance into a final is noteworthy. Captain Cowan and Dr. Harry Conway have taken a big part in developing the games in the county. Waterford won the Munster title easily, and that fact suggests that they have a useful team.

FIXTURES

Croke Park—Mayo v. Wicklow (junior football final), 2.0; Waterford v. Westmeath (junior hurling final), 3.15.

Omagh—Tyrone v. Armagh ((Four-County League), 3.30.

Cork—Glen Rovers v. Sarsfields (county hurling final).

PERRY ENTERS THE FINAL

MISS JACOBS DEFEATS MISS STAMMERS

FOREST HILLS, Friday.

The men's final in the American championships will be between Fred J. Perry and Donald Budge, of California, while in the women's singles Miss Helen Jacobs, holder for the past four years, will meet Miss Alice Marble.

Yesterday, in semi-finals, Perry beat Bryan Grant 6-4, 3-6, 7-5, 6-2, and Budge beat Frankie Parker 6-4, 6-3, 6-3. Miss Jacobs defeated Miss Stammers by 6-4, 6-3, while Miss Marble overcame Miss Helen Pedersen by 6-1, 6-1.

The match between Miss Jacobs and Miss Stammers was the best seen in the women's championship this year. They were far more evenly matched than the score suggests. It was the greater accuracy of Miss Jacobs, who still placed her faith in the heavily chopped stroke, that prevailed against the hard-hitting of her English opponent, who scored with forceful drives from the baseline to Miss Jacobs' back-hand corner.

Perry, who has reached the final for the third time in four years, had to go all out to beat Grant, who, towards the end of the third set, seemed likely to live up to his reputation as a "giant killer." The score was one set all and 5-all before Perry began to "turn on the heat." He came out after the ten minute interval like a giant refreshed, and swept through the fourth set without giving his diminutive opponent a chance to do more than win his own service in the third and fifth games.

MOUNT TEMPLE CLUB

The finals of the Junior Championships—Taylor and Crosbie Cups—will be played to-day, as follows: 3.0, Miss J. Gay (holder) v. Miss O. Ganly; 4.0, W. E. Dawson v. N. Hogan.

In connection with the City of Dublin Y.M.C.A., a junior "Field Day" and the lawn tennis club annual "At Home" will be held to-day at 3 p.m. The "Field Day" will take the form of a programme of athletic sports and several interesting and amusing competitions.

DUBLIN STEADY

NEW LAND BONDS ADVANCE

GUINNESS SUPPORTED

Markets closed on the Dublin Stock Exchange yesterday in extremely quiet fashion, but a steady to firm tone prevailed in most departments.

The Second National Loan declined to 116¼, but good buying put New Land Bonds 1½ points higher War Loan eased to 107 1/16.

Banks attracted support and Hibernians and Nationals added fractions.

Following the recovery in Guinness late on Thursday evening the market opened here all buyers yesterday morning, and the units closed 2s. 6d. higher on the day.

The only movement in Rails was the fall of 17s. 6d. in Great Northern Ord.

Alliance Gas Ord. held 16 11/16 and Todd Burns Deb. jumped 2s. 6d. to 82s. 6d.

Goodbody Ord. eased slightly and Irish Tanners Ord. relapsed to 5s. Goulding Pref. tended higher and Irish Dunlop Pref. and Irish Times 2nd Pref. marked small gains.

There was very little interest taken in British Industrials. Vickers Ord. recovered to 35s. 1½d. and Courtaulds Ord. changed hands at 54s., but Coats Ord. eased to 53s. 1½d.

LONDON BRIGHTER

GERMAN BONDS AGAIN HIGHER

There was little sign on the London Stock markets yesterday of the rather dull tendency which developed in several departments on the preceding day. Naturally, business remained on quiet lines immediately prior to the week-end, but favourable attention was directed to many issues, and as sellers were less in evidence quotations generally assumed an upward trend. Oil shares displayed renewed strength following the statement by the Chairman of the Standard Oil Company on the outlook for the industry, and all round firmness of Australian Government issues reflected the excellent Budget figures. German Bonds also showed to advantage, and a definitely harder tone characterised the Kaffir section.

BRITISH FUNDS.

Investment inquiry for gilt-edged stocks was extremely limited, but the market maintained a steady tendency throughout the session, and prices finished around previous levels. India stocks also moved narrowly, and closed unaltered.

FOREIGN BONDS.

Further buying of Germans was the outstanding point of interest among Foreign Bonds. The Dawes Loan attracted particular attention, and finally showed a rise of 2¼ at 67. The Young issue gained another 1¼ to 45. French Fours kept steady, and little alteration occurred in other Europeans. Among South Americans, Peru Corporations reacted owing partly to disappointment with the debenture interest payment and partly to profit-taking following the announcement. Far Easterns remained quiet, but Japanese Bonds closed higher.

RAILS.

Interest in British Rails was centred in Great Western Ord., which made a good recovery to 52¼. Other issues were neglected, but prices, apart from shrinkages in London and North-Eastern Prefd. and Southern Defd., held up. San Paulo Ord., which attracted a fair measure of support, supplied a strong feature in the Foreign Rail section, where Cordoba Central 1st Debs. also advanced. A notable movement in Colonials was a fresh rise of ⅜ to 12⅜ in Canadas. American Rails became distinctly firmer, and point gains were recorded in Atchisons and Union Pacifics.

INDUSTRIALS.

Profit-taking, although on a reduced scale, was still in progress in Industrials, but support was offered on any reaction in values and in consequence the market displayed a firmer appearance. A feature in late dealings was renewed buying of Electrical Equipments, with Generals especially favoured. In the Brewery section, Guinness Units fluctuated irregularly, but after dropping to around 147s. 6d. they rallied, and eventually were only slightly lower on the day. Iron and Steels encountered support, and were mostly better at the close, while several of the leading Aviation issues made fresh headway. Motors were assisted by the favourable production figures, and tended to improve under the lead of Standards. A notable movement in the Miscellaneous group was a spurt in Murex. Trans-Atlantics, after a firm start, became easier, and finally were lower in places.

MINES.

Business in the Mining market showed little expansion, but there was slightly more activity in Kaffirs, and several issues in this section regained part of recent losses. West Africans remained quiet and showed little alteration, and nothing of importance transpired in other Gold shares. Copper shares continued under favourable influence of the quota decision, and Rio Tintos and Central Rhodesians registered fresh gains.

SLANE BRICK COMPANY

The annual general meeting of the Slane Brick Co., Ltd., was held at the company's offices, 44 Kildare street, Dublin, yesterday. Before proceeding with the business of the meeting, the members signified their sincere regret at the loss of the late Managing Director, Mr. Walter Conan, of whose lamented death they had heard with sorrow. The Chairman, Mr. George Nesbitt, explained the policy of the directors, pointing out that they were satisfied that the experimental and development stages through which the company had passed were now at an end, and they were in a position to supply the best bricks manufactured in this country. Quoting from the Advising Architect's report, the Chairman said: "If the product is maintained at its present high level there must be a ready sale for the bricks amongst the builders."

The members proceeded with the usual routine business, and thanked the Chairman for his efficient guidance of the company to its present position, and endorsed the general policy of the directors in their efforts to ensure the future success of the undertaking.

THE INDUSTRIAL MARKET

STANDARD MOTORS BRIGHT

Trading in the Industrial market remained on a small scale yesterday, and, although moderate support was noticeable in places, share values moved in rather irregular fashion. The undertone, however, was satisfactory.

The transatlantic counters reflected the uncertain trend of Wall street. Nickels dipped at one time to 55¼, but recovered eventually to 56⅜. U.S. Steels closed at 71, after 70¼. Radios gave way to 11 1/16.

Cable and Wireless stocks remained neglected.

In the Cinema group, Gaumont-British issues receded.

MOTORS FIRM

A generally firm tone prevailed among the Motor issues, and Standards were finally 1s. 9d. to the good at 117s. 3d. Thos. Tillings, Leylands and Austins also showed gains.

Fresh support was in evidence for the leading Aircraft issues. De Havillands hardened to 75s., and Boulton and Pauls to 8s. 6d. Napiers were also supported.

Although a little support was noticeable for Electrical Equipments, they made a rather mixed showing. General Electrics recovered to 92s. 3d., but Callenders and Henleys finished easier. Electric Supply shares ruled fairly steady.

There was little fresh business passing in the Iron and Steel section, but the tone remained fairly steady. Tube Investments came in for further attention, and there were buyers about for Babcock and Wilcox.

Swan Hunter and the Colliery group generally presented a firm front.

Drapery and Stores issues continued firm, and Provision shares were steady, with Tate and Lyles a good feature.

TEXTILES QUIET.

The Textile group continued quiet, and Calico Printers were again rather dull. Among Rayons, Courtaulds were affected slightly by a few profit-taking sales.

Breweries showed no decided trend. Guinness gave way at first to 147s. 6d., but recovered later to 149s. Watney Defd. received quiet support.

In the Alcohol section, Distillers were a trifle harder.

Newspaper shares were mostly easier.

Bank shares moved within narrow limits, while Insurance issues still seemed rather undecided in their movements.

Shipping shares did not move to any appreciable extent.

An irregular tone was again apparent in the Miscellaneous section. British Oxygens were subject to moderate profit-taking, but Murex, on the other hand, came into renewed request on dividend expectations; but Imperial Chemical Ord. were slightly easier.

Cement issues were not materially altered, but Triplex Glass continued to attract support and appreciated to 121s. In the Chemist group, Beecham Defd. closed 1s. lower owing to some disappointment with the interim dividend.

OILS MAINLY FIRM

Firmness prevailed in the Oil share market at the start yesterday, encouragement being derived from the favourable views expressed in authoritative quarters regarding the American oil situation. Later, however, some nervous selling was encountered, which, coupled with a slackening of demand, caused an irregular tendency. Chief interest among the leaders centred on Shells, a steady local investment demand being accompanied by repurchases by Continental operators. The Eagle issues were rather less active than recently. Mexican Eagles finished with a loss of 6d., and Canadian Eagles eased to 18s. Firmness prevailed among Trinidad issues, and a strong feature was provided in other directions by British Borneos, which advanced to 17s. 6d. Otherwise, price changes were of little importance.

RUBBERS INACTIVE

Notwithstanding firmer conditions in the commodity section, where spot rubber improved to 7 11/16d. per lb., rubber shares yesterday were again practically neglected. The market, however, was distinctly steadier, as sentiment was more cheerful, and few sellers were in evidence. Djasinga, Telogoredjo, and one or two others of the better-class shares attracted modest support, but the few movements which occurred were unimportant. U.K. rubber stocks are estimated to have been reduced by 1,150 tons during the past week.

LONDON MINING MARKET

RECOVERY IN RAND GOLD SHARES

Most sections of the Mining Market yesterday were looking decidedly steadier than on the two preceding days, although it could not be said that trade was active.

So far as Kaffirs were concerned, there was a fair amount of investment buying of the dividend payers in progress. East Rand Props. came well to the fore, and Randfontein were also a notably firmer market. Government Areas were in demand on French account, and Crowns, largely owing to a similar influence, advanced.

The Far-Western Rand shares, however, after a firm start, had a depressed appearance in the final dealings.

Little of importance occurred in Diamond shares, but the Rhodesian market, on the whole, gave a better account of itself. The Copper shares were again notably good, a substantial turnover at rising levels being witnessed.

West Africans fluctuated in some instances, but actually little business was done in this market, and movements proved unimportant.

Australian and Miscellaneous Gold shares failed to attract much attention.

Tin shares were well maintained without, however, claiming a great deal of interest.

Another item of interest in this market was the quoting of Aramayo ex the capital return of 5 Swiss francs per share. Closing prices:—

FINANCIAL PARAGRAPHS

Rand Gold Output

Figures issued by the Transvaal Chamber of Mines show that the gold output of the Witwatersrand for August totalled 946,046 ozs., and of the outside districts 18,471 ozs., making a total of 964,517 ozs. Compared with the aggregate for July last, a decrease of 3,476 ozs. is shown, but an increase of 35,186 ozs. is apparent when compared with the result for August of last year. The daily average was 31,113 ozs. against 31,225 ozs. in July. The number of natives employed on the gold mines—294,556—shows an increase of 2,055 and sets up a record.

Oil Consumption

According to the President of the Standard Oil Co. of New Jersey, the consumption of oil will go on increasing until it reaches a point far in advance of previous standards, unless some outbreak of political passion, or unwise policies, lead to a renewal of the slump. He added that in 1935 the world production of crude oil exceeded the record output of 1929, while in 1936 it continued to increase even faster. This caused a certain amount of disquiet in America some time ago, but the remarkable growth in the consumption of motor fuel during the summer prevented the market from becoming unsettled.

Peruvian Corporation

Recent railway traffic of the Peruvian Corporation have encouraged the hope of better results, and it is now announced that a payment will be made on the 6 per cent. 1st Debentures on October 1 next of £4 per cent. As to £3, this will relate to the coupon due in October, 1933, and as to the balance to the instalment due on April 1, 1934. Under the moratorium interest on the Debentures is cumulative, but it is payable only to the extent to which earnings, in the opinion of the Debenture Holders' Committee, permit, while arrears carry interest at 6 per cent. In December last the scheme was extended and now runs to December 31, 1938. On October 1 a payment of £3 9s. was made, of which the odd shillings represented interest on arrears. As compared with the year's lowest price of 56 the Debentures have lately risen to 71½, while the Ordinary stock has moved up from 1⅝ to 3¼, and the Preferred from 9 to over 11.

U.S. Maize Crop Forecast

The low cotton crop forecast was followed by a maize crop forecast of 1,458,000,000 bushels, the smallest aggregate for the past fifty years. The August 1 forecast was 1,439,000,000 bushels. The wheat forecast is 630,241,000 bushels, against 633,000,000 bushels on August 1. On September 1 the condition of the maize was 40.5 per cent., and all spring wheat 31.2 per cent.

Philco Radio

In a circular to shareholders the directors of the Philco Radio and Television Corporation of Great Britain state they anticipate profits for the current year to exceed the £100,000 estimated in the offer for sale of June 25 last. In order to meet expanding business, they have decided to offer both Preference and Ordinary shareholders forthwith the 100,000 unissued 6 per Cent. Preference shares of £1 each at the price of 20s. 3d. per share. The new shares will rank pari passu with the existing Preference shares, and will receive a full six months' dividend, due January 1 next. In the event of oversubscription, allotments will be made pro rata to applications.

Baird Television

Baird Television, Ltd., has sent out a notice to shareholders stating that the completion of the audit of the accounts to June 30 last has been delayed. The directors have decided to alter the financial year of the company to end on June 30, instead of September 30. It is obligatory to hold a general meeting within 15 months of the last annual meeting, and the annual general meeting is, therefore, called for September 18, though the accounts and report cannot be included. The chairman will propose the adjournment of the meeting until October 16, when the accounts will be available. The delay in the audit is due, it is stated, partly to the alteration in the financial year and partly to the installation of apparatus at Alexandra Palace at short notice in order to transmit programmes to Radiolympia and to arrange demonstrations for shareholders.

Lena Gold Note Sale

Following the authorisation at the extraordinary meeting on Thursday of the Lena Goldfields directors' acceptance of the offer for the purchase of the U.S.S.R. notes, a circular has been issued to shareholders. This states that at the earliest possible moment a petition will be presented to the Court to sanction a reduction in the capital of the company and to approve the repayment to the shareholders of such part of the reduced capital as is no longer required by the company, either in the form of cash, equivalent to about 8½ per Lena share, or in the form of U.S.S.R. notes, to be held in trust for those shareholders who desire it in that way.

Aviation Alliance

A working agreement is being entered into between Super-Marine Aviation Works (Vickers) and British Marine Aircraft whereby the former will sub-contract with the latter until the end of the R.A.F. expansion period. By this agreement the works of British Marine Aircraft will be kept active on work for the Vickers company for a long time. Any contracts they cannot fulfil will be dealt with by the British Aircraft Manufacturing Company.

THE MONEY MARKET

TREASURY BILL RATE LOWER

The average indicated rate at which Treasury bills were allotted yesterday shows a slight fall from last week. It was approximately 10s. 6d., compared with last week's rate of 10s. 9.49d. Tenders for the full amount of £50,000,000 dated Monday to Saturday at £99 17s. 4d. received about 68 per cent. and above in full.

The price of gold resumed its decline in London with a fall of 1d. to 137s. 6½d. per fine oz. Only £102,000 was disposed of. The premium over the dollar remained unchanged at 1½d., but that over the franc narrowed to 9d. No bullion movements were reported at the Bank of England.

Silver prices, both for spot and for two months' forward delivery, remained unchanged at 19½d. per oz. in London.

There was still only a very small demand for money at ½ per cent., and bill rates were unchanged, with three months' bills quoted at 9/16 to 11/16 per cent.

THE FALLING FRANC.

The flight of French funds to foreign centres continued yesterday, though on a reduced scale. In the Foreign Exchange market business was on a moderate scale, while movements in rates were erratic. The relapse in the franc was resumed in the morning, and by the close of the day the currency was again at the low levels reached on Wednesday evening. The British authorities did not attempt to check the downward trend of the franc in relation to sterling, except perhaps shortly before the close. In the Paris market the dollar was still offered from American official quarters, which kept the dollar-franc exchange from moving beyond gold point. One feature of the market was the late recovery in the forward franc, final discounts being rather lower on the day. In market circles the movement was attributed to speculative covering operations rather than to a genuine improvement in sentiment. The franc closed the day with a net depreciation of 1/16f. in terms of the £ at 7 55-64, the discount for three months being 4 5/16f., against 4 7/16f. on Thursday evening. Some support for the Spanish peseta was apparent following reports of a possible armistice, and the exchange improved from 59½ to 58½.

Financial News & Notes

DUBLIN STEADY

GUINNESS SUPPORTED

Markets closed on the Dublin Stock Exchange yesterday in extremely quiet fashion, but a steady to firm tone prevailed in most departments.

The Second National Loan declined to 116¼, but good buying put New Land Bonds 1½ points higher War Loan eased to 107⅛.

Banks attracted support and Hibernians and Nationals added fractions.

Following the recovery in Guinness late on Thursday evening the market opened here all buyers yesterday morning, and the units closed 2s. 6d. higher on the day.

The only movement in Rails was the fall of 17s. 6d. in Great Northern Ord.

Alliance Gas Ord. held 16½ and Todd Burns Deb. jumped 2s. 6d. to 82s. 6d.

Goodbody Ord. eased slightly and Irish Tanners Ord. relapsed to 5s. Goulding Pref. tended higher and Irish Dunlop Pref. and Irish Times 2nd Pref. marked small gains.

There was very little interest taken in British Industrials. Vickers Ord. recovered to 35s. 1½d. and Courtaulds Ord. changed hands at 54s., but Coats Ord. eased to 53s. 1½d.

LONDON BRIGHTER

GERMAN BONDS AGAIN HIGHER

There was little sign on the London Stock markets yesterday of the rather dull tendency which developed in several departments on the preceding day. Naturally, business remained on quiet lines immediately prior to the week-end, but favourable attention was directed to many issues, and as sellers were less in evidence quotations generally assumed an upward trend. Oil shares displayed renewed strength following the statement by the Chairman of the Standard Oil Company on the outlook for the industry, and all round firmness of Australian Government issues reflected the excellent Budget figures. German Bonds also showed to advantage, and a definitely harder tone characterised the Kaffir section.

BRITISH FUNDS.

Investment inquiry for gilt-edged stocks was extremely limited, but the market maintained a steady tendency throughout the session, and prices finished around previous levels. India stocks also moved narrowly, and closed unaltered.

FOREIGN BONDS.

Further buying of Germans was the outstanding point of interest among Foreign Bonds. The Dawes Loan attracted particular attention, and finally showed a rise of 2¼ at 67. The Young issue gained another 1¼ to 45. French Fours kept steady, and little alteration occurred in other Europeans. Among South Americans, Peru Corporations reacted owing partly to disappointment with the debenture interest payment and partly to profit-taking following the announcement. Far Easterns remained quiet, but Japanese Bonds closed higher.

RAILS.

Interest in British Rails was centred in Great Western Ord., which made a good recovery to 52½. Other issues were neglected, but prices, apart from shrinkages in London and North-Eastern Prefd. and Southern Defd., held up. San Paulo Ord., which attracted a fair measure of support, supplied a strong feature in the Foreign Rail section, where Cordoba Central 1st Debs. also advanced. A notable movement in Colonials was a fresh rise of ⅜ to 12⅜ in Canadas. American Rails became distinctly firmer, and point gains were recorded in Atchisons and Union Pacifics.

INDUSTRIALS.

Profit-taking, although on a reduced scale, was still in progress in Industrials, but support was offered on any reaction in values and in consequence the market displayed a firmer appearance. A feature in late dealings was renewed buying of Electrical Equipments, with Generals especially favoured. In the Brewery section, Guinness Units fluctuated irregularly, but after dropping to around 147s. 6d. they rallied, and eventually were only slightly lower on the day. Iron and Steels encountered support, and were mostly better at the close, while several of the leading Aviation issues made fresh headway. Motors were assisted by the favourable production figures, and tended to improve under the lead of Standards. A notable movement in the Miscellaneous group was a spurt in Murex. Trans-Atlantics, after a firm start, became easier, and finally were lower in places.

MINES.

Business in the Mining market showed little expansion, but there was slightly more activity in Kaffirs, and several issues in this section regained part of recent losses. West Africans remained quiet and showed little alteration, and nothing of importance transpired in other Gold shares. Copper shares continued under favourable influence of the quota decision, and Rio Tintos and Central Rhodesians registered fresh gains.

SLANE BRICK COMPANY

The annual general meeting of the Slane Brick Co., Ltd., was held at the company's offices, 44 Kildare street, Dublin, yesterday. Before proceeding with the business of the meeting, the members signified their sincere regret at the loss of the late Managing Director, Mr. Walter Conan, of whose lamented death they had heard with sorrow. The Chairman, Mr. George Nesbitt, explained the policy of the directors, pointing out that they were satisfied that the experimental and development stages through which the company had passed were now at an end, and they were in a position to supply the best bricks manufactured in this country. Quoting from the Advising Architect's report, the Chairman said: "If the product is maintained at its present high level there must be a ready sale for the bricks amongst the builders."

The members proceeded with the usual routine business, and thanked the Chairman for his efficient guidance of the company to its present position, and endorsed the general policy of the directors in their efforts to ensure the future success of the undertaking.

THE INDUSTRIAL MARKET

STANDARD MOTORS BRIGHT

Trading in the Industrial market remained on a small scale yesterday, and, although moderate support was noticeable in places, share values moved in rather irregular fashion. The undertone, however, was satisfactory.

The transatlantic counters reflected the uncertain trend of Wall street. Nickels dipped at one time to 55¼, but recovered eventually to 56⅜. U.S. Steels closed at 71, after 70¼. Radios gave way to 11⅛.

Cable and Wireless stocks remained neglected.

In the Cinema group, Gaumont-British issues receded.

MOTORS FIRM

A generally firm tone prevailed among the Motor issues, and Standards were finally 1s. 9d. to the good at 117s. 3d. Thos. Tillings, Leylands and Austins also showed gains.

Fresh support was in evidence for the leading Aircraft issues. De Havillands hardened to 75s., and Boulton and Pauls to 8s. 6d. Napiers were also supported.

Although a little support was noticeable for Electrical Equipments, they made a rather mixed showing. General Electrics recovered to 92s. 3d., but Callenders and Henleys finished easier. Electric Supply shares ruled fairly steady.

There was little fresh business passing in the Iron and Steel section, but the tone remained fairly steady. Tube Investments came in for further attention, and there were buyers about for Babcock and Wilcox.

Swan Hunter and the Colliery group generally presented a firm front.

Drapery and Stores issues continued firm, and Provision shares were steady, with Tate and Lyles a good feature.

TEXTILES QUIET.

The Textile group continued quiet, and Calico Printers were again rather dull. Among Rayons, Courtaulds were affected slightly by a few profit-taking sales.

Breweries showed no decided trend. Guinness gave way at first to 147s. 6d., but recovered later to 149s. Watney Defd. received quiet support.

In the Alcohol section, Distillers were a trifle harder.

Newspaper shares were mostly easier.

Bank shares moved within narrow limits, while Insurance issues still seemed rather undecided in their movements.

Shipping shares did not move to any appreciable extent.

An irregular tone was again apparent in the Miscellaneous section. British Oxygens were subject to moderate profit-taking, but Murex, on the other hand, came into renewed request on dividend expectations; but Imperial Chemical Ord. were slightly easier.

Cement issues were not materially altered, but Triplex Glass continued to attract support and appreciated to 121s. In the Chemist group, Beecham Defd. closed 1s. lower owing to some disappointment with the interim dividend.

OILS MAINLY FIRM

Firmness prevailed in the Oil share market at the start yesterday, encouragement being derived from the favourable views expressed in authoritative quarters regarding the American oil situation. Later, however, some nervous selling was encountered, which, coupled with a slackening of demand, caused an irregular tendency. Chief interest among the leaders centred on Shells, a steady local investment demand being accompanied by repurchases by Continental operators. The Eagle issues were rather less active than recently. Mexican Eagles finished with a loss of 6d., and Canadian Eagles eased to 18s. Firmness prevailed among Trinidad issues, and a strong feature was provided in other directions by British Borneos, which advanced to 17s. 6d. Otherwise, price changes were of little importance.

RUBBERS INACTIVE

Notwithstanding firmer conditions in the commodity section, where spot rubber improved to 7 11/16d. per lb., rubber shares yesterday were again practically neglected. The market, however, was distinctly steadier, as sentiment was more cheerful, and few sellers were in evidence. Djasinga, Telogoredjo, and one or two others of the better-class shares attracted modest support, but the few movements which occurred were unimportant. U.K. rubber stocks are estimated to have been reduced by 1,150 tons during the past week.

LONDON MINING MARKET

RECOVERY IN RAND GOLD SHARES

Most sections of the Mining Market yesterday were looking decidedly steadier than on the two preceding days, although it could not be said that trade was active.

So far as Kaffirs were concerned, there was a fair amount of investment buying of the dividend payers in progress. East Rand Props. came well to the fore, and Randfontein were also a notably firmer market. Government Areas were in demand on French account, and Crowns, largely owing to a similar influence, advanced.

The Far-Western Rand shares, however, after a firm start, had a depressed appearance in the final dealings.

Little of importance occurred in Diamond shares, but the Rhodesian market, on the whole, gave a better account of itself. The Copper shares were again notably good, a substantial turnover at rising levels being witnessed.

West Africans fluctuated in some instances, but actually little business was done in this market, and movements proved unimportant.

Australian and Miscellaneous Gold shares failed to attract much attention.

Tin shares were well maintained without, however, claiming a great deal of interest.

Another item of interest in this market was the quoting of Aramayo ex the capital return of 5 Swiss francs per share. Closing prices:—

FINANCIAL PARAGRAPHS

Rand Gold Output

Figures issued by the Transvaal Chamber of Mines show that the gold output of the Witwatersrand for August totalled 946,046 ozs., and of the outside districts 18,471 ozs., making a total of 964,517 ozs. Compared with the aggregate for July last, a decrease of 3,476 ozs. is shown, but an increase of 35,186 ozs. is apparent when compared with the result for August of last year. The daily average was 31,113 ozs. against 31,225 ozs. in July. The number of natives employed on the gold mines—294,556—shows an increase of 2,055 and sets up a record.

Oil Consumption

According to the President of the Standard Oil Co. of New Jersey, the consumption of oil will go on increasing until it reaches a point far in advance of previous standards, unless some outbreak of political passion, or unwise policies, lead to a renewal of the slump. He added that in 1935 the world production of crude oil exceeded the record output of 1929, while in 1936 it continued to increase even faster. This caused a certain amount of disquiet in America some time ago, but the remarkable growth in the consumption of motor fuel during the summer prevented the market from becoming unsettled.

Peruvian Corporation

Recent railway traffic of the Peruvian Corporation have encouraged the hope of better results, and it is now announced that a payment will be made on the 6 per cent. 1st Debentures on October 1 next of £4 per cent. As to £3, this will relate to the coupon due in October, 1933, and as to the balance to the instalment due on April 1, 1934. Under the moratorium interest on the Debentures is cumulative, but it is payable only to the extent to which earnings, in the opinion of the Debenture Holders' Committee, permit, while arrears carry interest at 6 per cent. In December last the scheme was extended and now runs to December 31, 1938. On October 1 a payment of £3 9s. was made, of which the odd shillings represented interest on arrears. As compared with the year's lowest price of 56 the Debentures have lately risen to 71½, while the Ordinary stock has moved up from 1⅞ to 3¼, and the Preferred from 9 to over 11.

U.S. Maize Crop Forecast

The low cotton crop forecast was followed by a maize crop forecast of 1,458,000,000 bushels, the smallest aggregate for the past fifty years. The August 1 forecast was 1,439,000,000 bushels. The wheat forecast is 630,241,000 bushels, against 633,000,000 bushels on August 1. On September 1 the condition of the maize was 40.5 per cent., and all spring wheat 31.2 per cent.

Philco Radio

In a circular to shareholders the directors of the Philco Radio and Television Corporation of Great Britain state they anticipate profits for the current year to exceed the £100,000 estimated in the offer for sale of June 25 last. In order to meet expanding business, they have decided to offer both Preference and Ordinary shareholders forthwith the 100,000 unissued 6 per Cent. Preference shares of £1 each at the price of 20s. 3d. per share. The new shares will rank pari passu with the existing Preference shares, and will receive a full six months' dividend, due January 1 next. In the event of oversubscription, allotments will be made pro rata to applications.

Baird Television

Baird Television, Ltd., has sent out a notice to shareholders stating that the completion of the audit of the accounts to June 30 last has been delayed. The directors have decided to alter the financial year of the company to end on June 30, instead of September 30. It is obligatory to hold a general meeting within 15 months of the last annual meeting, and the annual general meeting is, therefore, called for September 18, though the accounts and report cannot be included. The chairman will propose the adjournment of the meeting until October 16, when the accounts will be available. The delay in the audit is due, it is stated, partly to the alteration in the financial year and partly to the installation of apparatus at Alexandra Palace at short notice in order to transmit programmes to Radiolympia and to arrange demonstrations for shareholders.

Lena Gold Note Sale

Following the authorisation at the extraordinary meeting on Thursday of the Lena Goldfields directors' acceptance of the offer for the purchase of the U.S.S.R. notes, a circular has been issued to shareholders. This states that at the earliest possible moment a petition will be presented to the Court to sanction a reduction in the capital of the company and to approve the repayment to the shareholders of such part of the reduced capital as is no longer required by the company, either in the form of cash, equivalent to about 8½ per Lena share, or in the form of U.S.S.R. notes, to be held in trust for those shareholders who desire it in that way.

Aviation Alliance

A working agreement is being entered into between Super-Marine Aviation Works (Vickers) and British Marine Aircraft whereby the former will sub-contract with the latter until the end of the R.A.F. expansion period. By this agreement the works of British Marine Aircraft will be kept active on work for the Vickers company for a long time. Any contracts they cannot fulfil will be dealt with by the British Aircraft Manufacturing Company.

THE MONEY MARKET

TREASURY BILL RATE LOWER

The average indicated rate at which Treasury bills were allotted yesterday shows a slight fall from last week. It was approximately 10s. 6d., compared with last week's rate of 10s. 9.49d. Tenders for the full amount of £50,000,000 dated Monday to Saturday at £99 17s. 4d. received about 68 per cent. and above in full.

The price of gold resumed its decline in London with a fall of 1d. to 137s. 6½d. per fine oz. Only £102,000 was disposed of. The premium over the dollar remained unchanged at 1½d., but that over the franc narrowed to 9d. No bullion movements were reported at the Bank of England.

Silver prices, both for spot and for two months' forward delivery, remained unchanged at 19½d. per oz. in London.

THE FALLING FRANC.

The flight of French funds to foreign centres continued yesterday, though on a reduced scale. In the Foreign Exchange market business was on a moderate scale, while movements in rates were erratic. The relapse in the franc was resumed in the morning, and by the close of the day the currency was again at the low levels reached on Wednesday evening. The British authorities did not attempt to check the downward trend of the franc in relation to sterling, except perhaps shortly before the close. In the Paris market the dollar was still offered from American official quarters, which kept the dollar-franc exchange from moving beyond gold point. One feature of the market was the late recovery in the forward franc, final discounts being rather lower on the day. In market circles the movement was attributed to speculative covering operations rather than to a genuine improvement in sentiment. The franc closed the day with a net depreciation of 3/16f. in terms of the £ at 76.64, the discount for three months being 4 5/16f., against 4 7/16f. on Thursday evening. Some support for the Spanish peseta was apparent following reports of a possible armistice, and the exchange improved from 59½ to 58½.

DIVIDENDS AND REPORTS

Alliance and Dublin Consumers' Gas Company.—The directors' report for the half-year ended 30th June last is as follows, and figures for the same period of 1935 are given in parentheses:—The accounts submitted show a profit on the revenue account of £81,326 (£74,192), and, after providing for interest on Debenture stock and income tax, there remains the sum of £71,758 (£61,118), to which must be added a credit from interest amounting to £380 and the sum of £49,213 (£32,728), being the balance brought from last account, making a total of £121,352 (£94,752). The directors recommend the declaration of a dividend on the Consolidated Ordinary stock of the company at the rate of £8 (£7) per cent. per annum (this being the maximum statutory dividend permissible under our sliding scale provisions when gas is sold at the rate obtaining during the half-year concerned), less income tax, which will absorb the sum of £70,697 (£54,351), after which a balance of £50,654 (£40,436) will remain to be carried to the next account. The revenue account shows that £283,325 was received from sales of gas, £61,837 from rentals, £90,294 from residual products, and £5,686 from miscellaneous sources, making a total of £441,143. The expenditure side shows that the manufacture of gas cost £185,003, distribution £107,112, rents, rates and taxes £33,691, management £28,641, and miscellaneous £5,634, making the total expenditure £359,817.

Army and Navy Stores.—Interim dividend of 5d. per share, or 4⅛ per cent., less tax.

Beranang (Selangor) Rubber.—Dividend of 4 per cent., less tax (3 per cent.), on account of the year ended June 30 last.

Baird Audit Held Up.—The directors of Baird Television Ltd. have decided to alter the financial year of the company so that it will end on June 30, starting with this year. On account of this alteration and of the recent activities of the companies in completing at short notice the installation of apparatus at Alexandra Palace for transmission of programmes to the Radiolympia Exhibition and in arranging demonstrations for shareholders, matters which fully occupied the time of the directors and staff, the completion of the audit of the accounts to June 30th has been delayed. It is obligatory upon the company to hold a general meeting before September 20th, accordingly the annual general meeting will be held on Friday next, but the accounts, and consequently the report of the directors, cannot be included. At this meeting the chairman will propose that the meeting be adjourned until October 16th.

Commonwealth Bank of Australia.—The accounts of the Commonwealth Bank of Australia for the half-year ended June 30 last show that the profit from banking business amounted to £205,497, in contrast with £210,872 for the same half of 1935; while the profit from the rural credits department was £23,423, against £24,267, and from the note issue department £452,563, compared with £388,669. The directors have placed £102,749 to general banking reserve fund, and a like amount to National Debt sinking fund, as against £105,436 a year ago, while £11,711 has been transferred to rural credits reserve and a similar amount to development fund, in contrast with £12,133. The balance of £452,463 goes to the Commonwealth Treasury.

Commercial Bank of Australia.—Full report for the year to the end of June shows a slight expansion in net profits from £228,458 to £234,481. A sum of £90,810, against £63,712, is brought forward from the previous year, making a total of £325,290, out of which £25,000, compared with £20,000, has been placed to reduction of bank premises, and £92,347 required for Preference and Ordinary interims, leaving a balance of £207,943. The final payment on the Preference capital absorbs £42,347, and, as already announced, the directors propose a final dividend of 5-5/6 per cent. for the year, leaving £98,930 to go forward.

Coltness Iron Co.—Interim dividend on the Ordinary Shares of 9d per share, or 5 per cent. less tax.

Otavi Mines and Railway.—The report for the year ended March 31 last states that after writing off £24,203, against £11,289 in the preceding year, and crediting £5,000, against nil, to reserve, there remains a net profit of £107,170, compared with £50,101 for 1934-35, while a debit of £59,262 was brought in, leaving available £47,908. It is proposed to distribute £40,000, against nil, as a dividend, and to allocate £5,000 to welfare fund, leaving £2,908 to be carried forward.

Gillette Safety Razor.—Quarterly dividend of 25c. per share (same) on the Common Shares, also regular Preferred quarterly of $1.25 per share.

Ketton Portland Cement Co.—Final dividend of 6¼ per cent., less tax, on the Ordinary, making 10 per cent., less tax, for the year. The comparable dividend for the previous year was 7½ per cent., less tax. The payment of a 10 per cent. dividend on the £200,000 Ordinary share capital entitles the holders of 7½ per cent. Participating Preference shares to an additional ½ per cent., increasing their dividend to 8 per cent., less tax, for the year.

Mappin Stores (Brazil).—Trading profit and sundry income for the year ended February 29th last was £10,203, after providing £3,436 for depreciation, etc., against £13,244 for the previous year after allowing £3,234 for depreciation. Provision for exchange loss on conversion of floating assets absorbs £10,256, against £16,030, while reserve for loss on investments realised takes £449. These and other minor provisions total £11,281, which added to the debit of £147 brought in makes £11,428 to set against the year's profits, so that there is a debit balance of £1,225 to carry forward.

Qualcast, Ltd.—A record profit of £49,817 was earned for the year ended June 30th last. For the previous twelve months the figure was £45,240. With the balance of £62,309 brought in, there is an available total of £112,126, compared with £97,807 last year, when £52,567 was brought in. Income tax absorbs £10,221, against £7,056, directors' fees £1,525, compared with £1,330, and the staff bonus is raised from £1,330 to £5,758, dividends already paid account for £23,411, leaving a balance of £71,211 for disposal. The directors recommend a final dividend on the Ordinary shares of 15 per cent., together with a cash bonus of 5 per cent., both less tax (same). The final dividend and bonus require £14,297, leaving £56,913 to carry forward.

Rigby Cement.—Interim dividend of 4 per cent. is announced on the old Ordinary shares.

Rim (Malacca) Rubber.—Report to March 31 last shows net profit of £4,555 (£6,367), add £8,411 brought in, making £12,966. Dividend of 5 per cent., less tax (against a total of 7½ per cent. on original capital), absorbs £4,500, leaving £8,466 forward.

Rugby Portland Cement.—The directors of the Rugby Portland Cement Company recommend an interim dividend of 4 per cent. in respect of the year ending December 31 next. A distribution at the rate of 10 per cent. per annum was paid for the period from October 9, 1935, to December 31 last.

WOOL

GOOD DEMAND IN AUSTRALIA.

Competition was good at the wool sale at Newcastle (N.S.W.) yesterday. Bradford, French, German and Italian representatives all operated. Prices for best wool were firm, but faulty sorts irregular. The average prices obtained were 13½d. for greasy wool, 33d. for scoured 70/s, 32d. for scoured 64/s, and 30d. for good top-makers' sorts. Offerings, which formed an average to good selection, amounted to 2,240 bales, of which 1,520 were sold. Wool sold privately consisted of 312 bales.

CRAIGIE BROTHERS' WOOL SALE

Biddings were animated throughout, and the whole supply was cleared at an advance of fully ten per cent. on prices current at the previous sale.

THE AMERICAN MARKETS

UNEVENTFUL OPERATIONS

REUTER'S TELEGRAMS.

NEW YORK, Friday.

Important Wall street holders were not disposed to lighten their commitments to-day in view of the bright American industrial outlook, and the market ended slightly on the higher side after a turnover of 1,400,000 shares. Meanwhile the outcome of the Maine elections will undoubtedly be, it is said, the influence dominating the immediate trend of the Stock Exchange.

Indecision continued in the afternoon. Aviation issues turned stronger on expectations of large orders from the transportation concerns, while Entertainment stocks were also bought on the summer months' earnings exceeding expectations. Both the Rail and Motor sections were restricted and the Utilities were slow.

Better support for the market appeared in the later dealings and the close was firm. Gains of fractions to one dollar were recorded by the Aviation and Merchandising divisions, with a few of the pivotals elsewhere rising as much as three dollars. On the other hand, the Farm Implements section declined slightly.

Sterling exchange opened 1/16 up at 5.06 1/16, but declined during the morning to 5.06. The rate fell further to 5.05 15/16 in the afternoon, and finally closed 1/16 higher—compared with the previous close—at 5.05 31/32.

Silver was unchanged at 44⅞.

Cobb and his crew took their first world record of the present run when, with John Hindmarsh at the wheel, the 1,000 miles mark was passed at an unofficial average of 150.03 m.p.h. This meant that the car had been speeded up over the last 350 miles, for it beat the average speed of 156.47 set up by Jenkins on Monday.

JOHANNESBURG TO-DAY

IMPRESSIONS OF THE RAND CITY

WHERE EVERYONE MOVES QUICKLY

ONLY fifty years ago the Ridge of the White Waters was a barren strip of windswept veldt, writes Adele Lezard in "Gold Blast." It is very different now, for since that time £2,000,000,000 have been taken out of the same earth. The buildings that line the smooth asphalt streets are tall symbols of brick modernity. They rear upwards sharply, cutting impatiently into the horizon of dumps. They enclose behind discreet windows all the latest and newest devices for human comfort, whether it be commercial or domestic luxury.

The pavements below are thronged with beautiful women, who are able to buy from the city stores the most recent fashion in both clothes and cosmetics. The roads are crowded with America's most expensive automobiles, and the men who drive them smoke cigars and wear buttonholes, and often completely forget to notice the robot.

QUICK MOVEMENT

Everyone moves quickly, not only out of the way of the traffic, but also along the pavements and into the comparative safety of the buildings. There is business to be done, and it must always be done at once. It is here that Johannesburg will never be another London. It is too young, too quick, too eager. There is none of the slow dignity of England about this town. There is no "we will let you know in due course, sir," or "if you will communicate with us at your earliest convenience, madam," or "we would esteem it a favour if you would get into touch with our representatives." Such impressive procrastination is as unknown in Johannesburg as the Codex Sinaiticus. If there is anything to be done—and there always is—it must be done immediately. Not this afternoon, nor to-morrow, nor next week: but now.

The town is still young, and its virility is that of a young, ambitious man to whom anything is possible, and everything is worth attempting. This is no place for old habits or old conventions; only old men have an easy time. That is why, if a building is to be constructed or a frock bought, it is always the latest and very newest of its kind.

Energy, coupled with money, laughs at the idea of impossibility. Johannesburg is separated by thousands of miles of mountains, desert and sea from the rest of the progressive world; and yet all this world has to offer is within its reach, and this new town, younger by centuries than the far-off cities of the world, is more progressive.

DESIRE FOR NEW

There is not a new cocktail, a new dance, a new coiffure that does not come to Johannesburg. There is no price it will not pay to sample the wares of the world. There is no cost that will prevent it keeping the best, the latest, the newest, the biggest, to decorate its homes, fill its larders, equip its life . . . In the town there are cinemas which are more modern, more luxurious than any in London; there are night-clubs and poker-parties . . .

The homes of the Johannesburg people are lovely houses, built on the sides of the kopjes, sweeping down into the valleys, enclosing tennis courts, marking off golf-courses, edging the spacious grounds of one or another country club. And when quick night falls without waiting for a twilight, Johannesburg homes are brightly-lit places for dinner parties, where the liqueur might often be a clear white drink, in which fine pieces of pure gold hang in suspension until the glass is lifted, and the drink, with its decorative metal is swallowed. Gold liqueur. A symbol . . .

RIDING THE CROCODILE

FILM COMEDIAN'S THRILL

There was a Young Man of Australia
Who went for a Ride on a Crocodile.

It doesn't rhyme, and the ending, unlike the tiger story was quite happy for the young man, whose name was Alfred Frith, and whose job was to be funny with the crocodile in a film.

It merely illustrates the vicissitudes of a screen comedian's life, and it has just happened. The crocodile—a huge specimen—was caught on the Great Barrier Reef. Its jaws were roped, and it was given a passage on a small ship to a little island paradise, where a cinesound unit was "on location." Near the island the crocodile was thrown overboard and hauled ashore with ropes, whereupon Mr. Frith had to clamber on its back and "do his stuff."

The crocodile, however, proved so refractory that an expert had to be employed to knock its legs from under it each time it reared up preparatory to an attempt to knock Mr. Frith down with its powerful tail. Ultimately, the scene was shot successfully, and so was the crocodile. Mr. Frith lives to ride another crocodile another day—but only if absolutely necessary.

AUCTIONEERS' HUMOUR

BIDDING FOR A HOUSE

HUSBAND AND WIFE OPPOSED

WHEN the auctioneer roars from the rostrum he sometimes finds something else to roar about. For there are laughs galore where the hammer bangs.

The man with the perpetual wink who found to his surprise that he had bought a horse after a selling race is not alone in his troubles. Here are a few more samples of auctioneering and estate agents' humour, as told by a member of the Auctioneers' and Estate Agents' Institute.

What do you think of the auctioneer who, when a dealer left a table on his hands after a sale, called him a most un-com-for-table man?

At a Kensington sale, the auctioneer had sold some lots in the morning to a man on his right named Goff. In the afternoon the auctioneer knocked down a "lot" to a man on his left and asked the name. "Goff," was the reply, "you asked my name this morning; I was standing the other side."

"Ah!" said the auctioneer, "then we have had a round of 'golf' since this morning."

COAL HAMMER

An auctioneer on leaving his office one day to sell at the London Auction Mart—accompanied by an articled pupil—found on his way to the station that he had forgotten his hammer. He sent the rather dreamy pupil back for it. Judge his surprise when he saw the youth appearing on the platform with a large coal hammer!

Here is the reply of a Leeds lad to a school examiner who asked him what his father was: "Please, sir, he's a Yorkshireneer!" As for estate agents' humour, what price this—quoted from the Tuttlebury Tales:—

"The Tuttleburys recently experienced all the bliss and sorrows, the hopes and disappointments, the fierce joys and wild despairs of a change of residence when they left Leeds to come and live in our little county town of Fussington. When they first made up their minds to leave Leeds for the comparative quiet of a small market town, where they could enjoy all the benefits of country air without sacrificing the blessings of neighbourly sociability, they were a little undecided in what direction to make a move, until one morning after arriving at the office Tuttlebury spied the advertisement of a house to let in Ilkley, which appeared from the description given to fit him like a glove.

AT ILKLEY

"Gad! I'll go to look at it!" Tuttlebury exclaimed; and telling the office boy to say he had been called away out of town on grave family matters, he took the next train to Ilkley and called at the estate agent's office for the key to look over the house.

"Very sorry," said the agent, "but I've just had another client in who has gone to look at it now. Call again in half-an-hour."

"What's the rent?" asked Tuttlebury.

"Well, the last tenant paid £40," the agent answered; and then Tuttlebury went to see a friend, after telling the agent not to let the house to his other client until he, Tuttlebury, had seen him again, because he wasn't particular about paying extra if the house suited him.

And the house did suit him, too, when he saw it. Then he went back to the agent with the key, and the agent told him that his other client was very anxious to take the house and had offered him £45.

"I don't care," said Tuttlebury, "I want that house. I'll give you £50." And the agent saw he was on a good thing.

So Tuttlebury called again, and the agent said his other client had bid £60 rent rather than miss the house, so Tuttlebury said he would give him £65. The bidding got up to £80, then Tuttlebury gave in. He stamped out of the agent's office, took the first train back to Leeds, swore at the office boy and went back home to dinner as grumpy as a bear.

BAD LUCK

"Maria," he growled, "I've got the confoundest luck in the world—just missed the very house we're wanting."

"Oh! how fortunate," exclaimed Mrs. Tuttlebury, kissing his head.

"Fortunate," gasped Tuttlebury, "I'd have got that house right away if it hadn't been for some old fool who'd have sold his grandmother's spectacles to outbid me. The very house we want."

"Most fortunate," twittered Mrs. Tuttlebury, with a joyous little laugh, "because I've taken a house that will suit us so much better, such a dear, charming nest. I'm afraid the rent's rather high. You see, after you had gone to business this morning, Mrs. Scatterly showed me an advertisement of a house to let at Ilkey. I'd have got it much cheaper if somebody else hadn't been after it, but I took it at last for £80, on the understanding I would confirm it at once."

Tuttlebury went out into the garden, kicked the cat over the fence, pulled up sixteen stalks of brussels sprouts, then decided that Ilkey would hardly do as the train service did not suit!

INTERNATIONAL TOURIST ASSOCIATION

From the 14th to 20th September the General Assembly of the International Tourist Association will be held at Monte Carlo. Ninety-four of the most important tourist organisations of the world have joined the Assembly and fifty-one nations will be represented.

COMPLETE WORKS OF AMUNDSEN

The complete works of Amundsen, the famous Arctic explorer, are being brought out by the publishing house of the Northern Sea Route Administration in Leningrad. The first volume deals with Amundsen's flights to the Arctic. It includes the explorer's impressions of his airplane flight to the 88th degree, and his flight from Europe to America in the dirigible "Norway." The third volume deals with Amundsen's trip in the vessel "Maud" and the fifth contains "My Life." The same publishing house is also to bring out an edition of the works of Fridtjof Nansen, in seven volumes.

SOVIET FILMS FOR PARIS

A series of short sound films are now being made by the Soviet Technical Film Trust for showing at the Soviet Pavilion of the International Exhibition, to be held in Paris next year.

One of the films shows the experiments in genetics of the late Academician, I. P. Pavlov. Another film will be on the subject of motherhood and childhood in the Soviet Union. Some of the shots for this film are being taken in the Leningrad Institute for the Protection of Mother and Child. A third film will deal with the work of the All-Union Institute of Experimental Medicine.

SMOKING—FOR MEN ONLY

The Victorian Railways, Australia, are the latest to bow to the inevitable. Because of the increase in the number of women smokers, the commissioners have just increased the smoking accommodation in the privileged "parlour car" of their crack Melbourne to Sydney express. But, with one pen stroke, they get one back for men, and simultaneously establish a progressive precedent. The small saloon of the coach is now sacrosanct to "smoking—for men only."

Six of the crew of twelve of the Norwegian whaler Solhagen are feared to have lost their lives in the wreck of the vessel off Robben Island, to the north of Table Bay, South Africa.

DRAW AT SCARBOROUGH

When Hendren was fifth out at 145 and Leveson Gower's XI. led by only 37, the position suggested that India would finish the first-class season with a victory at Scarborough. Batting strength down to the last man brought about such a change that the second half of the side added 184, and India were set the almost impossible task of hitting off 222 runs in two hours and a half. Score:—

Leveson Gower's XI 225 (Sutcliffe 94 and J. Khan 4 for 42), and 329 (C. S. Dempster 51, Smith 52, J. Khan 4 for 92).

India 333 (Mustaq Ali 140, B. Townsend 3 for 461, and 146 for 5 (Mustaq Ali 74, Gover 3 for 44).

SUCCESSFUL DUBLIN SHEEP SALE

Over 5,000 sheep were forward for Messrs. Gavin Low's 68th great annual sale in the Dublin Cattle Market yesterday. It was the largest and best gathering of sheep this season, and included the annual draft of Border Leicester cross hoggets from Mr. A. L. Denis which attracted much attention, and realised the top price of the sale, 40/-. A consignment of pure-bred black-faced horned ewes from Mr. Acton made from 30/6 to 33/6. The attendance of buyers was large and representative, including several from Northern Ireland, and bidding was brisk for all best quality lots. With the exception of a few pens of black-faced horny ewes a complete clearance was made. The following are the quotations in the various sections:—Cross-bred ewes from 26/- to 34/6, Galway ewes from 30/- to 38/-, Cheviots 26/- to 38/-, black-faced hornys 15/- to 23/-, lambs (including Cheviots) 16/- to 26/-.
